Auto License Plate Sale to Start Nov. 15, Richards Announces

C. I. Richards, deputy motor vehicle registrar, said today that his office is beginning to lay plans for the 1958 re-registration of motor vehicles which begins this year on November 15 rather than October 1 as in prior years. Joseph L. Donovan, secretary of state, sponsored a bill in the Legislature which changed the registration law so that motor vehicle taxes may be paid without penalty before they actually become due. Accordingly, 1958 taxes will become payable and new plates will be issued beginning November 15 on which date the new plates may be attached immediately.

The first penalty date will be January 11 when $1 extra will be assessed. On January 21, an additional $1 will be added and on February 1 an additional 50 cents making a total penalty of $2.50 maximum. Vehicles not used on the streets or highways from January 1 until sometime after April 1 and not re-registered until after April 1 will not be subject to penalty although the full year's tax must be paid. In order to receive that concession, the owner must establish evidence of non-use to the satisfaction of the department.

Richards urges all motor vehicle owners to apply for their registration plates early since it will be illegal, under the law, for anyone to operate their car with 1957 plates after January 10, 1958. If an owner has applied for his plates by that date, he can then operate the vehicle with 1957 plates until March 1. By applying early, the owner will not only avoid the last-minute rush but will have ample opportunity to attach his plates before severe weather sets in and have them on his car by January 1.

The local deputy registrar said that tax rates for passenger automobiles, farm trucks, under 27,000 pounds gross weight, and miscellaneous classes, will remain the same as last year; however, commercial trucks having a gross weight in excess of 27,000 pounds will be subject to increases set forth in a new law enacted during the 1957 session.

Richards said that he had not yet received complete shipment of 1958 license plates but they will be delivered in ample time prior to November 15. The numbering system for passenger automobile plates will remain the same as in 1956 with the letters 9G assigned to the Thief River Falls office.

The motor vehicle license office is located in the basement of the Union State Bank.

Natural Gas Is Topic at C. C. Dinner Session

Chamber Acts on Plea for Support of U. S. Flood Aid

Addressing the Chamber of Commerce at a well attended meeting Thursday evening in the Elks club rooms, Ray Harrison, president of the Peoples Natural Gas Co. of Omaha, a division of Northern Natural Gas Co., told of his company's intention to ask the city council for a franchise to serve Thief River Falls in the event the Federal Power commission rules in favor of his firm and against the Midwest Gas Transmission Co., with which firm the council had previously entered into a tentative agreement.

Other speakers at Thursday's meeting included State Senator Roy E. Wiseth and Rep. Ben Wichterman, who told of difficulties encountered in securing release of funds which they said had been appropriated by Congress for flood relief to farmers in Penington, Red Lake, Marshall and other counties in this area.

Wiseth charged Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson with defying the intent of Congress, and criticized the Minnesota ASC chairman, who also heads the state disaster committee, for setting up obstacles in the way of distributing the funds.

At the request of the officials, the chamber adopted a resolution calling on the state disaster committee and the Minnesota congressional delegation to do all in their power to expedite distribution of any money that may be available in order to help farmers prepare their fields for next year's crops. Wiseth stated that Pennington county farmers affected by floods are due to receive approximately $220,000, with comparable amounts going to the other counties.

In his address Mr. Harrison, who was introduced by Don L. Olson, chamber president, stated that by the end of 1957 his company will be serving 800 communities, including many in Southeastern Minnesota. Thief River Falls, he said, would be served by a projected pipeline from Minneapolis to Grand Forks.

Harrison said that if his company is granted a franchise here, it would install its own distribution system at a cost of approximately $600,000, and would be one of the heavier local taxpayers. In response to a question, he stated that natural gas is not dangerous if handled properly, and that it is not poisonous.

Fall Brings Frost To NW Minnesota

The first heavy frost of the new fall season which started Sunday, put in an appearance this morning as the temperature reached a new low to date with a 27 reported by KTRF.

By and large the "frozen dew" was welcomed by everyone except home gardeners and flower fanciers.

Hunters, especially, will appreciate the frost stripping foliage from the underbrush after experiencing one of the most difficult opening days in years due to recent heavy precipitation which made a lake of every depression in the ground and made every bush and tree a shower bath for the nimrods in their search for grouse.

Many farmers, too, have expressed the belief that skies would not clear until colder weather's arrival. Much of the 1957 crop is still in the swath and sprouting badly while the skimpy flax crop remains mostly untouched because of the incessant rains of the late summer months.

Temperature since Thursday ranged from a high of 53 Sunday to this morning's 27. Highs, generally, were in the fifties and the lows were in the mid-thirties.

A total of .15 inches of precipitation was reported by KTRF.

The forecast for today is pleasant — mostly fair today and tonight but ending on a sour note, as skies will be overcast Tuesday and light showers are expected.

Temperatures will be higher tonight, dropping again Tuesday evening. Winds will be northwesterly, 10-15 m.p.h. today, becoming southerly 15-20 tonight and shifting to northwesterly again Tuesday. Good drying conditions will prevail today with highs 55-60 and lows tonight 38 to 42. The Wednesday outlook is for cooler weather.

Eben Mostue, Once of TRF, Is Killed in Train Mishap

Soo Line Conductor Dies in Freight Car Accident Near Moose Lake Friday

Eben Mostue, 53, of Superior, Wisconsin, Soo Line conductor formerly of Thief River Falls and a brother of George Mostue of this city, was killed early Friday morning in a freight train mishap at Denham, near Moose Lake, Minnesota.

The accident occurred when a flat car loaded with steel rails was being hooked on to the train. The car collided with sufficient force to throw Mostue to the ground, landing on his head and causing his death.

Funeral services for Mostue were conducted today (Monday) at the First Lutheran church with Rev. Otto Dale officiating. Interment was made in the Greenwood cemetery.

Mostue was born February 14, 1904, in Winsor, Minn., and at the age of 12 years moved with his parents to this city where he attended school and grew to manhood. In 1922 he started working for the Soo Line and worked out of this city for 15 years, and then he was transferred to Duluth with his headquarters in Superior.

Survivors include one sister, Grace; three brothers, George, Amos and John; three nieces and three nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents.

Last Rites Are Conducted for Daniel Reinestad

Funeral services for Daniel Reinestad were conducted Saturday, September 21 at the Silver Creek Lutheran church with Rev. James Peterson officiating. Interment was made in the church cemetery. Mr. Reinestad passed away September 19, at the age of 87 years.

Daniel Reinestad was born November 25, 1869 in Saterdal, Norway where he was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and grew to manhood. In 1893 he came to the United States and settled near Grand Forks. In 1900 he moved to Agder township, Marshall county where he homesteaded for several years and for the past 20 years he has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moe of rural Thief River Falls. He was a charter member of the Silver Creek Lutheran church.

The Gulbranson Mortuary has charge of arrangements. A complete obituary will appear in the next issue of the Times.

Rondorf Family Reunion Was a Really Big Affair

A reunion of the Willie Rondorf family in July was really a big event, as the above picture proves. Here with Mr. and Mrs. Rondorf are all of the thirteen Rondorf children, several sons and daughters-in-law, and 19 grandchildren. Four of the children are home, Beverly, Sylvia and Leonard attending school, and Rollie working with his father in the operation of the farm.

Three sons have their own farm operations in the area, LaVern farms northwest of Thief River Falls, Eugene south of the airport, and Alvin south of his father's farm. And two of the daughters are married to local farmers, Marcella being Mrs. Clifford Jorde, north of Thief River Falls, and Blanche, Mrs. Herb Goethe, east of the city.

Two daughters are in Portland, Oregon, Deloris, now Mrs. Clarence Stupek, and Ardellis, employed in that city. Another daughter, Millicent, is Mrs. Allan Paulson, whose husband is in the grain inspection service at Glenwood.

William Jr., in uniform at the left in the picture, had just completed his two-year tour of duty for Uncle Sam, having served with the engineers in Germany. He is now employed in Thief River Falls.

Seated in front of Mr. Rondorf in the picture is Mrs. Rondorf. She was Mathilda Henrichs, born in Red Lake county. Six of the children were born to a previous marriage to Marie Anton, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hans Anton. She died in 1927.

Mr. Rondorf's father, Henry Rondorf, was born in Wisconsin and came to the St. Hilaire community in the late '80s, driving in with his team of horses from Crookston. He bought a farm southeast of St. Hilaire and in 1890 was married to Anna Geske. To this union five children were born, all of them still living.

No attempt is being made to identify the members of the family in the above picture. Grandpa Rondorf, our source of information, frankly admitted he would have some difficulty supplying all of the names, especially that numerous group in the front row. Since this picture was taken two more grandchildren have been born.

Mahnomen County Agent Wins Award

Oscar Nelson Honored Last Week in Boston

Two veteran county agents from Minnesota were honored last week for their service to farm families. Oscar Nelson, Mahnomen, Mahnomen county agent, and Henry Hagen, Walker, Cass county agent, received distinguished service awards from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents at the organization's annual meeting in Boston, Mass.

Nelson has been in county extension work for 19 years, eight of which have been in Mahnomen county. He is a native of Iowa, graduated from Iowa State college in 1930, then worked in Iowa until joining the Minnesota Agricultural Extension service as an assistant agent at large in 1936.

He then served in Cass county for four years, was in Beltrami county for two and was Wabasha county agent for three years. From 1943-48, he helped operate a beef and sheep farm.

Working in cooperation with managers and owners of beef and sheep herds, Nelson has helped improve livestock breeds. He is recognized as an authority on sheep and has promoted better rams and the value of proper feeding and management of sheep flocks in Mahnomen county.

He has also helped farmers in insect and rodent control, in planting shelter belts and has worked with local youth in 4-H work. He was particularly active during the 1954 army worm outbreak, in advising farmers on ways to bring that pest under control.

Surveys indicate that farm families are more likely to have adequate diets than village and city families of the same size.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

Mrs. Clardina Terrian and Mrs. Olga Eklund returned Friday after spending two weeks visiting friends and relatives in Pelican Lake, Montevido, Granite Falls, Chisago City and Minneapolis.

WASHINGTON Quiz

Q Did the postal increase measure pass this session of the 85th Congress?

A No. The measure passed the House and was in the midst of hearings in the Senate when adjournment came: The bill can be taken up at the next session, at the point it was left in this session.

Q It seems our relations with Egypt have deteriorated since we refused to go through with our agreement to finance the Aswan dam on the Nile River. Can you give me the terms of that agreement?

A The United States and Great Britain assured Egypt Dec. 16, 1955, of financial assistance to start construction of the $1.3 billion high dam on the Nile at Aswan. They offered Egypt an initial grant of $70,000,000 of which the U. S. Share would be $56 million and Britain would put up $14 million in blocked sterling (money owed to Egypt by Britain for goods and services during and after World War II.) U. S. and Britain also said they would consider favorably additional grants and loans to help pay for the final phase of construction. Decision of the Western powers to go ahead was speeded by a Soviet offer to finance the dam. "Substantial agreement" on a $200 million loan to Egypt from the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development was announced Feb. 9, 1956. The plan called for Egypt to spend $900 million of its local and foreign currencies. The remaining $400 million in foreign currencies was to be obtained from the World Bank and western powers, particularly the U.S.A. and Britain. Egypt estimated the dam would make possible reclamation of 2 million acres through irrigation of the desert, supply 10 billion kwh of electricity annually, and save millions of dollars by flood control and regulation of the flow of water.

Q Has the post office department come up with any protection for postmen against dog bites?

A Not that has been published. In May of 1956 the department announced that 3,880 mailmen had been bitten by dogs in the year previous. They were considering a number of repellants, including chemicals, but nothing definite has been adopted.

Football Prowlers Whip E. G. Forks 26-7

Coach Joe Mrkonich's football Prowlers scored their second successive district conference win when, on Thursday night, they defeated East Grand Forks, 26 to 7, in a game played on the UND Memorial Stadium field. The local squad will move out the district this week when they travel to Roseau for an afternoon game against the Rams Friday.

Dave Rasmussen and Dave Hanson, scoring two touchdowns apiece, led the Prowlers in their "solid" win over the Little Green Wave. Rasmussen, on a pair of running plays, scored in the 1st and 4th periods; while Dave Hanson, taking a pair of passes from his cousin Phil Hanson, scored in the 2nd and 3rd period. Jim Bennes added the conversion, on a running play, in the first period; and Mickey Hanson, also on a rush, added the point in the 4th period.

Rasmussen

Hanson

The Prowlers, defending the north goal, took the game-opening kickoff, with Bennes making an 18-yard return to the Prowlers' 33-yd. line. Running their plays with a crispness and fine timing, the Prowlers racked up four first downs, to the East Side 14-yard line. Lynn Nicholson, on some sparkling running around the left side, made the big gain of the sequence, carrying the ball from the East Side 33-yard to the 14-yard line. Nicholson circled left end for 8 yards; added a yard at right guard; and then Rasmussen powered thru the line for the touchdown. Bennes, on a slant off left tackle, added the point.

The Prowlers second touchdown came as the result of a 99½-yard drive. Perry Blanchette, on a punt from midfield, kicked to the Prowlers' 1-foot line, the rolling ball being downed there. Four first downs carried to the East Grand Forks' 36-yard line. Phil Hanson then hit Dave Hanson with a touchdown-scoring pass. A fumble smeared the try for the conversion point, and the Prowlers held a 13 to 0 half-time lead.

Early in the second half, the Prowlers Stan Torgerson partially blocked Blanchette's punt, the ball going out-of-bounds on the East Side's 47-yard line. With Rasmussen carrying the ball on four successive plays, the hard-running Prowler left half brought the pigskin to the Green Wave's 27-yard line. Dave Hanson then picked off a pass, on the 15-yard line, and angled for the end zone, outrunning the East Side defender to cross the north goal line for a touchdown.

The locals fourth touchdown was the result of a drive that started on the Prowlers' 33-yard line, with five first downs culminating, in Rasmussen's six-yard touchdown sprint. Mickey Hanson hit right tackle for the point, giving the Prowlers a 26 to 0 lead.

The East Siders averted a shut-out when they scored in the final minute of play. A fumble gave the Green Wave possession in midfield, and two first downs, with Dale Piker completing passes to Dick Raymond and Gary Olson; carried the ball to the 13-yard line. A runnig play gained three yards, and a pair of passes were incomplete. On 4th down, with seven to go, Blanchette threw a pass to Olson, who made the catch in the end zone for a touchdown. The touchdown was scored with but 32 seconds of the game remaining. Blanchette added the point on a line plunge.

Confiscated Guns Are Sold Sept. 14

A public auction of confiscated guns, fishing tackle and other sporting equipment, held by the Minnesota division of game and fish in St. Paul, Saturday, Sept. 14 netted $7,306, reports Joseph Pietach, in charge of receipts.

A record crowd, estimated at between 2,000 and 3,000 people attended the auction where 200 sporting items went on the block.

"We consider this a very successful auction," commented Ted Fischbach, supervisor of confiscations. "The crowd was orderly and interested, which help made the affair a success."

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The 23-dollar "Horse"

In the third flight competition in the city golf tournament, Jack Edmiston, a 23-dollar "horse" (that's the amount of money it took to purchase Jack in the Calcutta aucion) upset all the pre-tournament predictions by defeating Don Olson in the finals. Wining the third flight championship brought a payoff of $79.00 to Jack's "owners."

Jack, who had been entered in third flight to provide "fodder" for such fast pacing golfers as L. L. Tygeson, Russ Embury, Gordy Reierson and Elmer Benson, apparently resented this belittlement. Jack, in a first round match, eliminated a 36-dollar "horse," Tygeson; in the semi-finals he bested Red Benson; and in the finals he took the measure, which was ample, of Olson.

That victory, which was worth a considerable sum, also provided a touch of revenge for Jack. During the season, in the stag night foursome—Olson, Embury, Tygeson, and Edmiston — Jack, without fail, proved to be the host at the dinners. It became a habit for Jack to be "stuck" for the meal.

Embury, the top-heavy favorite, was so disgusted with his loss to Olson in the semi-finals, that he left for the Netley marshes of Manitoba and some duck hunting. That trip didn't prove very satisfying either, for he returned on Friday night.

All of the boys in the third flight graciously accepted defeat except Embury, who, when questioned, snarled, "Don Olson, if he lives to be as old as John Curtis, will never again make three such shots as those he made against me last week." End of quote.

The Roll of Honor

Greater love and affection for the game of golf has no man than these, the thirty-two golfers who participated in the annual "Snowball Special" shortstop tournament played over the local course on Sunday. In spite of the warnings of the possibility of contracting Asiatic flu, these golfers, and we'll recite their names, braved the unruly elements, elements that included rain and drizzle, and forty-degree chill. Here's the roll call, and these names should merit nomination to golf's Hall of Fame: Wes Zeman, Ralph Anderson, Al Jensen, Larry Perkins, John Matchefts, George Charboneau, Ray Krueger, Phil LeGault, Stan Larson, Orry Gulson, Lyle Hornbacher, Clarence Foy, Pete Simonson, Harvey Peterson, George Lennon, and Lambert Doll, all of whom were in the championship flight.

The second flight was comprised of Sig Sonju, Irv Lee, Norb Arnoldy, Emil Larson, Wes Johnson, Eli Kiene, Charles Greenlaw, and Doug Tegtmeier. And in the third flight were Phil Hornbacher, Arne Lee, Chuck Wilcox, Gordy Corby, Elmer Zachar, Phil Meyer, D. Eckwall, and Don Olson.

Explanations, Please?

We, after putting up four one-dollar bills and some small silver, obtained our game-bird hunting license one day last week. That license contained a wetlands stamp and a duck stamp, and we haven't any objections to paying those fees. It is probable, though, that the farmers up in these parts aren't very sympathetic with the state's wetlands program, and for good reason.

In glancing over the migratory waterfowl regulations, the seasons and the limits, we noticed that our flyway has a four-ducks per-day limit. And that's fair enough. But then we noted the daily goose limit, and that figure was five-per-day. What kind of reasoning and research motivated a limit like that?

According to the law of logic the conclusion to be made is that there are more geese than there are ducks, and a ratio of five to four. And that's silly.

And if there aren't more geese than there are ducks, then this five-geese-per-day is privileged legislation. It will be to the benefit of the exclusive goose clubs that "harvest" the geese along the Illinois and Mississippi rivers.

When the Fish and Wildlife Service comes out with some such regulation as five geese per day, well, it creates cynicism among the sportsmen, and it develops skeptics of many of us.

Snowball Special Was Finale of Golf Season

It was typical "Snowball Special" weather as the local golf club was host to its season-ending shortstop golf tournament played here on Sunday. The threatening early-morning weather held the entry list down to thirty-two golfers.

Grafton's Lambert Doll produced a minor upset by scoring a 1-up win over Grand Forks' classy southpaw golfer, Wes Zeman, in the championship flight finals.

The local club's Stan Larson won the championship flight consolation honors be defeating Ray Krueger of Grand Forks.

In the championship flight play, Doll defeated George Lennon in a first round match, and in a second round encounter he eliminated Harvey Peterson. In the semi-finals, Doll edged out Grand Forks' Clarence Foy, and in the finals, and by winning the 9th hole, Doll won the title by defeating Zeman.

Zeman, in the upper bracket, defeated Detroit Lakes' Ralph Anderson in a first round match. In the second round, Zeman beated the local club's Larry Perkins, winning by a 1-up margin; and in semi-finals, Zeman defeated the local club champion, Johnny Matchefts, 1-up, in a 10-hole match.

In the championship finals, Zeman evened the score on the 7th hole, when Doll carded a double-bogie six. On the 8th hole, Zeman three-putted to halve the hole with fours. On the match-deciding 9th hole, both golfers were on in four, with Zeman having a fifteen-foot putt, and Doll a three-footer.

Zeman pushed his putt four feet past the pin, and when he missed coming back, Doll won the match by dropping his short try.

Taxpayers Unit Asks Property Tax Reform

Charles P. Stone, General Counsel of the Minnesota Taxpayers association, told the taxation and fiscal policy sub-committee of a "Let the People Speak" forum in Minneapolis recently that the most glaring defects in the inequitable and patchwork tax structure in Minnesota are in the property tax field. Representatives of industry, business and trade organizations also voiced similar sentiments.

Mr. Stone suggested the following corrective measures:

1) Valuing all classes and items of property at 100 percent of market value, as the statutes provide, or changing the statutory definition of the assessor's true and full value to the percentage standard of value actually being used. "Until this is done," Stone said, "there will never be even a close approximation to uniformity and equality."

2) Eliminating or at least simplifying the property classification law, which now provides for some 13 classes of property, with 10 different percentages ranging from 5 to 50 percent, applied to assessor's true and full value to determine assessed value.

3) Abolishing the personal property tax on household goods.

4) Eliminating entirely from the personal property tax base farm livestock, farm machinery and agricultural products in the hands of the producers.

5) Also eliminating from the tax base manufacturers' raw materials, goods in process and finished goods, and stocks of merchandise of wholesale and retail merchants. "This would encourage the growth and expansion of established business and industry," Stone said.

6) Persuading the State to look elsewhere for the tax revenues it now receives from the State mill levy on property and leaving this exclusively to the local taxing districts.

"None of these suggested corrective measures is new or novel," Stone said. "Most of them can be found in the recommendations of one or more of the various tax study commissions or committees which have been appointed over the years. My organization has been advocating their adoption for many years."

Stone then pointed out that if these corrective measures are taken, some new method of raising revenue will have to be found to replace that lost by reason of elimination of the personal property tax on household goods and farm and business inventories. "But if these measures will help to encourage the expansion of business and industry in the State, thereby creating more jobs and higher pay for our citizens and enhancing our economic growth, the long range benefits to all of the people of the State would appear to justify such action," Stone said.

Loose Housing Means Saving to Dairyman

A farmer planning to remodel his dairy barn can, on the average, reduce his labor by 12 percent and cut his shelter cost by a third if he chooses a loose housing setup for the herd.

But whether this is a wise choice for an individual farmer depends on how good a feeding and management job he does and how he plans his work habits, a University of Minnesota agricultural economist said today.

Speaking at the Dairy Products Institute on the St. Paul campus, S. A. Engene said feeding and herd management are much more important than building arrangement. Barn type itself has no effect on feeding efficiency. That means a well-arranged conventional barn would still be more efficent in the long run than an average loose housing setup.

Loose housing for dairy cattle means letting the cows run loose in a shed or barn, usually with one side of the building open, and putting the cows in stalls only at milking time.

Engene explained that feed alone makes up more than half of the total cost of keeping a cow for a year, based on average figures in recent years on southern Minnesota dairy farms. Labor makes up about a third of the annual costs and shelter amounts to about 5 percent after the initial cost.

Engene said that milk quality can be high with loose housing, but if the farmer is careless, quality is lower than with a conventional barn. One important advantage of loose housing, he added, is that it makes it easy to vary the herd size. Herds in loose housing can be easily be added, and a milking parlor will handle a wide range in herd size.

Minnesota Real Estate Dealers to Meet in St. Paul

Outstanding realty personalities from all corners of the nation will be featured during the course of the three-day convention of the Minnesota Association of Realtors at the Hotel St. Paul, St. Paul, October 3-4-5. Members of the association have extended an invitation to all licensed realty brokers and sales people to participate in their deliberations, which are expected to attract more than 400 business representatives.

During the course of the session, there will be panel discussions on real estate sales, farm and resort sales, commercial and industrial leasing and sales, appraising, tax and legal aspects of realty transactions, and financing of the sale.

The State of Minnesota will lend its major official talent to the convention in Governor Orville Freeman and a list of state department heads including James W. Clark, commissioner of business development; L. P. Zimmerman, commissioner of highways; and Elmer Borgschatz, director of real estate licensing for the commissioner of securities.

Good Demand Seen for Farm Products

Abundant Supplies Tend to Retard Price Rise

Thanks to a high level of consumer income and record employment, farm products should stay in strong demand in 1958.

But only a light increase in farm income is expected because most farm products will still be in abundance.

This farm outlook analysis comes from Hal Routhe and Ermond Hartmans, extension agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota.

Gross national product—total output of goods and services measured in dollars—should increase in the immediate future, according to the economists. It jumped to an estimated $434 billion in 1956 and present prospects are for a further increase to about $448 in 1958.

There are three main things behind this situation, the economists say.

1. Government spending is high. Outlays in 1957 are estimated to be about $7 billion above 1956 and will be $4 billion higher in 1958. National defense, federal highways and farm programs make up the big expense items. State and local expenditures will also be higher.

2. For the 17th year in a row, consumer expenditures will again set a new record this year. Largest part of the increase is in food and services.

3. Private and net foreign investing will change little in 1957 and '58. There is an expected slight decline for 1957, but the trend should be upward in 1958.

Fire Losses in U. S. for August Hit $78 Million

Estimated fire losses in the United States during August amounted to $78,364,000, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported last week.

According to Lewis A. Vincent, NBFU's general manager, this $78,364,000 loss represents an increase of 4.6 per cent over losses of $74,930,000 reported for August, 1956, and an increase of 0.7 per cent over losses of $77,814,000 for July, 1957.

Losses for the first eight months of 1957 now total $706,333,000, an increase of 6.8 per cent over the first eight months of 1956, when they amounted to $661,083,000.

Chicago Banker Heads U. S. Legion

John Gleason Elected at Atlantic City Convention

John S. Gleason Jr., a Chicago banker and decorated Pacific Theater veteran of World War II, Thursday was overwhelmingly elected national commander of the American Legion.

Naming of the 42-year-old Gleason to head the 2,800,000-member veterans organization was the last order of business for the legion's 39th annual convention in Atlantic City, N. J.

Gleason, a native Chicagoan who now lives in suburban Winnetka, Ill., with his wife and six sons, is vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago.

The delegates unanimously elected the Rev. Feltham S. James, a Methodist clergyman from Charleston, S. C., as their national chaplain and selected by acclamation these five vice commanders:

Ramon R. Gaux, San Juan, Puerto Rico; Isadore Levin, La Porte, Ind.; Lee A. Lemons, Riverside, R. I.; Harry W. Miller, Fayetteville, W. Va., and William Cottrell, Honolulu.

F. D. Roosevelt Memorial Dinner Set for Sept. 28

More than 800 persons from throughout the state are expected to attend the Young DFL first annual Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial Dinner, September 28, at the Hotel Leamington, according to YDFL State Chairman George Robinson of Windom, Minnesota.

Senator Frank Church of Idaho, who at 33 is the youngest member of the United States Senate, will be the guest speaker. He serves on two Senate Committees— Interior and Insular Affairs and Post Office and Civil Service. The youthful Senator was elected in November, 1956.

Other prominent "Young Democrats" to speak at the dinner will be Gov. Orville L. Freeman, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, and Dr. Wm. Kubicek, DFL State Secretary and first state chairman of the Minnesota Young Democratic-Farmers-Labor group.

"Dinner tickets at $10 each are available by writing the DFL State Central Committee office, 6 East Franklin Avenue, Minneapolis," Paul Thatcher, FDR dinner chairman said.

"A man asked to define the essential characteristics of a gentleman — using the term in its widest sense — would presumably reply, "The will to put himself in the place of others; the horror of forcing others into positions from which he would himself recoil; the power to do what seems to him to be right, without considering what others may say or think."

—John Galsworthy

Saving a Billion Dollars

Secretary of Defense Wilson has ordered another reduction of 100,000 men in the armed forces. He estimates that this cut along with the similar reduction ordered in July, and a substantial reduction in the civilian payroll, will save the government a billion dollars. He also stated that this reduction can be made "without impairment of our national security."

The important reason for such action, Wilson explained, is the fact that the government is pinched for money. The national debt is so close to the 275 billion dollar limit fixed by Congress that the government has little borrowing power left. Under the circumstances spending must be curtailed.

It is encouraging to know that the debt limitation is actually accomplishing some good. Governments, like individuals, can economize when they must, but like most of us individuals, they seldom do until forced to. Unlimited easy credit is more evil than good.

Keep It As It Is

A special committee of the Minnesota statehood centennial commission has voted, two to one, to recommend to the commission that the controversial cross is the official centennial emblem be deleted. The emblem, containing the cross, had been officially adopted. Demands for the deletion of the cross were based on the grounds that it is offensive to some religious groups.

May be it was a mistake to include the symbol of a particular religious faith in an emblem of this kind, but now that it is there we think it would be a much more serious error to delete it. We believe therefore that the commission should adopt the committee report and put an end to the argument.

Certainly there is justification in the centennial program for recognition of the important part played by Christian churchmen, in the early history of our state. The symbol of that church in the centennial emblem will be offensive to only an intolerant few.

Year-Round Navigation

The Canadian Navy has a new ice-breaker that "has punched the first deepwater passage through the ice of Bellot Strait, opening a new link between Canada's eastern and western Arctic." We are willing to accept the conclusion of the Canadian press that this is an achievement of considerable importance.

We are particularly impressed with the observation of the Financial Post, which states that:

> "This is the beginning of safe, economical navigation not only to the mines and outposts of our awakening Arctic, but to the traditionally "winter locked" ports of the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes."

We do have a very direct interest in the "winter locked" ports of the Great Lakes. If the Canadians have developed an ice-breaker that makes possible, on a practical scale, the penetration of the frozen Arctic, then it is reasonable to assume that navigation on Lake Superior can be maintained thruout the winter months.

One of the reasonable objections to the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway has been the winter freeze-up, curtailing the availability and therefore increasing the cost of this form of transportation. Shipping around the clock, twelve months a year, would add greatly to value of this service.

Flood Relief

In a statement issued Friday the U. S. department of agriculture reaffirmed its previous declarations about the availability of emergency conservation funds for farms damaged by bad weather.

As reported by the Minneapolis Tribune the department directed its statement specifically to the problems in our state, saying there is an "apparent misunderstanding in Minnesota;" that the $24 million emergency conservation payments fund for farmers hit by "natural disasters" is not intended to provide "economic aid to farmers who have suffered loss or damage to crops through excessive rain or other natural causes."

The department said that, under the law, emergency funds can be allocated only when a natural disaster has caused new conservation problems which meet these four requirements:

> "If not treated, they will impair or endanger the land;"
> "They materially affect the productive capacity of the land;"
> "They represent damage which is unusual in character, and except for wind erosion, is not the type which would recur frequently in the same area;" and
> "They will be so costly to rehabilitate that federal aid is or will be required to return the land to productive agricultural use.

Some Minnesota farm lands probably will be granted aid under the law, the department said, where there has been "scouring, gullying or destruction of drainage systems."

The fact that Minnesota is singled out for this special statement indicates that the department's position is not being questioned in other states, and Minnesota is not alone this year in having disaster areas.

Farmers of several eastern states suffered severe crop damage because of drouth, and it is interesting to note what one eastern state is doing to provide relief for its own people. Following is an Associated Press report published in the Grand Forks Herald last week, telling of what is being done by the state of Connecticut:

> A special session of the Connecticut Legislature opened Thursday to provide emergency aid for the state's dairy industry crippled by a summer-long drought.
> The drought caused an estimated nine million dollars damage, with eight million of that borne by the 3,000 dairy farmers in the state. They produce more than two thirds of Connecticut's milk supply.
> The number of dairy farmers in the state has steadily declined in recent years. It hit a record low last spring, just before the drought started.
> State Republican Chairman Clarence Baldwin said recently that without state aid, some farmers would be forced to slaughter their herds.
> Republicans, who control the Legislature by top-heavy majorities in both houses, have agreed to support a modified farm tax relief program and some kind of state subsidy for farmers to help them buy feed for the stock this winter.

No doubt responsible officials in Connecticut explored all of the various possibilities of federal assistance before deciding that the state itself should act. We may take for granted that the department of agriculture is not discriminating against the farmers of Connecticut or Minnesota and that the laws passed by Congress are being administered impartially in all states.

Had it been the intent of Congress that the federal government should provide economic aid for farmers who "suffered loss or damage to crops through excessive rain or other causes" then no doubt such aid would have been made available through a relief agency and distributed according to need. For such a purpose the appropriation would have to be many times greater than the comparatively small amount made available nationally to the ASC.

And we must keep in mind too that Congress has at its disposal effective means of forcing the fair administration of the laws it enacts. If the department of agriculture is not interpreting and administering the laws properly our members of Congress can get quick action in remedying the wrong, and mass meetings are not needed to accomplish such a result.

Under the circumstances we think it is fair and reasonable to conclude that the special aid requested by farmers in this area, regardless of how great the need may be, is not available because Congress did not make money available for such purposes. And we believe that here in Minnesota, as was done in Connecticut, the state itself should recognize some responsibility in dealing with problems of this kind. There is no good reason why we should expect the federal government to provide for all our emergency needs.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Problems, projects, and the activities of state officials do not always end at the geographic boundaries of the state. Many of our programs involve cooperation with our neighbors. During the past week Minnesota officials have been concerned with two projects of interest to all Minnesotans, that extend far beyond our borders.

The Missouri Valley

Only a small portion of southwestern Minnesota lies within the drainage area, or watershed, of the Missouri River. But now that the water of the Missouri is being used to produce power, a much larger part of our state finds that it is within the marketing area of that power. Areas as far east as Stearns County buy electricity, produced in the Missouri Basin, from the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation.

Savings to Minnesota Citizens

Some twenty rural electric cooperatives, and as many municipal power plants, in Minnesota get some of their power from this source. By doing so they are now saving about $4,300,000 annually over the cost they would have to pay if this power were not available. Most of these REA's that now get an average of about fifty percent of their requirements from the Missouri basin, would like to get double that amount and thus substantially increase their savings.

Interstate Meeting

Last week a meeting was held at Helena, Montana, at which officials from the states involved presented their needs and requirements to the Missouri Basin Inter-Agency Committee. Altho weather prevented me from flying to Helena as I had planned, Minnesota was represented by Mr. Arthur Hansen, our Commissioner of Securities whose schedule permitted him to go to Helena a day earlier. We supported the REA request for more Bureau power for Minnesota.

Multi-purpose Dams

It is hoped that, as the Missouri Basin development program grows, increasing amounts of electricity will be generated. The Missouri dams serve many purposes, and power production is only one of them. They are also operated to provide water for irrigation, and to maintain a water level sufficient to sustain navigation on the lower Missouri River. Consumers of electricity naturally want a greater consideration given to power needs in the operation of the main-stem dams.

Mississippi River Parkway

Another interstate project of interest to all Minnesotans is the proposed "Great River Road," that is planned as a parkway to extend from the mouth of the Mississippi northward, not only to the source of that river in Minnesota but on to connect with the Canadian transcontinental highway. The Planning Commission, with representatives from the ten Mississippi River States as well as from Canada, meets at Cairo, Illinois on September 23rd and 24th.

This project was first talked of nearly twenty years ago. It was held up during World War II, but since that time surveys have been made, and the parkway is about to become a reality. Canadian officials, those of ten states, and of the Federal government are cooperating to plan what Harold E. Olson, the Secretary of the Parkway Planning Commission has described as follows:

"The magnificent scenery along the river banks; the historic lore throughout the valley dating back to the infancy of our nation; the numerous cultural and recreational areas; and the strategic location of The Great River Road in this vast network of highways, all tend to make this the most interesting and beautiful parkway, not only of America but of the world."

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representative at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—The effective date of my GI insurance policy was August 31: I understand my premiums are due this same date each month. What about months that do not have 31 days? On what date will premiums be due?

A—On months not having 31 days, your GI insurance premiums will be due on the last day of the month.

Q—I want to sell my home and let the buyer take over my GI loan. Of course, I plan to apply in advance to VA for relief from liability. Must the buyer be a veteran, in order to assume my GI loan payments?

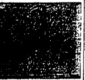
A—No. The purchaser need not be a veteran in order to take over your GI loan payments.

Q—I already have an AB degree. Would I be allowed to go to college under the Korean GI Bill to get another bachelor's degree? The course I want to take will prepare me for an engineering career.

A—So long as the course will prepare you for a professional goal for which you are not now qualified, you may be permitted to take college training leading to another bachelor's degree, this time in engineering. But full credit will have to be given for applicable previous courses.

Q—Is it possible to take below-college-level schooling under the War Orphans Education program?

A—Yes, provided the young man or woman already has completed or quit regular high school, and provided the below-college-level course will lead to a definite vocational goal.



Fall Planting of Shrubbery

Shrubs for landscape purposes can be planted in the fall of the year. However, greater care must be taken to protect the shrubs and to carry them through the first winter. The deciduous shrubs are usually planted after they show signs of becoming dormant in the fall of the year. Evergreens should be planted early enough so that they will establish a fairly good root system before the ground freezes in the fall. All potted materials can be planted successfully in the fall.

Care in planting will give greater success in the long run. It is essential that a good hole be dug for the shrubbery. This allows a good reservoir for water and also an opportunity for the roots to develop readily in the soil. It's a good idea to be sure that an ample supply of nutrients is available for the planting.

When the shrub is set in the hole, the roots should be spread carefully so they come in ready contact with the soil. This makes it possible for the shrub to take up water more easily. The soil should be firmed next to the roots, either by tramping or by walking on the soil as the hole is filled. After filling the hole, soak the soil thoroughly with water.

In planting evergreens, it is not necessary to remove the burlap coating around the shrub. After the shrub is placed into the hole, the burlap can be loosened, but in the meantime it should be left intact to keep the ball of soil firm around the roots of the shrub. Many gardeners take this burlap off before placing the shrub in the hole. This is a poor practice because in so doing they destroy the ball of soil and consequently the roots lose contact with the soil.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare University of Minnesota

Look for the "Why"

Children have reasons for what they do, but not the same reasons which parents might wish for them, or always understand. Working with children provides endless examples of the "whys" which make children "tick."

Recently the mother of five-year-old Danny told of his Sunday School teacher trying to promote Danny to an older group. Danny refused to "budge," yet seemed too advanced for the nursery, to which he gave only scant attention.

After repeated atempts to get at the "why," Danny confessed, "Mom, if I go to that other room I cannot see the big colored window with Jesus in it. I think that's the prettiest place in the world; I look at it all of the time when the teacher doesn't catch me." Danny's greatest satisfaction came from that stained glass window, a beautiful sight squarely in his line of vision in the nursery class. Danny's "why" was good enough for him, and pehaps as good a measure of his private gains from Sunday School as any which adults might chance to impose.

Another sort of "why" was troubling Jerry who had been satisfied in kindergarten until suddenly he rebelled at going back. Questioning revealed only that the teacher was "mean" to his best pal, Marvin. The next week Marvin came down with a cold and his mother telephoned that Jerry was not to stop for him on the way to school. Jerry burst into tears. Questioning finally brought out that the teacher had said that if Marvin missed one more day she was going to "drop him from the register." Teacher "lingo" and child fear combined to foretell a horrible fate for Marvin.

Gretchen, too, disappointed a relative who took her to a big cafeteria, and after looking over the overwhelming array of food, chose a peanut butter sandwich, mashed potatoes and milk — all standard fare at home. Her "why" was probably that she needed the comfort of old standbys, before she felt free to take in this vast new world.

There are "whys", often obscured, but they are there, if only we can find them.

The truth about cutting Laying Feed Costs

TRUTH CONFIRMED. Hundreds of Upper Midwest poultrymen who have followed Land O'Lakes High-Calorie Laying Feed Programs—programs suited to their own particular grain situations—have confirmed our findings. Laying feed costs can be cut—to as little as 13¢ or less per dozen eggs!

TRUTH DEMONSTRATED. Say you decide to feed the Land O'Lakes Mash Maker "38" Program and mix your own. Under this program, as under all Land O'Lakes Feeding Programs, 4½ lbs. of feed can produce 1 dozen eggs. At the recommended 1 to 3 ratio, that means 1⅛ lbs. Mash Maker "38" with 3⅜ lbs. home grains. Your 1⅛ lbs. Mash Maker "38" costs you 5.4¢, your 3⅜ lbs. home grains about 6.8¢. Total feed cost: 12.2¢ per dozen eggs.

TRUTH FOR YOU. Truth discovered for you, made to work for you, promises more egg money for you. Just pick the Land O'Lakes Laying Feed Program that suits your grain situation.

HIGHWAY MADNESS

With the building of new and better highways, widening and straightening existing routes, over-pass and under-pass, traffic circles and clover leaves, and the advertising of bigger and better cars with more horses under the hood have afflicted many Americans with a highway madness worse than the mental ills cared for in nursing homes and asylums. All of which is bringing much concern to highway authorities, mothers and fathers, and citizens in general.

Why we should want more horses under the hood when there is a sufficient number to split the road open at a hundred miles an hour and reach eternity in a moment of time is an enigma hard to unravel.

A month ago the writer made a car trip of more than two hundred miles and, after two days returned to his home. At no time was there danger or doubt. The young person who went along to drive obeyed all the signs, on the highway and in the city we visited, and never exceeded the speed limit. I think of how much safer the highways and the street would be if the traffic laws were obeyed and every driver were considerate of the other fellow.

ONCE ON THE ROCKS

By Kathryn Brummond

IT WAS pay day. Doris knew that her husband Bob would stop at Murdock's to make the last payment on their living room suite. He would be late for dinner and she awaited him with patience, mixed with something like dread, recalling the storm that had burst over her head nearly a year ago when she told him she had ordered the furniture.

The suite was lovely—really good pieces—and, as the salesman said, they could buy it on easy payments which would hardly be felt.

But Bob had been aghast. It was not the kind of stuff people in rented homes should buy, he declared.

Doris, young in experience as well as in years, could not see why. So she argued and pouted and finally cried until Bob relented. However he would not quite give in and she had to be content when he said he would think it over until the following day.

He came home the next evening with a small package under his arm. "I have ordered the living room furniture sent out," he said, "but for your share in the bargain you must promise to leave this picture hanging up in the front hall until the things are paid for. You must not take it down even once."

The picture in question proved to be an artistic, though somewhat somber, print of a blindfolded maiden perched on a rock playing a lute while the sea lapped at her feet.

Through the months that followed Doris often studied the painting, trying to learn the lesson she was sure Bob wanted her to absorb.

"The maiden is probably I," she said to herself, "and it is plain she is in danger from the wild wind-swept waves." Did Bob mean their marriage was threatened by her blind reach for luxuries?

Presently she heard Bob's car in the drive and when he stepped in the door all her misgivings fled, for he looked happy and gay.

"Hi'ya, honey," he said. "Well, we're out of old Murdock's clutches at last. Here!" And he dropped the receipted contract into her lap.

He took Doris into his arms and drew her into the hall where he removed the picture from the wall and carefully dusted it off with his handkerchief. Then he turned it over.

There, on the back, was another picture—a bright little scene with white clouds billowing above a flower-girt cottage. Underneath the picture was a motto. It said, "Welcome to Our Humble Home. Everything in it is Paid for."

With this colorful side out, he replaced the frame on the wall.

"Now tell me, Bob," Doris said, "tell me what the meaning of the other picture is."

"What the meaning of the other picture is," Bob said, plainly perplexed, "What do you mean?"

"I know you had some object in inflicting that doleful picture on me all these months," Doris persisted, "but I just don't get it."

"My goodness, Doris, what an imagination you've got! I hadn't any sinister motive at all. I bought that particular picture merely because it happened to fit the double frame I had had made for the motto."

"Well, anyway, we have some decent furniture and it's completely, absolutely and conclusively paid for," Doris said. "Now, Bob, aren't you really kind of glad we have it?"

"Sure I am, honey," Bob returned tenderly.

So Doris and Bob lived happily ever after—or at least as happily as most devoted couples live in this worrisome world. For Doris had learned never to mortgage Bob's salary without first getting his consent and Bob had learned that some things men call luxuries are dire necessities to a woman.

JOHLFS PICKS HIGH SCHOOL GRIDIRON LEADERS

"After two weeks of sterling play among Minnesota's 400 high school football teams, I am venturing to name the top twenty," says the nationally known amateur sports observer and analyst, Art "Basketball" Johlfs, Minneapolis realtor.

Going even farther out on an early limb, Johlfs points to Robbinsdale as the best high school football team in the state today. "It begins to look as if this football juggernaut rolling out of Robbinsdale High may overshadow those memorable gridiron greats of yesteryear, out of Edina, International Falls, Minneapolis Roosevelt, Red Wing, and Rochester," he says, adding simply, "Watch 'em."

The twenty out in front at the start Art impartially lists in alphabetical order as follows: Aitkin, Alexandria, Anoka, Austin, Breckenridge, Coleraine, Duluth East, Edina, Grand Rapids, International Falls, Jackson, Luverne, Mountain Iron, Proctor, Pipestone, Red Wing, Robbinsdale, St. James, St. Paul Murray, Willmar.

BORN IN 1846 . . . Mrs. Mary Gamery of Massillon, O., celebrated her 111th birthday by counting her 107 descendants: 2 daughters, 20 grandchildren, 65 great-grandchildren and 10 great-great-grandchildren.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Note Soil Structure

Farmers on the Red River Valley's Fargo soils are more concerned with the workability of their soil, says A. C. Libby, U. S. Soil Conservation Service worker, Breckenridge. Theodore Peet, cooperator in the Wilkin Soil Conservation district is using bromegrass to help keep his soil in top condition. Last year, he harvested 5,000 pounds of bromegrass seed and 41 tons of hay from 18 acres. He had applied phosphate fertilizer according to test at seeding time two years ago and applied 2000 pounds of ammonium nitrate last spring. Seed and hay yields were increased 3-4 times from the extra nitrogen, Peet says.

Terrace Helps

Last May, Meth Stand, Paynesville, supervisor of the Stearns county soil conservation district, constructed a diversion terrace, aided by Soil Conservationists R. V. Jongewaard and Vern Nieters. On July 15, more than 8 inches of rain fell on his farm in four hours. The new diversion — even though it had no vegetative cover — held up perfectly and protected the eld. Otherwise, Stand says, the rain would have washed out the corn crop and damaged the field.

Fall Liming Has Advantages

Limestone producers can make deliveries easily now, because road and field conditions are ideal for hauling the material. Paul Burson, University of Minnesota soils scientist, points out that wet and soft field in spring, and sometimes in the fall, can prevent spreading. Now is an ideal time for applying lime.

Fertilizing Pastures

In field tests at the University of Minnesota's Rosemount Agricultural Experiment station in recent years, scientists have found that fertilizing pastures results in more uniform grazing. Paul Burson, soils researcher and A. L. Harvey, livestock scientist, found that steers grazed dropping spots much better on fertilized pastures than on unfertilized areas.

Soviet authorities recently proclaimed Russia the second largest coal producer in the world with 1955 tonnage exceeding 390,000,000 tons and said that by 1960 tonnage would be up to 500,000,000.

The English mastiff is believed to be a direct descendant of an ancient Asian dog often depicted on Greek, Assyrian, Babylonian and Egyptian artifacts. Some relics show the mastiff was flourishing as early as 3000 B.C.

50th Anniversary of the Farmers Mutual Telephone Co.

Many changes have taken place in the 50 years since the Farmer's Mutual Telephone Co. was organized in 1907. The first telephones were on the west side of the river. This past year 4 miles of underground wire has been laid from Thief River Falls to the airport and one mile east. New poles and wire on all lines, also the new dial phones which went into effect September 8th. Quite a contrast to the old telephone. We still will miss the pleasant voice of our operators, who were very prompt in answering our calls and our thanks go to the linemen who keep our lines in tip-top shape.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Well, here we are again, another Monday, another column, another hunting season opening in the past and the weather, she is still of the undesirable variety.

Coming up soon is the switch from daylight saving to central standard time. Now that we're used to it's going to seem strange to have an hour clipped off our afternoons.

A lot of people have vociferously condemned daylight saving time but those city workers who are slaves to the clock seem to enjoy it for the most part. At least we haven't heard any complaints from that quarter.

No doubt a lot of people are inclined to doubt the forecasts as given by KTRF and this paper. Not that we blame them. We often write the forecast with tongue in cheek and the fellows at KTRF who read it from the teletype copy must often do so with tongue in cheek also.

The fact is some fellow hundreds of miles from here makes the forecast from the data he has at hand. And, with the conditions ever changing it's easy for his forecast to go awry. This much you can bank on tho—he makes the forecast in good faith.

After all, you and I would have a hard time making a weather prediction for, let's say Great Falls, Mont., even if we did have all kinds of scientifically gathered weather data to go by. That's the problem the forecaster in Chicago (or wherever he's stationed) has in forecasting weather for northwestern Minnesota.

You have to give the guy credit tho—he's right a large percentage of the time!

The trouble with most self-made men is that they called the job done too early.

A Saturday Evening Post writer says there was once a time when everybody was saying they'd make airplanes cheaply enough for everyone to afford one. Now, he says, the auto makers are doing their best to make cars as expensive as airplanes.

Speaking of airplanes, did you know that the average high-powered automobile has more horsepower than the Spirit of St. Louis that Lindbergh used in his trans-Atlantic flight?

If motorists had to put up with as much red tape from our bureaucratic federal government as owners of personal airplanes, there would probably still be hitching rails and livery stables in every town in the U.S.A. In some areas there are as many CAA personnel as there are private airplanes!

Well, that wraps it up for another week. No fan letters this time, the "oracle" hasn't spoken recently. SO LONG!

The WORLD OUTDOORS

THE air is crisp and clean, chilled a bit by the wind from the North with its promise of winter. You huddle low, peering anxiously through the sparse foliage of the "shooting hole" in your blind; head down so the birds will catch no reflection from the whiteness of your face or from your eyeglasses. A few feet away your companion goes to work with his call and somewhere in the distance a chorus of replies indicates a big flight of birds has caught the message. You check your gun, adjust to a more comfortable shooting position and prepare for action.

It comes with sudden fury as birds swing in from behind you, diving low across your decoys, bobbing, weaving, and filling the air with their excited chorus. You get birds with most every shot and your fingers shake as you load and reload your automatic. Then it's over. Your barrel is hot to the touch and dozen or more birds are scattered among your decoys.

You relax and light up a smoke, knowing there will be more of the same kind of action very soon. You don't finish the filter-tip. A new flight of birds wing across the horizon. One call turns them and gets them "on the string." Head down, you watch them for what seems like hours as they get closer and closer, then pitch in on your decoys like rocks dropping from the side of a cliff . . .

Action? You can't beat it. And any nimrod who has been properly exposed will tell you that shooting crows along an established flyway offers all the thrills and excitement of wing shooting at its very best.

If you're skeptical and think shooting crows is for the birds, don't ever let yourself get talked into trying it by an ardent crow man.

Accidents which occur in homes throughout the nation cost us approximately 700 million dollars annually, claim some 30,000 lives and cause untold suffering.

Mary Beth Larson, 18, Braham, and Richard O. Lyman, 18, Route 5, Excelsior, are this year's state 4-H health achievement winners.

The Isanti county girl and Carver county boy were chosen state health champions from among approximately 100 county health winners. The two state health champions will receive all expense trips to the National 4-H congree in Chicago in early December, where they will compete for nationtl honors. Selection of winners was based not only on their own physical condition but on improvements they have made toward more healthful living and on their community health activities.

Brown-eyed, brunette Mary Beth is 5 feet 5½ inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. Richard blond and blue-eyed, stands 6 feet 4 inches in his stocking feet and weighs 165 pounds. Mud Lake Refuge Manager Predicts Good Duck Season

Tells Lions Club Birds are Unusually Plentiful; Rolvaag Also Club Guest

Speaking at the Lions club luncheon meeting Wednesday noon, Herb Dill, manager of the Mud Lake wildlife refuge, predicted good luck for duck hunters when the season opens October 5. He stated that a census last week revealed approximately 42,000 ducks on the refuge, in addition to thousands of others on potholes in the vicinity.

Dill also showed motion pictures taken by him at the Sand Hill refuge in South Dakota, where he was formerly stationed. The film showed abundant stocks of ducks, geese, pheasants and deer.

Karl Rolvaag, Minnesota lieutenant governor, was a guest at the luncheon, en route to Newfolden, where he had a speaking engagement. In a brief talk, Rolvaag deplored the racial strife that has plagued the state of Arkansas recently and said it makes fine propaganda for the Communist world.

The Lions quartet completed the program with a group of selections.

Projects Set up for Year's School Health Program

Preliminary Plans Made for Immunization and Mantoux Test Projects

The School Health Council met last week at Lincoln high school to set up this year's health program.

A letter was read from Dr. Flancher of Crookston suggesting a Mantoux program in the usual grades 12th, 9th, 7th, 4th and kindergarten. He will be available to this area in either October or November. If arrangements can be made by the middle of October it was decided to take advantage of Dr. Flancher's services at that time.

There was considerable discussion about [illegible] because it is important that clinic records are up to date, the medical profession recommends that these health services be done in the clinic rather than the school. It was decided that third graders and younger children would be immunized in school, and older children at the clinics. Immunizations are to be done in November, said Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse.

In dental health, every child will be encouraged to visit his dentist at least once during the school year. The 9th grade dental program was discussed and thought to be worthy of continuation. It was recommended that the local dentists be asked to participate in this teaching program. If agreed upon by the dental profession, the 9th graders will be examined during school time sometime before the Christmas holidays.

Snellen eye testing was discussed with the recommendation that all children be checked on the Ortho-Rater (eye testing instrument) either in place of, or in addition to the Snellen testing.

There will be further information on each health program as each health activity is undertaken, said Mrs. Race.

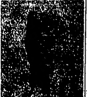
Local Man Victim of Bridge Mishap

Killed Tuesday



HARRY KNUTSON

Native of the rural Thief River Falls area, who died almost instantly Tuesday morning after being struck by a steel bridge girder he was helping to unload at the site of the new Eighth st. span in this city.

Harry Knutson, 49, Killed While Working on Eighth st. Span

A freakish accident about 11 a.m. Tuesday took the life of a local workman as he was helping unload steel beams for the new Eight St. bridge across the Thief river.

Harry Knutson, 49, died of a fractured neck within minutes after a steel beam he was helping to unload from a truck tipped as he and another workman, Ervie Peterson, city, were standing on it.

According to Fred Phillips, of the Phillips Auto Wrecking Co., employer of Knutson and Peterson and which concern hauled and unloaded the beams, Knutson and Peterson were standing on the beam while they mounted the cable sling of the crane used to unload the beams. Phillips was at the controls of the crane at the time.

When the beam tipped, Phillips said, Peterson was thrown clear but apparently Knutson was struck on one side of the head by the beam as it threw him to the ground.

From appearances, Dr. George B. Martin stated Wednesday, the beam did not crush Knutson but hit him again in the side and back of the head before it was stopped by the cable sling, mere inches above the ground.

He had a fractured jaw and bad cut in the back of his head, in addition to the fractured neck, Martin said.

Knutson was alive after the accident but was dead on arrival at Northwestern hospital. Peterson was also taken to the hospital but was released after treatment for lacerations.

Funeral services for Knutson will be conducted Friday, September 27 at 2:00 p.m. in the Silver Creek Lutheran church with Rev. [illegible] officiating. Interment will be made in [illegible] cemetery.

Knutson was born November 11, 1907 in Marshall county where he attended school and grew to manhood. He was united in marriage to Miss Ella Olson October 12, 1930, and they have resided on a farm in Marshall county since. For the past two years he has been employed by Phillips Auto Wrecking Co.

Survivors include his wife, Ella; one daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Olson (Grace) of Grand Forks; two sons, Glenn and Harley at home; his mother, Mrs. Gunhild Knutson; one grandson, Kevin Olson; three sisters, Mrs. Anna Johnson of this city; Miss Selma Knutson and Miss Bernice Knutson of rural Thief River Falls; and two brothers, Otto and Knute also of rural Thief River Falls. He was preceded in death by his father and one brother.

Local Girl Joins Manitou Singers at St. Olaf College

Susan K. Mills, St. Olaf college freshman from this city, was one of 80 girls auditioned and picked to sing in the Manitou Singers. Miss Mills is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Mills.

Director of the Singers for her second year is a member of the music faculty, Alice Larsen. Since membership in the choir is limited to promising freshmen voices, Miss Larsen is faced with a whole new rebuilding program each September.

Under Miss Larsen, the girls vocalize for their own sheer pleasure, not as a preparation for some forthcoming concert. They do, however, appear occasionally as a featured choir in some of the Upper Midwest churches.

Lincoln Homecoming October 4 Featured by Queen Coronation

The Lincoln high school homecoming activities will be climaxed on Friday, October 4, with the coronation of the queen in the afternoon and the football game in the evening with the Detroit Lakes Lakers. Candidates for queen are Shirley Kulseth; Angie Wiener and Bev Bratten, all members of the senior class.

The queen will be attended by Rosalie Fonnest and Virginia Lanska of the junior class, and Nancy Gunderson and Dianne Storhaug of the sophmore class. Junior attendents are Cam Peterson and Mark Gustafson.

Homecoming activities are under the general chairmanship of Sandra Nabben and Nan Peterson.

On Thursday night there will be a snake dance headed by Carol Goulet and Gerry Jorgenson and a bonfire planned by Wayne Czeh and Peter Larson. The coronation on Friday afternoon is being planned by a committee headed by Shirley Kulseth. Escorting the queen will be the football captains, who have not yet been chosen. The coronation program at which the senior prophecy will be read is under the direction of Janet Torgerson and Ken Jones.

Other events on Friday are the Homecoming parade immediately after the coronation program and the dance in the evening. Parade details are being handled by Susie Simonson and Jon Larson. The dance planned by sophomores Judy Wold and Steve Embury will be held in the high school gym.

The floats for the queen and her attendents will be made by freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes. The cheerleader's float is being designed by the 7th and 8th graders. The Lincoln marching band will also participate in the parade. Other organizations in the school are contributing floats.

At half-time at the game on Friday night, October 4, the queen and her attendents will be presented to the spectators escorted by Wayne Czeh, Paul Kristianson, Jeff Barnes, Dean Bergland, Lolell Dyrud, John Sutlans, Tony Wald and Bill Walker.

Refreshments at the game will be handled by Gloria Bushaw and Bruce Ranum. A committee headed by Kay Kolltz is carrying out the decorations of the field.

The homecoming buttons imprinted with this year's slogan "Lakers' Last Stand" are here and their sale is being managed by committee heads Shirley LaPorte and Lolell Dyrud.

Loralea Larson Tells of Life at 4-H Health Camp

By Loralea Larson

It was Sunday, time to start out for 4-H health camp at Itasca state park. It was a cold, gloomy day, raining occasionally on the way down.

We arrived at Itasca about [illegible]. We walked into the recreation room and saw the logs in the fireplace burning with brilliant flames. This sure made all feel nice and warm.

Everyone was anxiously waiting to get assigned to their cabins. We found the number of our cabin and walked in, being very [illegible] at how homey it [illegible] had to do was to try [illegible] first [illegible] had been to [illegible] as I was the likely [illegible] the [illegible] it had a little [illegible] was real cozy.

We went to supper about 6:00. All meals were very carefully planned to [illegible] but it was a [illegible] balanced meal.

[illegible] night we had an assembly [illegible] Rev. Halvorson [illegible] developing your personality. He stated that each [illegible] has as [illegible] personality. He told us [illegible] which we can [illegible] personality, which [illegible] the most of what [illegible] (3) [illegible] attitudes [illegible] (4) [illegible] life must be [illegible].

[illegible] enjoyed [illegible] is a [illegible] Practice by [illegible]. He brought out the five [illegible] which are: (1) overconfidence (2) emotional hazards (3) distractions (4) shortsighted thinking (5) carelessness.

During the time that we were there we got to know each other quite well. This was made possible with the name tags we had and also by getting acquainted games we played the first night.

We started and ended each day with the flag-raising and lowering. This was a beautiful sight as the flag pole was on a little hill overlooking the lake.

We attended different classes while at camp. The classes we attended were: "Planning the Health Program in your 4-H Club" by E. J. Neiderfrank; "Personal Health Habits for Better Living" by Sudrey McGuigan; "Do People Like You" by Charles Martin; "Teeth Are to Keep" by Dr. Wm. Jordan; "Home Sanitation for Healthful Living" by [illegible] Peterson. These classes proved to be very educational. [illegible] from attending them that I will be able to give much valuable information to other 4-H clubs in our county.

There were many different events at Health Camp that I know everybody enjoyed as much as I did. Singing, morning and evenings around the campfire at breakfast [illegible] during the [illegible] everybody [illegible] dancing and [illegible] other types of dances, brought everyone out to participate and have a good time.

We went on a tour of the park enjoying all the wonders of nature everywhere present at this park. We stopped at the museum and admired all the birds, animals, and ancient tools. Crossing the Mississippi or the "Father of Waters" as it was so called was a great challenge to everyone.

Many interesting reports and skits were given at camp. These reports gave all of us ideas how we could work to improve our county and 4-H Clubs.

Camp was now drawing to a close, the achievement winners were announced and everyone was getting ready for the banquet on Tuesday night. To me this banquet was the highlight of the camp. We were delighted to be served such a luscious supper by the agents and state leaders.

Wednesday came and we all knew we must say good-bye to all the friends and the good time we had at State 4-H Health Camp.

How many times have you asked, "Is the color fast?" when you have bought readymade clothing or fabrics?

The sure way to tell how satisfactory the color will be is to have a guarantee from the manufacturer printed on the label. Many readymade clothes or fabrics are guaranteed for a specific type of color fastness. For example, some may be fast to light, others to perspiration, to washing or dry cleaning, still others to atmospheric fumes. It pays to interpret the label correctly so never overlook the exact information offered by the manufacturer to help you.

Slide Fasteners

Slide fasteners are so important to the smooth fit and convenient wear of many of today's clothes that it pays to give them the care that keeps them in good working condition.

If there's a hook and an eye at the top of a placket or dress opening, fasten the hook before closing the zipper. Then hold the base of the placket firmly so the zipper movers evenly and doesn't catch on fabric underneath.

Try this simple way to close long back zippers. Thread a string through the hole of the zipper tab, put the string over the shoulder and pull the zipper closed without strain on garment, zipper or yourself.

Protect zippers when washing or ironing garments. Before putting a garment through a wringer in laundering, cover the closed zipper within folds of the fabric to prevent damage. Protect both zipper and placket fabric by laying a press cloth over it before ironing and applying the iron gently. When hanging garments in the closet, close zippers to prevent stretching or sagging.

Make Spicy Pepper Jelly

Looking for ways of using the surplus supply of sweet red peppers in the garden?

Make red pepper relish and jelly. They will perk up the meat platter, add spicy flavor and attractive color to any meal.

I would like to pass on some suggestions from Verna Miksch, extension nutritionist at the University of Minnesota, for making pepper relish and jelly.

Cut six red or three red and three yellow peppers and discard the seeds. Put through the finest blade of the food chopper twice. Save the juice for jelly and use the pulp for relish. Green peppers may be used, but the color of the relish and jelly is less attractive than when made from red or yellow peppers.

For the pepper relish, measure 1 cup of the chopped peppers into a large saucepan. Add 3½ cups sugar and ¾ cup vinegar and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat and stir in ½ bottle of liquid fruit pectin. Stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly. Ladle quickly into glasses and cover tops of glasses with paraffin.

For pepper jelly, combine 1 cup of the pepper juice with ½ cup vinegar and 3½ cups sugar in a large saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and as soon as the mixture boils stir in ½ bottle of liquid fruit pectin. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat, skim and pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Serve with pork or ham dishes or with cheese sandwiches.

2 Traffic Mishaps in Area Reported

Car Rolls over Friday Near Joppru Sales Barn

The week on roads and streets in the county and Thief River Falls has been a quiet one, according to local law enforcement officers.

One accident which happened at 11:45 Friday evening was not reported Monday because Sheriff Charles Richards and Deputy Eugene Prestegaard were both out that day. This involved a one-car accident on County Aid Road 12.

Apparently Franklin Rux lost control of the car he was driving shortly after he rounded a curve in the road and overturned near the Joppru driveway northwest of the city. Rux was uninjured but his car was damaged to extent of about $250. No charge was filed.

The only accident this week occurred about 1:55 a.m. Wednesday when a car driven by Dale W. Ranum, city, hit a car owned by Lowell M. Collins, city, as it was parked in front of Johnny's Hamburger Shop on Main Av. N.

Damage to the Ranum car was about $30 and to the Collins car, about $40. Exact nature of charges against Ranum are yet to be determined, police said.

No accidents were reported by the highway patrol.

Mercury Drops to 27 This Morning

Second Day of Freezing Temperatures This Week

Relatively pleasant weather has been the lot of residents of northwest Minnesota the past week, although rain did put in one appearance to offset the effects of mostly sunny skies.

Frost, which appeared first on Monday, completed turning leaves to many hues and made a shambles of local gardens. The second killing frost of fall season occurred again last night. The low temperature of the week was 27, registered Monday and Thursday.

High temperature this week was 60 on Tuesday, followed by .13 inch of rain Wednesday.

The forecast contains one familiar phrase at this time of year: frost warning. Skies will be fair today, becoming partly cloudy Friday. Temperatures will remain low today and frost is imminent again tonight, according to the KTRF forecast.

Highs will be 45-52 and the low will be in the 30-35 bracket.

Orrin Helgeland Tells of 4-H Conservation Camp

By Orrin Helgeland

Each year Federal Cartridge Corporation of Minneapolis sponsors a Conservation Camp at Itasca State Park.

The classes include firecraft, forestry, outdoor cookery, plants of Minnesota, developing good fishing, boat trips, nature hikes, park tours and firearms safety demonstrations by Dave Yaeger of Federal Cartridge Corp.

We arrived at Itasca in early evening so there wasn't much time for recreation. First we numbers, then we went to our cabins to make our beds and get acquainted with the other camp delegates who were to stay in the same cabin as we did. After we got acquainted we went to the Cook-out. When we got there they gave us a swiss steak that we were to bar-b-que ourselves for supper. After we had bar-b-qued our steak we were given the rest of our supper.

After supper we had the lowering of the flag. This is one thing we did with pride because it is definitely part of our 4-H work.

After the flag lowering we went to the hall for an assembly. To start the program off there was group singing and a fun fest led by Bernie Beadle. After the fun fest there was a talk by Parker Anderson on the history of Itasca Park, its name coming from the Latin words Weritas Caput, which means true head of the Mississippi. After the assembly everyone went back to their cabins.

Friday morning we went to breakfast after which we had the raising of the flag. At eight o'clock we all went to an assembly to hear county conservation reports by delegates from selected counties. I gave a report on Pennington county conservation activities. After the assembly we all went to our separate groups. Then we went to classes, including: Firecraft by Floyd Colburn. He told us what tools are best suited for working in the woods. We then went to the forestry class conducted by Marvin Smith and Parker Anderson.

At dinner time our group went to a dinner that was cooked by the girls who had outdoor cookery class. We had bacon, fish, potatoes, bread and peas. It was really a very good meal.

Friday afternoon we had a park tour led by Parker Anderson. We went to the source of the Mississippi, the Indian mounds, the buffalo pens, preachers grove, and the Aitons Heights lookout tower. We climbed up to the top of the tower and when we reached the top we received a card which said we had become certified members of the Ancient and Honorable Order of Squirrels. When we got back from the tour we had free time in which we could play football or volley ball.

At seven o'clock Friday we had an assembly, led by Bernie Beadle, and heard a talk by Jim Lee from the fish and game department. He told of his work and the five factors that control wildlife. They are: 1. Carrying capacity of the land. 2. Limiting factors—food, shelter, etc. 3. Population turnover. 4. Harvestable surplus—number left for hunters. 5. Plant succession.

After his talk Don Lewis from the Museum of Natural History showed us movies on birds, how they feed, live and carry on their natural life. After the movies everyone returned to their cabins.

Saturday morning Dav Yaeger from Federal Cartridge Corp. gave us a gun safety demonstration. After his demonstration we went to classes on land appreciation, plants of Minnesota and developing good fishing. Saturday afternoon we went on a boat trip and nature hike on Lake Itasca.

On Sunday morning we went to church led by Bernie Beadle, after which we packed our clothes and left for home.

I encourage all 4-H boys and girls to try for this trip. It is surely worth the effort you have to put into it. I wish to thank all those who made this trip possible for me.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Percentages

At 1:45 P. M. on Friday, on the Roseau high school field, the kickoff of the Rams vs. Prowlers football game will occur.

Since 1948, and with the game being an annual affair since 1951, the Rams and the Prowlers have played seven football games. The Prowlers have won all of the games in the series, rolling up scores ranging from a 20 to 7 tally in 1948, to a 39 to 0 score last season.

Percentages being what they are, inexorable is the word for the laws of percentage, it is only fair to admit that one of these years the football Rams will beat the Prowlers.

Coaches Joe Mrkonich and Ralph Skay have developed a strong Prowler club this season, and it's doubtful if this will be the year when Roseau fulfills the percentage. The Prowlers are a sturdy defensive outfit, except for a lapse now and then on pass defense.

Although the Rams, except for the fact that they are a good-sized club, will enter the game as short-enders, the fact that they rolled up a 55 to 0 over Warroad last Friday, should give the Prowlers a warning not to take the game too lightly. Fifty-five points is quite a score, and to run up a total like that means that the Rams have a scoring potential.

It will perhaps be worth the drive up there on Friday.

Where Are the Sharptails?

That's the query we put to game warden Carl Sundstrom yesterday. And, surprisingly, we received a forthright answer. Said Carl: "If I wanted to get any sharptailed grouse I would make it a point to follow George Busse." Carl enlarged on that statement by adding: "It's not so much that I would follow George as it is his dog that I would follow. George's dog is a good one."

Game warden Carl has some basis for his claim that the hunters should follow George and his dog. On Saturday, at about noon, Busse and his hunting partner, George Miethke, came into town with their limit of six grouse.

That was the best report we received. The Prichard boys, and their party of four, hunted the vast territory south of the Clearwater river, and they reported a near-fill. Phil stated that the party must have flushed about eighty birds.

Its possible that the sharptailed grouse hunting will improve with the coming of the hard frosts. Freezing weather will wilt that heavy foliage that makes hunting such a heavy and wet chore.

And the patridge season opens on Saturday, and the prospects are only fair. At least we have a killing frost. To dampen the enthusiasm of the partridge hunters, the report is being circulated that the birds are worm-infested. These worms infest the intestines of the birds, and do not contaminate the flesh.

The City's Best Angler

"Gee, I hate to go home." So said Mrs. Ed (Florence) Hamerski at about 2:45 P. M. on Tuesday as she snapped a walleyed pike onto her stringer. You see that walleyed pike filled out her daily limit of six.

Without a doubt, Mrs. Hamerski is the ablest and most persistent of the city's feminine anglers; and there is the possibility that she can out-fish the best of the city's male anglers, too.

For the past couple of weeks, she, together with a number of fishermen, have been angling the pool below the dam. Never has Mrs. Hamerski caught less than five walleyes a day, and usually it has been a limit catch. On Tuesday, she fished from eleven o'clock in the morning to a quarter to three in the afternoon, and a fine string of six walleyes she had.

The fishermen, come Saturday will be missing Mrs. Hamerski's competition, for then the ruffed grouse (partridge) season opens. And if there is anything that she likes better than fishing, it's hunting partridges.

He's a Good One

Over the years, and we'll go all the way back to the days of Roy (Toby) Holmgren, the football Prowlers have had the happy faculty of coming up with some nifty little linemen. And that's the case this year in guard Ken Sauve. Sauve, a senior, is the local club's Mr. Five-by-Five, for the stocky youngster packs 160 solid pounds on that frame.

Sauve

But speaking of Toby Holmgren, we can recall one game when Toby, playing at a tackle, made about sixty-five percent of the tackles.

Of recent years we can remember such boys, and they usually played at a guard position, as Jim Sauve, Cliff Aase, Ralph Foster, Bill Nelson, and Connie Gaston. And we should make a mention of 145-pound Darold Dalton, who was a fine end during the 1952-53 seasons.

Short Session in Municipal Court

4 Drivers Forfeit Bonds for Failure to Appear

The municipal session was a quiet affair Monday afternoon as more traffic law violators elected to forfeit bonds than appeared before Judge H. O. Chommie on the various charges.

David E. Jacobson, Minneapolis, arrested for speeding by the highway patrol, forfeited $15 bond, while Andrew N. Blue, Red Lake, forfeited the same amount after the patrol arrested him for driving after license revocation.

These were the only highway patrol arrests reported.

Andrew O. Homme, city, pleaded guilty to careless driving and drew $15 fine plus $4 costs. He was tagged by city police, as were the rest of the cases reported here.

Arden Ray Lindemoen, rt. 4, Warren, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 plus $5 costs.

Paul W. Erickson, Viking, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence, and also drew a $100 fine plus $5 costs. On a charge of driving after license revocation Erickson also pleaded guilty and was fined an additional $25 and $4 costs.

Rudolph Laudal, Stephen, and Martyn Blaike, Badger, forfeited $15 bonds after their arrests for speeding.

No sheriff's cases were brought before the court.

Prowler 'B's' Defeat E. G. Forks 'B's' 18-13

The Prowlers 'B' team, coached by Dick Edlund and Johnny Matchefts, scored their second win of the season, against no losses, when they rallied for three touchdowns in the second half to defeat the East Grand Forks 'B' team, 18 to 13, in a football game played on the Lincoln field Tuesday night.

The East Siders, flashing a passing attack, held a 6 to 0 lead at the end of the first period, added a touchdown and an extra point in the third period to take a 13 to 0 lead.

The Prowler 'B' team dented the scoring column when Larry Haugen swept through right tackle and scampered fifty-five yards for a touchdown.

In the fourth period, halfback Arlan Hjelle, on a three-yard plunge scored a touchdown; and fullback Peter Iverson, on a short jolt of a yard, scored what proved to be the winning touchdown.

The next game on the Prowler 'B' team schedule will take place on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 1st, at Grand Forks against the Grand Forks Central 'B' team. Kickoff time for the game, which will be played on the Valley school field, will be at 4:00 p.m.

Next hostesses are to be Mrs. Elmer Anderson and Mrs. John Mark but no date has been set. The meeting closed with a song by the audience, responsive reading and the table grace.

Sandra Simmons was guest of honor at a birthday party at the Bob Simmons home Saturday night. Sandra celebrated her 9th birthday. She received many lovely gifts and birthday wishes from her guests. Lunch was served after a time of visiting. Sandra's visitors included Mr. and Mrs. Ed Monson and Barbara; Gust Monson, Mrs. Bessie Simmons and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Swanson and Todd of Wannaska. A. Rivenes of Karlstad will be one of the visiting pastors.

Drivers Licenses to Be Given out Faster

A new step in the licensing of Minnesota drivers will be effective October 1, 1957, when applicants will be permitted to operate motor vehicles immediately upon qualification.

The new procedure was outlined by G. A. Hatfield, director of the drivers license division, St. Paul, who said, "This new plan will eliminate the former unavoidable delay between the time the applicant qualifies for a driver's license and the time he is permitted to drive. Formerly he could not until he received his license card in the mail.

Hatfield said that after an applicant has passed his road test, has made application and paid the $2 fee, he may, upon showing the examiner his receipt, have the test score sheet stamped in a form which will permit him to drive.

The sheet will be stamped in red ink with the following:

"The person whose signature and address appears hereon is hereby licensed to operate a motor vehicle on the public streets and highways of Minnesota for a period of 15 days from this date pending issuance of a license card.

"This license is VOID if the records of the Drivers License division indicate that the individual named hereon is not entitled to the issuance of a license."

In the metropolitan area, this can be accomplished at the driver examination stations. Outstate, the application must be made with the clerk of court or his agent but the test score sheet must be stamped by the examiner.

Hatfield pointed out that this procedure will be of particular aid to those persons who have moved to this state and are applying for a Minnesota license if they have qualified by passing the written and road tests and then made proper application, they may be permitted to drive while awaiting the delivery of the license card.

He also indicated that this same procedure would be used in the issuance of instruction permits for beginning drivers. The examiners will stamp the score sheet, indicating that the written test was passed, which will make the score sheet a temporary permit for 15 days. This will be accomplished by adding another stamp "Instruction Permit" to the one shown above.

In addition to permitting drivers to drive immediately upon qualification, Hatfield said this would speed up processing the license cards by eliminating delays caused by persons who call or write about their licenses. "No one should feel the need to call about their license card," he said, "because he has permission to drive with a license valid for 15 days which is more than the normal time needed to process the application."

State Holding Own in Drive Against Traffic Deaths

Fewer Fatalities Are Reported in July and August Than Year Ago

The Minnesota highway department reports that Minnesota motorists are holding the line in the fight against traffic fatalities.

August was the second consecutive month this year in which there were fewer traffic deaths than during the same month in 1956. The total of 63 people killed in traffic during August was 18 less than during the same period last year. Six pedestrian deaths were reported, compared to eight during August of last year.

The death rate per 100 million vehicle miles remained at 4.6 for August, the same as July. Although there were 63 deaths during August compared with the 52 for July, the rate remained the same because of the heavy increase in travel.

During the 62 days of July and August this year there were 48 fewer traffic deaths than during the same months last year, down 30 per cent. Highway safety officials point out that should this rate of improvement be maintained throughout the remainder of the year Minnesota would complete the year with less than 600 traffic deaths. There were 640 traffic fatalities during 1956, and 580 in 1955.

New ASC Regulations for Small Wheat Farm

Minnesota farmers with wheat acreage allotments of less than 30 acres can grow up to 30 acres of wheat in 1958, if the wheat is used only on the farm where produced.

This is a new provision recently enacted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to Ermond Hartmans and Hal Routhe, the extension farm management specialists at the University of Minnesota.

They point out that this provision can make it possible for many farmers to grow wheat in place of oats. Wheat is a more profitable crop than oats on many Minnesota farms.

However, a farmer using this provision is compelled to feed all the home-grown wheat on his own farm. That means that if a farmer had an original allotment of 15 acres but plants 30 acres, he will not be allowed to sell any wheat.

To be eligible for the 30-acre provision, wheat growers must sign an application prior to planting time on the farm or by Oct. 15, 1957, whichever is later. That means applications for winter wheat must be signed as soon as possible. For spring wheat, though, the forms can be signed in 1958, just before planting.

In any case, the application must be approved by the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committees. Forms are now available in ASC county offices.

Hunters Going out Saturday in Quest of Ruffed Grouse

Game and Fish Director Says Supply of Elusive Birds Will Be Spotty

Hunters are expected to take to the woods in goodly numbers Saturday, September 28, in hopes of bagging some ruffed grouse. Considered by most sportsmen to be the "king of the game birds," the ruffed grouse exhibit some pretty violent "ups and downs" in their numbers.

This fall hunters will find grouse populations to be spotty as they begin to recover from a low in their cycle. One thing is certain, however, and that is many hunters will find worms in the grouse they shoot, and wonder about the edibility of these birds.

"Do not be surprised or alarmed if you find worms in the body cavity of grouse when you're cleaning them," says James Lee, assistant to director of game and fish.

"Most of the worms seen will be whitish colored roundworms about the size of a matchstick and approximately two inches long. These are 'ascarids' which live in the birds' intestinal tract. When a shot perforates the intestines the worms often move out into the body cavity. These worms do not affect the meat and hunters need not throw the bird away. These parasitic worms are common to ruffed grouse all over the country. In cases of heavy infestation the birds appear to suffer some ill effects. Studies have been made on these parasites to determine if they are responsible for the periodic decline in grouse numbers, but there is no evidence that this is true."

$99 Million Paid on Life Insurance Policies in State

Payments to living policyholders in Minnesota from their life insurance companies were $62,710,000 in 1956, which was 63 percent of the year's total life insurance benefit payments to the families of this state, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

These payments were in addition to $36,272,000 of death benefits paid to the families of this state and compare with payments of $58,217,000 to living policyholders the year before. The "living" benefits include matured endowments, disability benefits, annuity payments, cash surrender values paid out and dividends to policyholders.

Last year the total of all payments to policyholders and beneficiaries in this state amounted to $98,991,000 compared with $95,195,000 the year before.

Asks Meetings to Consider Family Farms Hearing

Rep. Coya Knutson said today that any community desiring more information on procedures for testifying before the family farms subcommittee in the hearings, should arrange a meeting for such advice. She said, "My assistant will be available to meet with groups interested in developing testimony for our committee hearings which will be held in Fergus Falls on November 14 and 15. Please contact my office, 250 House Office Building, Washington, D. C., immediately to allow adequate time for scheduling and preparing any such meeting."

Choose always the way that seems best, however rough it may be; custom will soon render it easy and agreeable.— Pythagoras

An Urgent Need

The Northfield News points out that during the past year ninety-one fatal accidents occurred on rural road intersections, and urges that counties provide more warning and directional signs for rural road traffic. Governor Orville Freeman has called attention to this need and has urged that county officials give more consideration to the safety factor on rural highways.

This is a problem that deserves more consideration than it has received. There are many intersections in our own rural area where the driving hazard could be greatly reduced by the removal of brush and other obstacles to the clear view that is so important to safety. Fortunately these are problems that can be solved at relatively low cost.

Half A Billion For India?

India is asking our government for a half a billion dollar loan, and for a country that can't make up its mind whether it likes us or not it strikes us that India is asking a great deal. Fortunately our government is having financial difficulties of its own, and so action on this request has been held up for the time being.

A question has been raised as to whether we should continue loaning foreign-aid to governments. It has been suggested that we should revert to the original practice of providing assistance for people rather than for their governments.

Advocates of this method of distributing aid think we will stand a better chance of accomplishing our purpose if we help people to help themselves instead of giving the money to political bosses, to be used, in too many instances, for the furthering of projects that have little economic value and serve only to strengthen the position of those in power.

We may accept as true that much of what we have spent for foreign aid has been wasted. In dealing with problems of this kind some mistakes are to be expected.

But in dealing with these problems now there no longer is need for hasty action, and we should consider carefully all of the angles before we lay our dollars on the line. While some of the past mistakes can be overlooked, there is no good reason why we should keep on making mistakes, and it would be a healthy thing for the overall problem if our procedures underwent a careful and critical scrutiny.

Who Has The Right Answer?

We can't remember a year in this area when crops got off to a better start than they did this year, nor can we remember one with a more discouraging finish. The finish is more discouraging probably because the start was so good.

Our area is not going to contribute to the difficulties of the surplus problem this year. Nevertheless, in spite of the fact that here and in many other sections of the country, crop yields have been greatly reduced because of adverse weather conditions, and in spite of the fact that millions of acres have been taken out of production under the Soil Bank program, it appears that the total production nationally is going to be close to the all-time record.

It is obvious that we are not making progress in bringing supply and demand back into a normal, healthy relationship. Those who are discovering ways of increasing production per acre or per cow are much more successful than those who are trying to reduce production to actual market needs. And this is true not only in our country but thruout the world.

Where is the brilliant doctor who can prescribe the remedy for this condition? Farm leaders and farm organizations disagree among themselves as to what should be done. The politicians, of course, have many pink pill prescriptions to relieve the pain, but none to effect a cure.

The stubborn fact that we are producing too much is not admitted by all these leaders and organizations, but it must be recognized. And who has the right answer for the control of production? Must it come by regimentation or by the natural processes under the laws that provide for the survival of the fittest?

City In Good Condition

The present city council deserves much credit for the good job it has done in improving the city's financial position. There have been times, in recent years, when our city's credit has not been good. Bills were not being paid when due. Now the city is "current" in all its obligations and the various funds have cash balances. That is as it should be.

The city is also in a strong financial condition. It is true that the funded debt is large, but so is the city's ability to pay, and with continued good management the debt load need not be an oppressive burden.

The bad thing about our bonded debt is that too much of it comes due too soon. Nearly two-thirds of the total comes due in the next six years and that probably is placing too much of the burden on the present taxpayers.

These payments could properly be spread out over a longer period of time. The fact that all of our present obligations are for purchases that have been made within the last ten years indicates that we have been very fair with future generations in meeting our share of the cost of improvements that will provide service for many years.

One of our principle sources of revenue has been our sale of electricity. Now that we are assured of securing power at a lower cost the sales should become increasingly profitable. The increased net revenue from this source will be very helpful in meeting our obligations.

Practically all of our present tax levy for city purposes is for debt service. The levy will have to remain high therefore if we continue to retire the bonds as they come due during the next few years. If these issues were met in part by refunding then the present tax levy could be reduced substantially.

Plenty of Work For It

(Omaha World-Herald)

Among the grand plans for the new Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs was an ice cream factory capable of turning out five times as much ice cream as the Academy could use, and a bakery with a capacity of 3,600 loaves per hour.

Now Senator Thye of Minnesota, chairman of a Senate Small Business subcommittee, has announced, after hearings, that the Air Force has agreed to abandon these plans and to buy its bread and ice cream from private industry.

The Hoover Commission on Government Reorganization reported in 1955 that the Defense Department operated 2,500 enterprises, valued at 15 billion dollars, turning out products which could be supplied by private businesses. It was noted that such a valuation would equal the combined capital stock of General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, United States Steel and Du Pont.

Obviously, the Thye committee has displayed a rare persuasive talent which should be kept working full time.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare University of Minnesota

Circumstances Not Identical

Parents often are puzzled when their children respond differently to what seems identical circumstances. The answer, of course, is that no matter how hard one might try, identical circumstances cannot be produced. Conflicting court testimony among several thoroughly honest witnesses to the same events points up this fact. Each person sees, thinks, and feels in his own unique way. In addition to the uniqueness of each person, there are age differences which cause interesting variations in observation.

Take Joy, three years old, for example. After an eventful day spent at the zoo, Joy was asked what she liked best. "That man with the light on his nose. Can't we go to see him lots of times?" She referred to a sign advertising the local electric company, which she had passed on the way to the zoo. Joy had given a specific reply reflecting the way she felt at the moment about the trip. At three, of course, Joy is not yet at an age where she can select and organize and generalize her experiences.

Recently, seven year old Danny came into a college classroom with a note for the teacher. Although it was a brief note, Danny's musings and mutterings were so interesting, the teacher pretended to be reading in order to listen to Danny: "Six windows—four lights — one of them jittery—what a silly way to paint—somebory sure messed up these chairs." Danny was taking the room apart, seven year old fashion. The chairs were numbered and were out of numerical order; the paint patterns had been changed in order to lower blackboards. All of this, in detail, Danny noticed in a few seconds.

For contrast, after he left, the college students were asked to close their eyes tightly and then describe the room. No one could say how many windows or lights; no one had noticed the out of order seat numbers; the paint was mentioned only as "neutral, not too attractive." Their comments were all very general and descriptive of a total effect or mood, and not at all like Danny's. Circumstances just are not identical for all, so interpretations must take this into consideration.

Storage of Fruits and Vegetables

Gardeners often overlook the fact that vegetables and fruits are still alive and continue to grow after they have been harvested. To keep them in storage, we must keep them living as long as possible. To do so, we regulate the temperature and moisture conditions in the storage room to retard the growth processes.

Storage temperature should be between 32 degrees and 40 degrees F. for most vegetables—including carrots, beets, rutabagas, potatoes, celery and cabbage. Carrots and beets can be stored in 10-gallon crocks without any medium. Before placing them in storage, however, remove part of the crown of the root with the top. Then place a burlap bag over the top of the container to keep the air moist inside.

University of Minnesota research shows that apples keep very well in perforated polyethylene bags at temperatures between 32 degrees to 40 degrees F.

Onions require cool dry conditions for good keeping. They keep well near the ceiling of the storage room or in an attic that is above freezing.

Squash and pumpkins keep best in a warm dry room, usually outside the regular vegetable room, at temperatures of about 40 degrees to 50 degrees F. Sometimes they can be stored on shelves outside of the regular storage room. Successful storage of these crops, however, will depend upon the curing of the fruits for a few weeks in the field at high temperatures to harden the skin.

Parsley and chives can be dried and powdered for winter use in the kitchen. Select small plants for this purpose.

Children never "outgrow" crossed eyes. Unless competent help is received in time, they may actually lose vision— even though the crossed eye returns to a normal position.

During the past year it took 3,172,812 lbs. of fresh and frozen beef to satisfy the appetites of bluejackets at the world's largest Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Completes Changeover

Byron Pearson, Goodhue county farmer, changed over to a contour strip cropping system with a corn, grain, hay, hay rotation, with well-established waterways and four major gully control and water detention dams. The whole switch took just 3 years. This change means 400 acres less in the run-off total within the Spring Creek Watershed area. Pearson heads the Spring Creek Protective association, the group that initiated the flood control idea.

Reduces Spoilage In Silo

A Chippewa county farmer, Ray Salenga, has found that covering silage with a sheet of plastic can practically eliminate surface spoilage. He covered silage both in an upright and in a bunker silo with plastic last year. There was no spoilage on the surface of the upright structure. In the bunker silo, the silage kept so well that he held half of it over for next winter.

Hills Can Be "Smoothed"

Ever think of smoothing down irregular hills? Phil Boxrud, St. James, did just that. Aided by Pat Kennedy, Soil Conservation Service, he cut the hillocks and filled the draws so that he has a nice, sloping field. It's tailormade for contour strip cropping.

Farmer Finds Key

Peter McKay, farmer near Brainerd, has found that plenty of lime and fertilizer make it possible to establish alfalfa in that area of Minnesota. Based on soil tests, he applied 3 tons lime and 80 ponuds of potash per acre in 1956 and added another 200 pounds of 0-0-60 at seeding time. This year, he harvested 4 tons of hay in two cuttings.

ALWAYS BETTER BUYS AT GAMBLES

Outlook for Cattle Feeding Good in 1958

With less beef cattle in the nation and lower feed prices expected for next year, cattle feeding prospects are good for 1958, according to Hal Routhe and Ermond Hartman's extension agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota.

They say there maybe reduced beef supplies for several years, meaning there is a good chance for better prices to producers. Feed will be somewhat cheaper during th coming year, which should also improve the profit picture for beef.

Corn is expected to average $1.15 per bushel in 1957-58, compared to $1.25 in 1956-57. Hay is expected to be $3 cheaper per ton.

There were a million less beef cows and heifers on U. S. farms in January, 1957, than there were a year earlier. Total number last January was 30.7 million and the economists look for an even 30 million by the end of this year. Beef calves and steers are also down from last year and are expected to decline more. Because of fewer cows in breeding herds, the 1957 calf crop was 2 percent down from a year earlier.

Drought-forced selling won't be as high as in recent years, but slaughter will still be large enough to reduce meat inventories by ½ million head by January, 1958.

A peak in feeder cattle marketing is expected in late October or early November. Cattle should have better condition and more weight than last year and prices for feeders should be $3-4 higher than a year ago.

Slaughter cattle may bring slightly lower market prices during the next month or two, but these prices should increase later on. The outlook is for higher prices for feed cattle in early 1958 and possibly still higher in the year.

How many cattle are fed during the coming year may well depend on the weather. If the corn crop matures in most areas, farmers will feed fewer cattle. However, more plainer and heavier cattle will move into feedlots rather than through slaughter channels if there is an early frost and a lot of soft corn.

To be happy at home is the ultimate result of all ambition.—Samuel Johnson.

Prayer, in its simplest definition, is merely a wish turned God-ward.—Phillips Brooks.

Cone Harvest Was Most Successful

Forestry Division Gets 5,000 Bushels of Cones

Like the "men who came to the aid of their country" the cone collectors came to the aid of the Minnesota division of forestry and exceeded the goal of 4,000 bushels of pine and spruce cones by 1,000 bushels.

Ray Clement, forester in charge of nurseries and tree planting, and the men at the nurseries were almost swamped by the loads of cones, which provide the seeds to be planted in the three state tree nurseries in the next 3 or 4 years.

Complete reports are not yet available but it is estimated that about $20,000 was paid to the persons and organizations collecting the cones. About 3,350 bushels were Norway pine, first choice of the three pine trees and particularly valuable because a good crop of Norway cones is produced only once in every three to five years. Eight-hundred and eighty bushels of white spruce, and 680 bushel of white pine cones were brought in.

It is estimated that more than 300 million seeds will be secured from the 5,000 bushels, and at least one half of those seeds can produce trees when planted in the nursery. The seeds can be stored for several years under proper conditions and about 50,000,000 seeds will be planted each year in the nurseries located at Carlos Avery refuge and the Willow River and Badoura tree nurseries.

The trees will be grown two to three years in the nursery and then dug for shipment and planting on private owned lands, public forests and parks, and other public lands. Requisitions for trees for planting next spring are now being accepted at the field forestry offices and by the agricultural agent and soil conservation officers.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
by JIM KIMBALL

Does it sometimes seem to you that hunting regulations are unnecessarily complicated and a bit inconsistent at times? Do you ever wonder if the Conservation Department could be complicating the rules just to make the sport more difficult or even (perish the thought) to set you up as an easy pinch for some foxy game warden? Reviewing this year's hunting regulations, it's not surprising if you have a few doubts.

For example, we set a pheasant season which is state-wide and all with the same bag limit. Then the next week we announce a deer season which has no less than eight zones with seasons ranging from one to nine days in length — and this we claim to be modern, efficient game management.

It truly is good game management, of course, and I only hope I am more successful in justifying it than I have been in making it appear ridiculous.

Since our last issue, everyone is convinced, I trust, that a pheasant population cannot be reduced by shooting cocks. You also know that in poor range pheasants will increase for a few years, then decline, whether hunted or not. So, in good range and poor, if they are not harvested they are wasted.

But deer management is quite another thing. The carrying capacity of the timbered deer range of the northeast is determined by the food supply — winter food is the limiting factor. In the south and west carrying capacity is determined by farmer tolerance. Here food is plentiful, and, with an efficient warden force now keeping poaching under control, deer soon would be too abundant if we did not impose a limiting factor — the gun. Excuse me archers — the gun and the bow and arrow.

Most farmers like most wild game. All farmers like deer — but not too many. When a farmer says, "I'm getting quite a few deer on my place but would like to see 'em build up just a bit more", that is the time to open the season.

Nobody ever had just enough deer. They only come in two quantities: too few or too many. And once a farmer has had too many, too few is a lot fewer than it used to be.

In farming country where food is nutritious and plentiful, deer are more prolific, survive better and grow faster than in the north woods where good food is less abundant. While big woods does are having single and twin fawns, farm does are producing twins and triplets.

Now the objective of deer management is more deer to shoot. This means holding annual production as high as possible without damaging the range. This is done, of course, by maintaining the largest possible herd of brood stock which the range will adequately support or the farmer will tolerate.

Deer are easily over-shot in farming country. A four or five day season can cut the herd so low that it takes four years to get it up again. This means four years of no harvestable surplus and no hunt. On the other hand a one or two day season may take just enough to keep our friend the farmer wanting "just a few more" and still leave good brood stock to produce another harvest the next year. Obviously this can be accomplished only through a season based on knowledge of deer abundance, habitat conditions and hunting pressure, and because these conditions vary throughout the state we must have several zones. If our facts are off, our zones are off, and we goof — a most rare phenomenon.

Coal carried by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway in 1956 was hauled an average distance of 291 miles. The road's 1956 coal tonnage was 65 per cent of its total freight and amounted to almost 84,500,000 tons.

Golden Rule Club

Mrs. Helmer Carlson entertained the Golden Rule Club at her home in Karlstad a week ago Thursday afternoon. All members were present except Elsie Kimbrough, who has been ill. Games were played and prizes given. Freda served a very delicious lunch.

Thursday callers at the Clarence Borsvold home were Mrs. Clarence Carlson and Lynnae of Kennedy, Mrs. Augusta Borsvold and Teddy of Newfolden, Mr. and Mrs. George Wikstrom of Karlstad. Lynnae stayed to visit with the Borsvolds 'til Friday evening.

Mrs. Art Linder, Mrs. Henry Schey and Mrs. Clara Kurpen were visitors at Thief River Falls on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lubarski and family were lunch and supper guests at Frank Lubarski's home at Argyle Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wysocki of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wallin and family, Mrs. Mabel Swenson, Mrs. Elvina Anderson and John Underberg of Karlstad called at the Robert Koland home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Paulson attended Market Day in Lancaster Saturday and met many old friends.

Mrs. Oscar Carlson had surgery at the Karlstad hospital on Friday and we're glad to hear she's home again. Mrs. Albert Stromlund was chief cook at school during her absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Swanson of Minneapolis and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dahlman of Lancaster were dinner guests at the Otto Paulson home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson spent Tuesday afternoon in Lake Bronson calling on Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lokken and Mr. and Mrs. Anton Pearson.

Mmes. Ed Boen, Andrew Boen, Ed Carlson, Paula Lindgren, Otto Paulson, Wm. Wikstrom, Ed Stennes, E. H. Anderson and Ella Thom met at the Robert Koland residence Friday evening to celebrate Mrs. Koland's birthday. No wonder we can't reduce!

Double Birthday

Mrs. Ed Nelson entertained a group of children last week in honor of Susan's and Hugh's birthday which are a day apart. We're not short of cheerleaders nor basketball players for a long time by the interest shown!

Mrs. Dolpha Johnson and her sister, Mrs. Art Johnson of Kelliher visited with Ottina Rokke on Saturday evening. Sunday Ottina accompanied them to Karlstad for a ride.

The village has had a little digging done between Klegstads and the railroad ditch to drain the water away from the stand pipe. This is a precaution to try and keep it from freezing up this winter. Some people are also very careless in not closing the tap after taking their water.

Mrs. Art Johnson and Mrs. Wallace Cook left for their homes on Monday after spending a few days with their sister and mother, Mrs. Dolpha Johnson.

Both young and old have taken off for the potato fields so here's hoping the weather stays nice.

Mrs. Anna Norbom, an early pioneer resident of Clearwater county, passed away on September 14 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alfred Carlson of Strandquist, Minn. at the age of 84 years, 6 months and 4 days. She was born in Dalerna, Sweden the 28th day of February, 1873 to Per and Anna Halvorson. She came to this country at the age of 19 and settled near Warren, Minn. where she lived for a number of years. She was united in marriage to Peter Norbom on October 2, 1899 and to this union were born 6 children, 2 boys and 4 girls. She was preceded in death by her husband, two sons, Edwin and Oscar and one daughter Esther; also her parents and three sisters.

They homesteaded in Clearwater county and moved there in 1938 where they resided until the death of her husband in 1940.

The past ten years Mrs. Norbom has made her home at Strandquist, Minn. She was a kind and loving wife and mother and her home was always open to the Lord's servants. Her sacrificial gifts and service to the gospel work will long be remembered.

She leaves to mourn her passing 3 daughters, Mrs. Alfred Carlson of Strandquist, Mrs. Ed Logelin of Minneapolis and Mrs. Archie Larson of Clearbrook. Also ten grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends. The funeral was held at the Karlstad Pentecostal church Sept. 21 at 10:30 a.m. with Rev. C. R. Logelin officiating.

REMEMBER?

Being a child isn't nearly so much fun when it's happening as it is when you look back on it!

Somehow we remember, when we got a little older, just how much better strawberry shortcake tasted then, and how special each day seemed. We forget the scraped knees, the hurt feelings, the times when we were naughty and got punished!

Most of us belonged to some particular church in our childhood. Looking back, it often seems like it was the best church in the world. Yet ... like so much of what we remember of childhood ... it wasn't, really—BECAUSE ALL CHURCHES ARE WONDERFUL.

"In My Father's House Are Many Mansions." Jesus wasn't speaking of earthly houses. Yet, on earth, God has many mansions too. Your church ... anybody's church ... is one of them.

Go to Church this Sunday, especially if you haven't been for a while. You'll find that going to church now is a lot better than just remembering the church of your childhood.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Burglars Rob 5 Places in St. Hilaire Sunday

Stolen Automobile Also Is Believed Taken by Culprits

Burglars in St. Hilaire had a busy Sunday evening, breaking into and robbing five business places in that town sometime after dark Sunday, Sheriff Charles Richards said today.

Richards said the five places robbed were St. Hilaire Co-op. Creamery, the liquor store, St. Hilaire Mercantile, Redwood Inn, and Rolland Brothers' service station. The Mercantile firm suffered heaviest losses in merchandise of all places robbed, according to the authorities.

Smallest individual loss reported was about $20 in cash and the largest loss was approximately $45-50 in merchandise, the sheriff stated. Total losses would come to about $150 for the five firms, he added.

All the firms broken into sustained some damage in the process of the burglar or burglars' entry, in addition to money or merchandise stolen.

Also believed to be connected with the burglaries was the theft of a 1952 Mercury club coupe belonging to David Sorvik of St. Hilaire. The light blue car was taken sometime Sunday night, authorities say.

Richards said the robberies are apparently the work of amateurs and that he and other officers are checking out leads in hopes of a quick solution of the case.

No. Central Gets CAB Approval for Expanded Service

Authorized to Set up Non-stop Service Between Duluth and Chicago

The civil aeronautics board (CAB) Friday authorized North Central Airlines to expand its service between major Wisconsin communities and Chicago, Duluth, Minn., and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

At the same time the CAB discontinued the authority of Northwest Airlines to serve Duluth.

Both actions, first announced July 3 in a tentative decision, will take effect Nov. 26.

The board authorized North Central to operate non-stop between Chicago and Duluth-Superior, and to make one stop at Madison, Wis., and two stops by way of Green Bay, Wis., and Milwaukee, Wis.

The board said there is a need for improved Duluth-Chicago service but no need for the services of both North Central and Northwest.

TRF Flying Club Meets Friday at 8

To Discuss Procuring Equipment for Planes

A general meeting of the Thief River Falls Flying Club will be held Friday evening at 8 p.m. at the airport cafe, it was announced today by club President Kenneth Wendel.

Purpose of the meeting is to discuss current club affairs and finances and procurement of new equipment for the club airplanes, Wendel announced.

Wendel urged that all members of the club, whether in good standing or not, attend the meeting and make their voices heard in club affairs.

Members are also notified that, as of Sept. 4, those who have not paid the special assessment levied against Thief River Falls Flying Club members last July are delinquent and automatically became members not in good standing as of the above date.

Such members may not use club airplanes until the assessment is paid, Wendel emphasized.

Effective Tuesday, October 1, a charge of three cents per word, regardless of the number of insertions, will be effective for classified advertisements published in the Times.

Pianist to Appear in [illegible]t Concert Number [illegible] Season October 7

Margaret Barthel will present the opening concert of the Northwest Concert association series Monday, October 7, at 8 p.m. at the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Admission to the concert, one of four scheduled in Thief River Falls this fall and winter, will be by season ticket only, and local residents are asked to procure their tickets this week at the Larson Music store, or by calling Norman Peterson at Northwestern Hospital.

A child prodigy, Margaret Barthel began her formal studies at the age of five. At the time Margaret gave her first full recital at the age of eight, she was already the official pianist of the local church. Success came rapidly to the young artist. At the age of thirteen she was soloist with the Detroit Symphony, and at fourteen she gave a joint recital at the famous Orchestra Hall in Detroit in which she shared the stage with Metropolitan tenor Tito Schipa.

The winning of the Samaroff scholarship award gave Miss Barthel three years of study under the late Olga Samaroff Stokowski, and following Madam Samaroff's death, she continued her work with the eminent Hungarian pedagogue, Charles De Bodo. The climax of her many honors was the winning of the coveted Naumburg Award. The noted American composer, Henry Cowell, was so impressed with the young artist that he wrote "Improvisation" for her debut recital at Town Hall.

Miss Barthel's concerts in the midwest last season took her into seven states and included appearances with the Minneapolis Symphony and the Fargo-Moorhead Symphony.

Release County Seed Raisers from Agreements Early

Certified and Registered Seeds to Be Released to Market a Month Earlier

Seedgrowers in Pennington county who increased new seed last year will be released from their agreements earlier than in the past, according to Paul Stelmaschuk, county agent.

In the past the new seed was held in the county for other seed growers and farmers until December 1, if certified, and until January 1 if registered. Now the release dates are Nov. 1 and December 1 respectively. This means that the growers can sell the new seed on the open market a month earlier.

County seed growers and farmers wishing to secure new seed for another year will have to get their orders to the producers before the producers are released from their contracts, to insure a seed supply.

New varieties increased in the county under agreements in 1957 were Conley wheat, Bolley flax, Minhafer oats, Forrest and Parkland barley. The producers of this seed can sell it to any buyer after November 1 if its registered seed.

Vandalism Noted Here over Weekend

Plate Glass Window in Insurance Office Broken

Police Chief Elton Cummings was busy today investigating pranks and vandalism that happened here over the weekend after unknown individuals threw a rock through a plate glass window on the north side of the Robert Lund Insurance Agency Saturday night.

Several other instances of mischief, believed to be the work of juvenile pranksters, were also getting close scrutiny from the chief, who said this was one of his busiest weekends for some time.

The window breakage was the third such episode in recent weeks, Cummings said. Some time earlier some person or persons unknown had broken a window at St. Bernard's Catholic church, while the third case involved another local business concern.

Mercury Hits High of 75 Here Sunday

Ideal Weather Prevails in Area Since Thursday

Some very pleasant developments have taken place on the weather scene since last Thursday—and, if the weatherman's forecast holds true Pennington county residents are in for more of the same pleasant tasting medicine.

For the first time in several weeks your Times weather reporter can say, "No moisture fell recently." The second welcome news tidbit is that the mercury has been in a steady climb since last mid-week, with a high reading of 75 attained Sunday. Low temperature for the period—and for the new fall season so far—was 26, occurring Thursday and accounting for the second killing frost of the season.

If you are one of those who likes to drive out to see the blazing pageantry of fall the KTRF forecaster says conditions will be ideal for it through Tuesday, at least.

Fair and warm weather is predicted through Tuesday and good drying conditions will prevail. High expected today is 68 and the low tonight, 42.

Miss Frances Shanahan, Carnegie public librarian, late last week attended the annual convention of the Minnesota Library association at the Lowry Hotel in St. Paul. The three day session ended Saturday.

Farm Policies Topic of Farm Bureau Heads

Eight County Bureau Heads at Meeting in City Thursday Night

Several aspects of the farm situation were reviewed here Thursday evening when Farm Bureau leaders from eight northwest Minnesota counties met at the Rex Cafe for their semi-annual leadership conference and policy development session.

Verlon Welch, assistant to state Farm Bureau President J. L. Morton led the policy development session, while James Flavin, acting organization director convened with membership campaign managers to outline procedures for this fall's membership drive.

During an interview here Friday morning Welch stated a quota of 800 new members has been set for northwest Minnesota. He added that prospects of topping the quota look bright.

As regards to the farm program, the county heads discussed research into new uses for farm products, development of markets, support levels and the preferred local means of handling such disasters at the too-plentiful rains the past year.

While little discussion on support levels took place, Welch said, he stated that the county bureau heads were in favor of changing acreage allotments from basic to feed in order to make the individual farm plan easier to set up.

In a discussion on inflation, which has seriously affected all farmers, the county bureau leaders disclosed they are interested more in cutting the national budget, rather than balancing it. Their opinion was that too much of the "cheap" money in circulation was being channeled to Washington. They spoke in terms of net income, which is down, Welch said.

The need for labor union members to be "better citizens" was voiced by the policy makers also. They said better participation in union affairs by union members, plus abolition of the withholding of union dues from members' paychecks, would go far in making the union member feel more conscious of his duties as a union member.

This would also make it difficult for labor leaders to use union funds for graft, resulting in disclosure such as those brought out by the McClellan committee in respect to Dave

Mantoux Testing to Start Monday in Local Schools

Kindergarten, Fourth, Seventh, Ninth and 12th Grades to Receive Tests

Mantoux tests will be given in the T.R.F. schools during October, Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse, said today. The grades will be tested Monday, October 7, and high school Monday, October 14. Request slips will be sent home in the next few days and parents are urged to sign them immediately and return them to school.

A Mantoux test is a simple skin test which is administered between the layers of skin just below the elbow. If this area becomes red with slight swelling, it means the persons has come in contact with an active case of tuberculosis and has been infected. It does not mean that he is ill with the disease nor that he will necessarily become ill with tuberculosis. That is what the testing program aims to avoid.

Any student who reacts to the Mantoux test will have a chest Xray. All students who have previously been positive will also be X-rayed at this time.

Grades being tested are kindergarten, 4th, 7th, 9th and 12th. All faculty and maintainance staff will also participate and any students new to the schools, regardless of grade, should be tested.

Dr. Flancher and Mrs. Mary Vattendahl of the Crookston Sanatorium will give the tests.

Plans Announced for '58 Centennial Train

State history will be paraded around Minnesota next year in a six-car railroad train, reminiscent of the national "Freedom Train," county centennial chairmen were told in St. Paul Friday.

Among those in attendance was Herman A. Kjos, Pennington county chairman.

The train, a 376-foot rolling exhibit, is to hit the rails soon after Easter when the weather becomes warm enough so the train won't have to be heated while parked at sidings for public inspection. Thief River Falls will be one of the stopping places.

The cars will unfold six aspects of Minnesota history to commemorate the year-long 100th birthday observance in 1958. Here are details as outlined to county historical planners who wound up a two-day Centennial planning session at St. Paul hotel Saturday.

Car 1: Reconstruction of Minnesota history, the heritage, with pictures, documents, exhibits.

CAR 2: Resources — people, land, minerals, recreation facilities.

CAR 3: Agriculture and food processing.

Car 4: Industry, manufacturing, transportation.

CAR 5: Social progress — fine arts, music, dancing, architecture.

CAR 6: The future and its opportunities.

The train crew will be furnished by co-operating railroads. Routing will have to follow railroading requirements rather than trying to fit each stop to some local pageant, said Tom Swain, Centennial executive director.

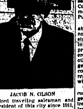
Flood Relief Not to be Used to Pay Crop Losses Here

Succumbs Sunday



JACOB N. OLSON

Retired traveling salesman and a resident of this city since 1911, who passed away Sunday evening at the age of 87. Funeral rites will be conducted Wednesday afternoon from Zion Lutheran church.

Floyd E. Sjolander, chairman of the Minnesota state USDA disaster committee, this week issued the following statement: "An apparent misunderstanding seems to exist in Minnesota as to the intended use of $24 million in emergency federal conservation assistance provided by Congress recently in the enactment of Public Law 85-58 and Public Law 85-170.

"These funds are made available on a national basis, with no specific allocation to any state, and are intended for use in treating new conservation problems resulting from wind erosion, flood, hurricanes, and other natural disasters. Emergency ACP assistance is on a cost-share basis the same as the regular ACP programs with which we are more familiar.

"Public Law 85-58 states the conditions under which emergency funds may be used to treat new conservation problems. Under the law, these problems must be such that: (1) if not treated, they will impair or endanger the land; (2) they materially affect the productive capacity of the land; (3) they represent damage which is unusual in character and, except for wind erosion, is not the type which would recur frequently in the same area, and (4) they will be so costly to rehabilitate that Federal assistance is or will be required to return the land to productive agricultural use.

"Requests for assistance, under Public Laws 85-58 and 85-170 must originate with county disaster committees. Minnesota has 28 such committees organized and functioning. Their requests have been, and are being, considered by the state disaster committee, and certain recommendations by the state committee have already been forwarded to the national disaster committee.

"Designation of eligible areas and allocation of emergency funds are made by the secretary of agriculture on the basis of the recommendations submitted through the state and county disaster committees and other available informations.

"Those counties and areas declared eligible for assistance under the provisions of Public Law 85-58 and Public Law 85-170 will then have available for their use emergency ACP practices on a cost-share basis not to exceed 80% of total cost. These practices will generally deal with removal of debris and silt, severe scouring and gully-

Employer Tax Forms to Be Mailed Oct .15

A. R. Knox, district director of internal revenue for the Minnesota district, announced today that the internal revenue service has changed its method of mailing employment tax forms to employers who report and pay income tax withheld from wages and taxes under the federal insurance contributions act.

Early in 1957, Form 941, employer's quarterly federal tax return, was printed as a "self-mailer," and the practice of enclosing the forms in envelopes was discontinued.

On or about October 15, there will be a special mailing to employers of a booklet, captioned "Employer's Tax Information Forms," containing the following forms and publication which, in past years, were enclosed with Forms 941:

(For the immediate use of employers)

Form W-4, "Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate," for use by new employees or by employees whose exemptions will be different next year. Six forms are provided in the booklet.

Publication No. 213, a bulletin board poster for use by the employer in reminding his employees of the importance of claiming their withholding exemptions correctly.

Jacob Olson, Here 46 Years, Succumbs

Rites to Be Wednesday in Zion Lutheran Church

Funeral services will be conducted on Wednesday afternoon, at 2:00 P.M. at the Zion Lutheran Church, with Rev. Otto Dale and Rev. Walter Pedersen officiating, for Jacob N. Olson, a long-time resident of the city, who passed away at Northwestern Hospital on Sunday evening. Mr. Olson, who had been in failing health since suffering a stroke a year ago, succumbed to respiratory complications. He born in Nes, Romerike, Norway, Oct. 8th, 1869, and at the time of his death was 87 years old.

Mr. Olson grew to manhood at Spicer, Minnesota, and in November, 1904, he was united in marriage to Miss Emma Olson Hauge. The couple homesteaded a claim near Ross, North Dakota, where they resided until March, 1911, when they moved to Thief River Falls and established residence.

1958 May Be Good for Hog Producer

Lower Prices Due, But Feed Costs Will Be Down

The coming year should be profitable for hog producers, even though hog prices may run lower than they have been during the past 12 months.

The reason for the favorable hog outlook is that feed costs will be lower, say Hal Routhe and Emond Hartmans, extension agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota.

The 1957 fall pig crop is estimated at 37 million head. This is more than last year but still almost a million less than in 1955. There were 3 per cent less sows farrowed this spring than a year ago, but more pigs saved per litter resulted in a spring pig crop about the same as in 1956. Breeders intend to have about a half million more pigs farrowed this fall than last.

Hog prices should reach a low in November and December, but this low is expected to be about $1-2 higher than in 1956. The economists add, though, that there isn't apt to be as rapid a recovery as a year ago and prices in general will be lower.

Spring farrowing is continuing to be a good practice for many farmers to follow. During next June, July and August, prices will run about 20 percent above prices in October, November and December when late spring pigs are marketed. Also, it will be most profitable to market hogs at 200-220 pounds, the economists say.

Pork prices could get a lift from a slight decrease in beef supplies and increased beef prices in 1958. Pork consumption per capital was up slightly in 1956 from a year earlier and, with higher beef prices, could increase again in 1958.

Champion Butter Maker at Age of 17

Curtis Kuehn, Mazeppa, Winner of State Contest

History repeated itself and a great deal more was made today when a 17-year-old Mazeppa, Minn., youth, Curtis C. Kuehn, was named 1957 champion buttermaker of Minnesota, an honor won by his father, Eldred A. Kuehn, Mazeppa, in 1945 and 1947.

By winning, Curtis established three records:

1. He is the youngest individual to win that high honor.
2. His average score, 99.70, is the highest recorded by any winner.
3. He is the only young man whose father had won the honor before him.

Four contests are conducted each year among the buttermakers of Minnesota, sponsored by the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee, the Minnesota department of agriculture, the Minnesota state fair, and the Minnesota Creamery Operator's and Managers' Association. The Minnesota man who enters all four contests and whose average in all four events is the highest is declared the State Champion Buttermaker for the year. Young Curtis won in a rugged, stiff contest in which the standards were higher than ever, and the number of competing who completed all four contests was high, a total of 133 buttermakers. His father had an average score of 96.94 in 1945 and 96.27 in 1947.

Reserve champion is Edward A. Mahowald, 32, Farmington, Twin City Milk Producers Association, who had an average score of 99.58 in the four contests. Third place went to Clifford Skime, Roseau, with 99.52. Ward Rawhouser, Isanti, averaged fourth, with 99.4215, while Eldred A. Kuehn, Mazeppa, was fifth, with an average of 99.4155.

Truck Hits Moose Near Middle River

Lloyd Zutz Was Driver of Bridgeman's Truck

Highway 32 north of Thief River Falls may not have a great deal in common with the Alcan highway but incidents along 32 are often similar to those which happen to Alcan travellers.

Few people in northwest Minnesota ever see moose—but Lloyd Zutz, a Bridgeman's driver not only saw one, he hit it.

Zutz reported he hit the big animal south of Middle River shortly after 4 a.m. today, as he was on his way north on the day's run.

Zutz reported to authorities the moose was lying alongside the road when he left it, although he did not believe it was badly hurt.

Folks up that way apparently don't get up early enough to see early wandering wildlife, for Zutz had to drive all the way to Strathcona to find a telephone he could use to make his report.

Gravel Truck in Second Accident

Collides with Another at Rural Intersection

A gravel truck was overturned resulting in hospitalization of its driver Sept. 10, figured in another accident at the intersection of two rural Pennington county roads about 6 p.m. Friday, Deputy Sheriff Eugene Prestegaard said today.

The truck, driven by Hanford Roisland, Goodridge, collided with another, driven by Vernon Westerlund, Plummer. Roisland's vehicle was empty as he started to make a left turn east onto SAR 1 from CAR 9 when he met Westerlund going in the opposite direction with a load of gravel.

According to reports the evening sun figured in the accident. Both drivers were proceeding at a slow speed around the turn. Damage to the truck driven by Roisland was estimated at about $400 while the Westerlund truck sustained about $250 damage.

Westerlund's cousin, David Westerlund, 18, Plummer, had been driving the truck Roisland was using when he rolled it about three weeks ago. Young Westerlund was still hospitalized from the earlier accident, according to latest reports.

Both trucks were being used on a road project in eastern Pennington county and are owned by Russell Zimpel, Red Lake Falls, Prestegaard said.

FARMING TODAY

by your County Agent

Paul Steimaschuk

Pure Bred Rams

The sheep industry is growing rapidly in this area. Farmers are adding farm flocks to stabilize their farm income in a year such as this one. With sheep, as with other livestock, the good ones are the most profitable. The most important step that can be taken to improve a flock is to secure a good sire.

In the first cross of a good sire on common ewes, the flock can be improved, by half the difference in quality between ram and ewe. Another cross with a good sire will put three quarters of his characteristics into the flock. The third cross would be eighty-seven percent like the sire. By the same taken the flock can be set back rapidly by poor sires.

It's not uncommon for a good ram to improve the weight of lambs by ten pounds at market day, in common herds, and add two pounds of wool to the fleece. With mutton at eighteen cents this means one dollar and eight cents more in mutton and fifty cents more in wool or an increase of two dollars and thirty cents each offspring. Over 100 head, this would be an added income of two hundred and thirty dollars. A good ram is a good investment.

Crop Shows

The Pennington Crop Improvement Association has taken a bold step in deciding that a crops show is needed at Thief River Falls. Crops bring in one half of the farm income in our area and th exhibiting crops products would do just credit to an important industry. The show gains added importance since the scope covers all the seed and feed produced in the surrounding area.

This year, despite all the rain and heat, there are excellent ears of corn; good soybeans, legume seed, and grain seed. Silage is a common feed on many farms has replaced hay a large degree. All these farm products, the fruits of a year's labor, may be proudly displayed. All area farmers are encouraged to save samples of their grains and seeds for the show. Hay silages will be scored. This means that if the silage is too sour, musty, or lacks desirable characteristics it will appear on the judges sheet. Such a procedure is expected to be an asset in next year's silage preparation.

The show is an important event for the community and its hoped you will give it your support to make it a success.

4-H'ers Can Help Prevent Fires

National Fire Prevention Week, October 6-12, is a good time for 4-H club members in the safety activity as well as all other young people to start a campaign against fire hazards in the home and on the farm.

Last year fire losses in Minnesota cost 9 million dollars worth of property damage, and fires, burns and explosions were responsible for 90 to 100 deaths. Every year from 15 to 20 Minnesota farm people are killed in farm and home fires and explosions. In 1956, 122 farm homes in Minnesota were destroyed by fire and more than 100 barns were burned with loss of livestock and feed supplies.

Farm inspections to discover fire hazards are a part of the 4-H fire prevention safety activity and the Minnesota 4-H fire prevention program. Instructional materials and inspection blanks are available from the county extension office. National Fire Prevention Week is an appropriate time to get started in this 4-H activity.

Here are some things 4-H'ers can do in their safety project.

Make a thorough inspection of the home, yard and farm buildings to check on fire hazards. Then take steps to remove every hazard.

Help clean basements and attics of paper and rags that may cause fire.

Set an example for younger children of never playing with matches. See that matches are stored in a safe place.

See that liquid fuels are stored away from the house and farm buildings.

Watch rubbish fires so they do not get out of control; burn only on still days and put fires out before leaving them. Keep children away from rubbish fires.

Children often hold a marriage together — by keeping the parents too busy to quarrel with each other.—Franklin P. Jones

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

One of the best ways to reach the public with comments of public concern is thru this column of your excellent home paper. I appreciate this service. I believe the subject I wish to comment on is of public concern not only to the citizens of District 8, but also to the citizens of the communities of the area at large.

I wish to take this opportunity to comment on a special meeting that was called for the voters of District 8 to discuss further some of the reasons for not transferring common Districts 15 and 46 of Pennington County and 76 of Marshall County to the Thief River Falls District by means of consolidation or any other means.

First I shall list some of the reasons why Goodridge opposes the transferring of these districts, as cited by our Superintendent Brown.

The proposed consolidation does not conform with the "Criteria for Evaluation School District Enlargement Projects" as set forth on pages 44 through 46 of the Fifth Report of the State Advisory Commission on School Reorganization as follows:

1. The proposal does not conform to the recommendations of The Pennington County Survey Committee.

2. The districts are not in the same high school area as Thief River Falls.

3. The proposal would make an irregular district with a finger extending into the Goodridge District having the same effect as gerrymandering.

4. Transportation would be uneconomical since the Thief River Falls buses will probably go through the Goodridge District to reach this territory and would then come within four miles of Goodridge. At the same time Goodridge buses are going forty miles to the North, East and Southeast to pick up students. In other words the good area as far as bus routes would be taken away from Goodridge, though Goodridge still has to serve more distant area since it is still the closest school.

Citizens of Goodridge and citizens at large: the above reasons are something to think about seriously, but there are also other reasons which were brought up and discussed at the meeting. I shall attempt to comment some of these other reasons as briefly as possible.

These districts have been sending their high school pupils to Goodridge for over twenty years.

Districts 15 and 46 of Pennington County have been sending their elementary pupils to Goodridge for almost twenty years.

The Goodridge school now has Vocational Agriculture & Home Economics as part of their curriculum, as well as a music department. The citizens of Goodridge have waited a long time for these newly added departments. Many of us have older children who were denied this vital education. Only a school that has been without these departments can fully appreciate them.

Since the Goodridge school is not now as large as recommended by many authorities, therefore any effort to make the school still smaller will be discouraged. The whole present Goodridge High School Area is needed if adequate education is to be provided the children. It was further stated that this school should not be jeopardized by the wishes of a few. Also that in many cases the good of many has to require the sacrifice of complete freedom of choice on the part of a few.

The trade territory argument for the transfer of this territory to Thief River Falls is not considered valid in this case. Is it not true that nearly all of us in this Goodridge territory, as well as those farther out, trade in Thief River Falls. Trading includes purchasing and marketing, etc.

If after the forthcoming public hearing, the State Department goes ahead and approves the proposed consolidation of Districts 15 and 46 of Pennington County and District 76 of Marshall County with Thief River Falls, Minnesota and Thief River Falls consolidates, we will indeed suffer a great loss. The loss in revenue from these districts would amount to about $5000, a large sum of money for this agricultural community. It is common knowledge, that the agricultural communities are again suffering heavy loss, due to adverse weather conditions.

With the rising cost of salaries, general expenditures, school maintenance and a loss of $5,000 revenue to our district, might Goodridge not be forced to make some drastic changes and decisions. Surely our citizens would not favor any less education for our children than what is now available. If Thief River Falls accepts these districts in question, will Goodridge be able and willing to assume an even greater tax burden than what they already have. Will they accept less education for their children, or will they decide to dissolve their district and also apply to Thief River Falls for admittance? These are some serious thoughts and decisions that face us. If this were to happen, what about the pupils in the surrounding districts that Goodridge is now serving? I do not know, but perhaps that problem would have to be solved by the State Department and the surrounding districts concerned.

Mrs. A. Edwin Koglin
Goodridge

ing of farmlands and similar conditions that did not exist prior to the flood conditions and meet the criteria mentioned earlier.

"It is recognized that many Minnesota farmers have suffered extensive crop damage and substantial economic losses from heavy rains and flooding during the 1957 crop year. However, it is not the purpose of the laws (Public Law 85-58 and 85-170) to provide economic aid to farmers who have sustained crop loss, but rather to treat the unusual damage to farmlands as a direct result of the floods and heavy rains.

"Regular ACP funds are available to assist farmers in Minnesota in replacing damaged or destroyed vegetative cover, and to establish other needed soil and water conserving practices on their farms. It is urged that farmers take advantage of this program by contacting their county ASC Office, and obtaining the information as to how the recommended practices can be applied on their individual farms.

"Approval of the use of the emergency feed program has been recommended to the national disaster committee for use in certain Minnesota counties where possible shortages of feed for basic herds of farm livestock (limited to cattle, sheep, and goats) are indicated. Additional data to support the recommendation is being assembled by the state disaster committee. This data will be considered by the national committee before a determination of eligibility of those affected counties can be made."

Leaders of Eight Co. Farm Bureaus Discuss Policies

Beck and James Hoffa of the Teamsters union.

The bureau of leaders also favored a "right to work" law in Minnesota, as 18 other states have. Their feeling, Welch said, was that a man has the inherent right, under the constitution, to work for a living without his membership in a union being compulsory.

Hog cholera was one of the important points discussed affecting Minnesota farmers. At present, Welch stated, vaccination in the state is carried out with live virus. Cost of the swine breeders vaccinating program is $50 million anually while an additional $70 million is lost due to embargoes on U. S. pork in 16 countries which have no cholera and will not let infected pork come into them.

In the U. S. 14 states have also outlawed use of live virus vaccination as a result of embargoes and in an effort to end cholera infestation. The Farm Bureau leaders in NW Minnesota were in favor of such a step in this state.

Handling of disasters on a county and local level was advocated by the policy-making bureau leaders. Too much emphasis has been put on federal and state aid, Welch explained was their feeling, and not enough on the local and county level.

They felt that all taxes originate on the local level and in case of emergency relief it should also be available on a local level. Such a relief program would also help build community spirit, the leaders felt.

State Farm Bureau President Morton was not able to attend the meeting as had been previously announced. Albert Koop, Pennington county bureau president was also absent, due to his attending another meeting in Henning, Minn. the same day.

Prowlers Whip Roseau 34-13

While the score of the inter-district football game played at Roseau on Friday afternoon was 34 to 13 in favor of the Prowlers over the Rams, the game was much closer than that 21-point margin would indicate. Coach Lowell Larson's club held a nearly 6 to 0 lead, and only trailed by a 21 to 13 score entering the fourth period, when the Prowlers tallied two touchdowns and a conversion to boost their margin to 34 to 13.

This week, on Friday night, the Prowlers will celebrate Homecoming festivities, and the feature event will be the football game between Marlow Davidson's Detroit Lakes Lakers and the Prowlers on the Lincoln high field. Kickoff time for the game will be at 8:00 p.m. Last year, in a game played at Detroit Lakes, the Prowlers surprised the Lakers, then coached by Billy Bye, by holding the hefty Lakers to a 6-all tie.

In Friday afternoon's tussle at Roseau, the Rams scored early in the first period, accepting the kickoff and, by strong running by Jim Johnson and Ed Bulauca, driving for a touchdown. Johnson, on a thrust through the left side of the Prowler line, rambled 20 yards for the TD. The conversion point try failed, and the Rams held a 6 to 0 lead.

But not for long, for the Prowlers came back to score a touchdown on Lynn Nicholson's 12-yard dash off left tackle. Fullback Jim Bennes, who proved to be the "workhorse" of the Prowler backfield during the game, dove over the line for the extra point.

The Prowlers racked up a pair of touchdowns in the second period, with Phil Hanson "sneaking" over from the one-yard line for one touchdown; and Dave Hanson picking off a Phil Hanson pass to score on a 22-yard gainer. Bennes and Dave Rasmussen, on line plunges, added the points, giving the Prowlers a 21 to 6 lead.

The Rams, with right halfback Jim Johnson doing the bulk of the ball carrying, came back to score one touchdown, with Johnson breaking through the line for 12-yard scoring play. And when Johnson added the conversion, the Rams trailed by a 21 to 13 score at the intermission.

After a scoreless third period, the Prowlers notched two touchdowns in the fourth period, all via the aerial route. Phil Hanson tossed to Dave Hanson for a 30-yard touchdown play; then found Jim Bennes with an aerial that carried for 36 yards and a touchdown. A completed pass, Phil Hanson to Dave Hanson, added the point following Bennes' touchdown.

In the matter of first downs, the Prowlers out-downed the Rams, 18 to 13. Handicapping the Rams greatly was the fact that Roseau committed three crucial fumbles, with guard Ken Sauve recovering for the Prowlers in each instance.

Prowlers Face Detroit Lakes in Homecoming Game Friday Evening

Asks Dominican Republic for Free Religious Work

Jehovah's Witnesses of the Thief River Falls congregation met Friday to approve a petition asking the Dominican Republic to lift its ban of last July 25 restricting the religious activity of the movement there.

According to R. H. Wetenkamp, presiding minister of the Thief River Falls congregation, the petition cited specific names and places of police brutality that were personally authenticated by eight of the ten American missionaries deported August 3rd from the Dominican Republic.

The missionaries related their experiences at a regional assembly in Baltimore, where the petition was originally adopted August 24th by 33,091 of Jehovah's Witnesses in attendance.

The petition was addressed to Generalissimo Trujillo, dictator of the Caribbean republic.

Magazine Tells of Paul Engelstad's Duck Rearing Pond

Local Farmer Creates Nesting Area in Ditch Pond Adjoining Farm

The following article dealing with a wild duck rearing pond on the Paul Engelstad farm in Rocksbury township appeared in a recent issue of The Farmer and was quoted in the current issue of the Conservation Volunteer, publication of the state department of conservation:

Low, marshy land, ordinarily of little value, has been put to good use by Paul Engelstad, Pennington county farmer.

He made it into a duck rearing area.

Part of the Engelstad farm lies along a two-mile-long drainage ditch which drains about 1½ sections of farm land. The ditch, at one place, cuts through a marsh of little value for farming, or even for grazing.

To put this non-farm area to some use, Mr. Engelstad, six years ago, deepened and widened part of it to form a pond. Excavation was with his own scraper and 'dozer. Enough earth was taken out to make a pond 20 feet wide, 50 feet long and up to 6 feet deep. Dirt removed was spread evenly over adjacent bank areas, rather than piled up, to eliminate ridges or other farming obstacles.

The pond was dug about two rods from the drainage ditch—close enough to catch overflow water during runoff periods. This overflow, together with a small spring, keeps it full of water all summer, thus assuring wild ducks of adequate nesting and rearing facilities.

Mr. Engelstad's reward? One or two pairs of Mallards rearing their brood on his pond each year, plus an ample number of song birds.

"My father built our first farm pond when he homesteaded in 1882", he says. "He found water not only aided livestock and wildlife, but attended song birds as well. They like to nest near water."

Scouting Report

For the information and enlightenment of Harold Eide and Harold Johnson, and others of like ilk, we'll quote the "Sports Illustrated" magazine's scouting report (compiled by an authority) on Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees. What with the Worlds' Series starting this week, these few words would be pertinent. Here it is: "Batting: perhaps the most dangerous hitter in baseball. Explosive power from either side, tremendous speed. Can hit any pitch for home run or beat out a bunt. No longer chases high inside fast ball. Use it to set him up, come back low, curve him outside, move ball around to keep him off balance."

On fielding the report states: "Probably best straightaway speed in game when legs are sound. Very strong and accurate arm; sometimes careless, but don't run on him."

And on base running: "Always goes for extra base, definite threat to steal."

The "key" sentence in this report, and which we wish to emphasize is this: "Perhaps the most dangerous hitter in baseball." And there shouldn't be any "perhaps" about it.

In the report on Larry (Yogi) Berra, the Yanks' catcher, this truth is expressed: "Use high outside pitch with extreme caution."

Incidentally, the sumup of the report gives a slight edge in the Series to the New York Yankees. This edge is gained by the superior all-round team speed of the Yankees," and the reliable and tested performers who will provide "bench strength" for the Yankees.

They Have a Point, or Points

The Minnesota State High School League, on its strong stand in opposition to All-Star athletic contests, or any All-Star competition for that matter, has been subjected to much criticism. Much of this criticism is unwarranted, and it stems from sources that have, for the most part, selfish interest in the All-Star contests.

In the current bulletin of the State League a number of points, twelve to be exact, are expressed and given as the reasons for the Leagues' opposition to the All-Star contests. To name a few of these points: "They place a false value and emphasis on the place of athletics in our educational system, and in the minds of the youth participating. They emphasize athletics for the select few rather than for all." And, they tend to commercialize the amateur athletics of youth, and make the profit motive take precedence over playing for the fun of playing." And, "They tend to be used mainly by the larger colleges and universities for tryout purposes for the potential talent of the area for athletics recruitment. In many instances such games have been the "market place" in which the "wares" of the players have been displayed before the highest bidder." There's truth to these statements by the State League.

And adds the Athletics-Educational Policies Committee: "The star athlete on a successful team must be of strong character indeed to keep values in balance when he becomes the center of attention of school and community, flattered and publicized, and courted by scouts for college material."

We think that the boys, thru their various district and regional tournaments, in baseball, track, football, and basketball, are getting plenty of competition. And under expert supervision. That's one thing that can be said about the State League, they insist on discipline and a following of the eligibility code.

Miscellany

We note, by a press release from North Dakota's Lee Bohnet, that Buddy Bjorneraa, from the Oklee-Gully community, is now a student at University of North Dakota. Bud, who had a great career at Oklee high school, attended the University of Minnesota last year, and earned a numeral as a member of the Gopher freshman football squad. Bjorneraa, a powerful youngster, was considered a top-flight line prospect.—There has been quite a striving by the city's red-hot baseball fans to obtain tickets to the World's Series. For the games that will be played in Milwaukee, that is. At the latest reports, only one city baseball enthusiast has been able to secure the valuable pasteboards, and that's Raynold (Red) Thyren. Red, who is co-proprietor of the T & S Implement, is presumed to have gotten his tickets through the J. I. Case Company. Good luck, Red; and don't bet on the Braves.

State Crew Takes 25 Tons Bullheads at Lake Bronson

A state crew left Wednesday morning after successfully completing a three-week rough fish removal project at Lake Bronson. The crew removed nearly 25 ton of bullheads, a record amount for the size of Lake Bronson. It is believed that elimination of so many rough fish will give walleyes and northerns a much better habitat. Park Supt. C. J. McKinley expresses satisfaction with the outcome of the project which was handled by the state division of fisheries.

Polio Drive Nets $918,476 in State

Minnesota Campaign for 1958 to Open January 2

The March of Dimes in Minnesota raised $918,476.59 last January for the 1957 battle against polio and the huge task of restoring its disabled victims to productive living, Cortland J. Silver, state chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announced today.

Mr. Silver said an important part of the funds has been earmarked for polio rehabilitation. He added that the 1958 March of Dimes, starting Jan. 2, will also emphasize the help urgently needed for the many thousands still afflicted by the crippling after-effects of polio.

"The success of the Salk vaccine, reflected in a dramatic reduction of new polio cases, is very evident," Mr. Silver said. "And yet, despite this powerful weapon, we still hav county chapters in our state which are hard pressed financially to assist patients dependent on them for the care they need."

He explained that a great many counties in the state had this year already received additional aid from the National Foundation's headquarters.

He said that the lowered incidence of polio had make it possible for chapters to give greater attention to post-polio rehabilitation.

"We know," he said, "there are many residents of our state who had polio who can be further benefited by the new techniques. Right now our chapter volunteers are compiling a census to find what needs to be done. Our pledge to aid polio victims will never be fulfilled until we have brought to them the very best in treatment and care and extended their recovery as far as our doctors are able to do so."

Set TB & Brucellosis Cattle Testing Next March in Pennington

Cattle herds in 15 Minnesota counties will be tested for brucellosis and tuberculosis this fall and winter and in 8 counties, 20 percent of the herds will be tested for brucellosis only.

These tests are needed so that Minnesota can maintain its status as a modified-certified brucellos-free area and as a modified-accredited tuberculosis-free state, according to Raymond B. Solac, extension veterinarian at the University of Minnesota.

Testing will be arranged by the Minnesota livestock sanitary board, in cooperation with local veterinarians and county agents.

Under an agreement between Minnesota and the federal government, Minnesota counties must be reaccredited for tuberculosis every 6 years and must be recertified for brucellosis every 3 years.

Minnesota has been accredited for tuberculosis for more than 20 years, but its brucellosis-free status was earned just four months ago.

Tentative starting dates for the combination tests in each county are: Otter Tail, Oct. 14; Red Lake, Nov. 4; Lincoln, Nov. 4; Chisago, Nov. 12; Sibley, Dec. 2; Steele, Dec. 9; Pine, Dec. 16; Becker, Jan. 6; Kittson, Jan. 27; Meeker, Feb. 3; Wadena, Feb. 10; Olmsted, Mar. 3; Pennington, Mar. 17; Waseca and Sherburne, April 7.

Partial tests, for brucellosis only, are tentatively planned to start as follows: Big Stone, Nov. 12; Stevens, Nov. 25; Grant, Dec. 9; Watonwan, Dec. 16; Goodhue, Jan. 6; Clearwater, Jan. 13; Freeborn, Feb. 3 and Norman, Mar. 3.

Seed Sales Policy Revealed for New Crops Varieties

Covers Sale of Certified and Registered Seed Grown by State Farmers

Sales policies were announced today for certified and registered seed grown this year by Minnesota farmers under agreement with the University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station.

All seed raised under these agreements can be sold by the growers; none will be recalled by the University, according to Carl Borgeson, University agronomist. Growers of certified seed are to reserve 90 percent of their crop for other growers in Minnesota until Nov. 1. For registered seed growers, the release date is Dec. 1.

Maximum process per bushell based on suggestions from seed growers around Minnesota, are as follows: Forrest and Parkland barley — registered seed, $3.30, certified $3; Bolley flax — registered, $6, certified $5.50; Minhafer oats— registered, $3.50, certified, $3; Conley wheat—registered, $4, certified, $3.50.

These prices hold for the 1957 crop regardless of when it's sold, Borgeson says. The figures are maximum prices only and aren't necessarily selling prices for all areas.

A total of 314 growers raised an estimated 293,000 bushels of registered and certified Forrest barley and 318 growers raised about 131,150 bushels of registered and certified Minhafer oats. Part of the large production of Forrest barley is due to the fact that the Kittson County Growers association had about 8,500 bushels produced during the past winter in Arizona.

Estimated production of other certified and registered seed of new crop varieties in Minnesota during the past summer includes: Parkland barley, 74,990 bushels; Conley wheat, 25,160 bushels; Bolley flax, 7,790 bushels and Park bluegrass, 20,000 lbs.

A seed directory listing growers of these and other field crop varieties is available from the Minnesota Crop Improvement association, located on the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota.

Asian Flu Is Not Yet Prevalent in State

Despite alarming headlines of recent days, influenza due to "Asian" or other influenza viruses is not as yet causing any unusual trouble in Minnesota or the Upper Midwest, Dr. Dean S. Fleming, director of the division of disease prevention and control of the Minnesota department of health, revealed today.

"In fact," explains Dr. Fleming, "no outbreaks of influenza have been recognized in the state despite intensive clinical and laboratory investigations carried out on large numbers of persons who have reported to their physicians with symptoms of "flue."

While there has been the usual amount of respiratory illness and colds which occur in Minnesota every year at this season, studies of school attendance and industrial plant absenteeism reveal nothing that might indicate any upsetting of he normal pattern of community life. In addition, the cases of Asian influenza that have been identified in the United Sates so far, have not revealed symptoms or effects very different from other types of influenza. The disease has been mild, and patients frequently have returned to work after a day or so of fever and general discomfort.

The supply of influenza vaccine continues to be very small and, understandably, very inadequate in the face of the great demand built up by widespread national publicity, explained Dr. Fleming. Minnesota's share of vaccine released through the week of September 19 has amounted to 70,000 doses. Increasing quantities of vaccine are being released each week, however, and more and more physicians who have ordered vaccine, are receiving supplies in small amounts. These early supplies of vaccine will undoubtedly be used first to vaccinate those persons most in need of protection. Doctors will be in the best position to judge how to use the limited supplies of vaccine they may have.

"At the present time," says Dr. Fleming, "the best advice we can give you is to tell your physician you wish to be vaccinated as early as possible so that he can order supplies. Then be patient. It may be some time before supplies of vaccine will adequate."

Sensible precautions recommended by the State Health Department, whether vaccinated or not, are to keep up the body's resistance to disease by getting plenty of rest and eating regular, well-balanced meals. At school or at work persons who do not cover their coughs and sneezes with a handkerchief or tissue should be avoided, and hands should be washed before handling food and after taking care of anyone who is ill.

Christmas Mail to Far East Should Leave October 15

Owing to the long sea transit involved in the transmission of parcels and to customs inspection and other formalities that parcels may be subjected to in the countries of destination, it is recommended by the U. S. postoffice department that mailings be made as early as practicable to assure delivery by Christmas Day. Senders can be reasonably sure that parcels mailed not later than the dates shown below will reach their destination before Christmas.

'Hire Physically Handicapped' Week Noted Oct. 6 to 12

Governor Freeman Calls on Minnesota Citizens to Join in Observance

Minnesota is well organized for observance, October 6 through 12, of National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, under the leadership of Governor Freeman and the standing committee on jobs for handicapped people, of which Commissioner Frank T. Starkey of the employment security department is chairman.

The observance will range from nominal to energetic, depending on the number of unemployed handicapped people who are rated as employable.

On the NEPH firing line, in charge of each local observance will be the managers of the 33 field offices of the state employment service, the veterans employment representative in each office, and the managers of the district officers of the division of vocational rehabilitation.

All field officers have been supplied with printed material, especially posters, the original of which was designed by Ham Fisher and his staff, who produces the popular Joe Palooka strip that appears in most of the daily newspapers of the state.

Governor Freeman will support Minnesota's observance with talks before a luncheon meeting of the St. Paul mayor's committee on Wednesday, October 9, and will also participate in the Minneapolis mayor's committee conference on Thursday, October 10th. The committees in both Minneapolis and St. Paul have been especially active in promoting employment opportunities for qualified handicapped workers.

Editorials . . .

"First of all we must observe that in all these matters of human action, the too little and the too much are alike ruinous, as you can see in matters of strength and health. Too much and too little exercise alike impair the strength, and too much meat and drink and too little both alike destroy the health, but the fitting amount produces and preserves them. So, too, the man who takes his fill of every pleasure and abstains from none becomes a profligate; while he who shuns all becomes stolid and insusceptible."

Oil On The Waters Needed

Whether or not President Eisenhower acted wisely in using federal troops in Little Rock to enforce a federal court order will not be determined until the segregation problem has been solved, and the solution is not just around the corner.

In defense of the President's action, it is clear that in this instance he acted to stop Governor Faubus from interfering with a program of integration that Little Rock school authorities had adopted. By the use of state troops Governor Fubus had obstructed that program. It is reasonable to assume the Governor's use of troops was for the purpose of obstruting that program rather than for the declared purpose of maintaining law and order.

It is not likely that a situation similar to the one in Little Rock will reoccur in the deep south where the oposition to integration is much more deep rooted than in Arkansas. Few school authorities there will approve the kind of a program that was adopted by the school authorities of Little Rock, and the questions before the federal courts and the federal administration will be quite different.

Under the circumstances the importance of tomorrow's meeting, at which President Eisenhower will discuss these problems with five Governors from the deep-south states, cannot be overemphasized.

President Eisenhower stated, prior to the Little Rock incident, that he could conceive of no situation that would justify the use of federal troops to enforce integration. The facts in Little Rock probably were inconceivable. Governor Faubus, by his actions, and by his conflicting public statements, has proven himself to be a dangerous and irresponsible demagogue.

Because we have great confidence in the President's capacity as a persuasive leader, and as a man of integrity; and because the five Governors who will discuss the integration problem with him tomorrow are highly regarded as capable men who are fully aware of the importance, nationally and internationally, of an orderly disposition of the problem; we are hopeful that tomorrow's conference will accomplish much good.

We are satisfied that all who participate will meet in the sincere hope that oil may be poured on the troubled waters and the fury of the storm abated for the time being at least. At the present time what we need most is a cooling off period.

And toward this end it would be well if our own northern incendiaries would quit pouring gasoline on the glowing embers of hate.

Choice Now Unanimous

Dag Hammarskjold has been reelected for another five year term as Secretary General of the United Nations. His election for the first term in 1953 followed a bitter fight, in which the East and the West were sharpely divided, and he was finally accepted as a compromise candidate. The fact that he now has been reelected by a unanimous vote indicates that he has performed an outstanding service under extremely difficult circumstances.

Speaking of this record the New York Times states:

> Mr. Hammarskjold, economist, financier and diplomat, was exactly what the situation called for. He had kept his democratic rectitude without making fatal enemies beyond the Iron Curtain. He spoke all the necessary languages—and more. He had, obviously, infinite patience.
> The nearly four years and a half which have passed since his election have proved the wisdom of the choice. The Russians have not been able to impeach the fairness of his conduct. Western diplomats and journalists may have felt at times that he was not as candidly on the democratic side as he should have been. Yet he feels himself, and is, the servant of eighty-two nations. He can and does campaign for the principles of the Charter. He can go and has gone as far as Red China and the turbulent Middle East on assigned errands. He has pushed his function as a mediator far beyond what was expected or what was practiced under Trygve Lie's administration.
> The Russians are among those who ride the elevators to his lofty office in the Secretariat Building to listen to what is said to be exceedingly plain talk. The secrets he knows and keeps would doubtless surprise the world. Without arbitrary power, he keeps the U. N. machinery lubricated and moving. His re-election, which the Assembly has confirmed, is a hopeful sign.

Help! Stop That Thief!

The Bank of England has raised its discount rate from five to seven percent, the highest it has been in 37 years. The action was taken as one more step in a desperate effort to curb inflation and relieve the pressure to further devalue the pound.

Here in our own country we are not sufficiently concerned about the danger of inflation and the extent to which our dollar has already lost buying power. The facts are especially alarming because in recent years inflation has been advancing more rapidly.

The following declaration by The Chicago Daily News expresses clearly what inflation does to us:

> "It robs the worker of his pension security.
> "It robs the man who has invested in government securities as part of his savings.
> "It robs the dependents of veterans who depend upon insurance.
> "It robs widows and children of all people who have tried to provide for their families through insurance.
> "It makes Social Security a fraud.
> "It cuts down the amount of goods that can be purchased by the growing army of old people.

Must All Pill Together

(Wall Street Journal)

There was a time not so long ago when, if you saw a man taking a pill, you could be reasonably sure he either had a headache or indigestion. But times have changed and today pills play a far more versatile role in our lives. The harried business man takes a pill to keep him awake, a pill to make him go to sleep, a pill to pep him up, a pill to calm him down, a pill to give him vitamins and even a pill for his lunch. But that's the penalty for being a piller of the community.

Those tranquillizer pills come in handy for husbands just before they look over the bills for the month. This is known as being pilled up for an awful letdown. Some hostesses will have bowls of pills at convenient places through the house so that guests can eat them like peanuts.

Calling a person a pill used to be a term of contempt, but today it should really mean that you are a person who can do anything.

A Truly Good King

(New York Times)

If ever a ruling monarch deserved the appellation of a "good" king, it was Haakon VII of Norway. Goodness, for its own sake, seems to have been the ruling principal of his life. He was brave. He resisted the Nazi invasion. He was imaginative and he captured the imagination of his people. He was democratic, in the very best sense. And, above all, he was "good."

This is a time when monarchies have been disappearing. The world's political patterns are changing, and kingship is one of the things that is subject to change. In some cases the evolution of change in these patterns has been a distinct sign of progress. In a case such as that of Norway this would not, and could not, have been true.

King Haakon was the Norwegian sovereign by the freely expressed desire of the Norwegians themselves. His office was exercised under their continuous consent and control. We call this "constitutional" monarchy, and that is technically correct. But it can derive its vitality from the character of the sovereign. It did so in Norway. We can share in the expression of grief for a people who have lost a beloved King and a first citizen in a free state.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

With the approaching opening of the hunting seasons, interest is focused on programs designed to bring about a more plentiful supply of game in Minnesota. Since conditions vary widely in different parts of our state, programs to increase the supply of game must be adopted to these conditions.

Bureau Of Game Reorganized

The bureau of game, within our state department of conservation, has now been reorganized into four game management regions, with a regional game manager in each one. Each of these regions is, in turn, divided into three game management areas.

Why Reorganization?

A principal reason for reorganization was to bring game management closer to the field level. Most management problems can be handled best locally. One of the major responsibilities of the regional manager is the maintenance and improvement of wildlife habitat. On-the-job supervision is important if game is to be produced on a sustained yield basis for recreational purposes.

Cover Planting

The bureau of game carries out a wildlife food and cover planting program to provide protection for pheasants and other wildlife specvies in winter. Last year over one million pieces of stock were planted on private lands under twenty-five year easements. Bruch, grass, trees, and surface water are needed for proper habitat for our wildlife.

Since the end of World War II, particularly, there has been a marked loss of wildlife habitat from present day farming methods. The most serious problem is the loss of valuable surface water through drainage. In order to save a portion of these lands the Bureau of Game has, under the "Save Minnesota Wetlands" program, established a goal for the acquisition of 200,000 acres, at an estimated cost of $6,500,000. By August of this year, 36,022 acres had been purchased or optioned in 54 counties, at a cost of $1,025,262.

More Hunters

From time to time I hear experienced sportsmen talk about the "good old days", when game was reputedly much more plentiful, and when there were fewer hunters. A part of our conservation problem arises out of the fact that increased population means more hunters,—and increased cultivation and land means less wildlife habitat. Our game and fish division recognizes that, if wildlife is to continue as one of our state's great assets, we must develop the best possible conservation programs.

Surveys And Planning

Game managers conduct wildlife surveys for use in making season recommendations. They formulate game management plans for lands and waters under the direction of the state. A new forest-wildlife project has been innivated which will integrate forestry and wildlife planning and development in forested areas.

Public Cooperation

Game managers recognize that wildlife is a crop and a product of our soil, waters and forests. Unless greater progress is made, not only wildlife populations, but the travel industry, agriculture and our entire economy will be weakened.

If you have game management problems that you need help with, or that should be called to our attention, I would suggest that you first contact the game managers in the field within your region. The regional game manager for the Northeast region is Milton Stenlund, at Grand Rapids; for the Northwest region, Vernon Gunvalson, at Bemidji; for the Southwest region, Hirtm Southwick, at Slayton; and for the Southeast region Donald Ledin in St. Paul.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

It's Later Than You Think

Recently Mrs. Bell, disheveled and exhausted from struggling to get their four-year-old twin boys to bed, rejoined her husband in the living room, and gasped "What year was it that the book said they were supposed to become a source of peace and comfort?" Her intentional wit and unintentional wisdom highlights a principle which always must be remembered about children they always are becoming something. But for that matter so are adults.

It is easy to forget as children and their parents change continuously that this process is irreversible. Never to be re-captured again, every stage of growth has its own unique attractions and its own unique problems. Although sorely tempted at times to heave a sigh of relief when children seem to have passed through a "stage," it is surprising how soon parents turn a nostalgic thought toward this same "stage." Mr. and Mrs. Bell before long will be missing the cuddlesome, mischievous, energetic bedtime maneuvers of Ted and Fred, and will have passed on to what seem like a whole new set of bedroom antics (lizards in bed, evading washing ears, "sneaking" radios to bed, resisting getting up, ad infinitum.)

To live fully, a rather simple idea was paraphrased in a song a few years ago: "Enjoy yourself, it's later than you think." In family living this is too true—too true. So many people feel that their present existence is only a prelude to something yet to come, and they withhold much of themselves to wait for that "great day," rather than looking forward to it while making the most of each day. Or they feel that their present existence is but epilogue (or even post-mortem) to something past, and they, too, fail to live each day richly.

Once the Bells and their counterparts everywhere realize that life at its best and worst is here and now, they will meet situations with a sense of humor, unfailing courage, and a generous amount of affection, and the living between prologue and epilogue will benefit accordingly.

Gaelic, the traditional language of Scotland and Ireland, has taken firm root in the new world. More people on Canada's Cape Breton Island speak Gaelic than anywhere else in the world.

4-H'ers Learn to Finish Wood

Finishing furniture woods is one of the many creative skills 4-H club members can learn in the 4-H home furnishing projects.

The purpose of finishing wood is to bring out its beauty, to protect the surface and to make furniture easy to maintain.

Mrs. Myra Zabel, extension home improvement specialist at the University of Minnesota, gives these steps for preparing furniture wood for a finish:

Countersink any nails and fill the holes with stick shellac or fine sandings mixed with glue. When the material used to fill the holes is set, smooth it until it is even with the wood.

Use abrasive papers and steel wool to obtain a clean, smooth surface.

Always sand with the grain of the wood. Take a block of wood about the size of blackboard eraser, pad it with soft cloth, then cover it with abrasive paper.

As you sand, remove the dust from the surface with a cloth.

To remove any dust left from the sanding, wipe the surface with a cloth dampened with turpentine.

Most woods are beautiful and are best left in their natural color. However, you may wish to change the color of the wood by bleaching or staining before applying the finish. To prevent a pitted appearance, open-grained woods such as oak need a wood filler before adding the finish.

Select the finish that will give finishes have durability under hard wear; some are resistant to water, heat and acids.

To build up a smooth even finish, Mrs. Zabel suggests using several thin coats rather than a few thick ones. Most finishes need rubbing lightly between coats to smooth the surface for the next coat. Use fine steel wool or fine finishing sandpaper for the rub down. To give the piece of furniture a satiny smooth, dull sheen, rub the last coat with a pad of cloth dipped in boiled linseed oil and powdered pumice.

Simple Styles Best

Simple styles are generally more satisfactory than fancy or "faddy" clothes for school and easier to care for. In addition to style, there are many points to check in connection with fit and construction. For example: Is there plenty of ease through body, shoulders, armholes? Are blouse and shirt tails long enough to tuck in properly? Is there enough length in skirts and trousers or deep enough hems to allow for growth? Are there strong reinforcements at points of strain? Are seams wide and well sewn? Are fasteners firmly attached? Fabrics should be sturdy, non-irritating and easy to care for. And be sure the clothing for younger children is easy to put on so they can help themselves.

Shopping for Children's Clothes

If you still have some shopping to do for school clothes, do some preliminary planning before you go downtown. Decide what clothing items need replacing or purchasing, then make a shopping list, noting size, desired color and style for each item. This list will guide you in finding the clothes your child really needs and will help you avoid tempting but less useful impluse purchases.

If possible, take each child separately on a shopping trip and have him try on clothes to check fits accurately.

As a farewell to the people in Pennington county I would like to say that I have had a most pleasant and interesting summer. I have sincerely appreciated all the cooperation and friendliness which you have given and shown towards me. With the business of college life, I shall still be especially concerned about your 4-H program and its continuing accomplishments.

Sincerely

GUIDE TO GOOD DRIVING

EXIT 10 MILES

With winter's first chill in the air, it's time to put up storm windows, take clothes out of storage—and get the family car ready for freezing weather. Safety depends on not only how you drive—but on how well your car is prepared for snow, ice, and slush.

Early servicing, or "winterizing", prevents your car from getting caught in a sudden cold snap without anti-freeze. This can save you a badly damaged engine and a stiff repair bill.

Here are a few tips from cooling system experts of the Du Pont Company, manufacturer of "Zerone" and "Zerex" anti-freezes:

1. To be safe, have your car winterized early by your local serviceman. There's no waiting in line. And he'll have time to thoroughly check the cooling system.

2. Before adding anti-freeze, drain and flush the cooling system with a chemical cleaner. This gets rid of accumulated rust-sludge, which can clog the radiator and cause an overheated engine.

3. Check radiator and hose connections for leaks. Replace worn and cracked hoses and fan belts.

4. Have your engine tuned up, and check the battery.

5. Select the type of anti-freeze that best suits your needs. So-called "permanent" type anti-freeze can be used in any car, anywhere, in any climate and altitude. One shot, which lasts all winter, is good for driving in temperatures even lower than 30 degrees below zero. For average winter driving, however, a standard anti-freeze offers safe, sure protection. It costs less than permanent—and you need less of it. And it won't boil away in modern pressurized cooling systems.

6. For safety's sake, ask your serviceman to check the defroster, windshield wipers, and brakes. Replace smooth tires—they're dangerous on icy roads. Or have snow tires put on. If you use chains, get them checked for broken links.

Two final suggestions: when driving on icy roads, don't follow other vehicles too closely. And if you start skidding, don't jam on the brakes—turn the front wheels in the direction of the skid.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—My private physician just sent VA a letter stating how my disability has worsened in recent months. Could VA use this letter to reopen my case and see whether I'm entitled to a higher compensation rating? If VA approves a higher rating, what would be its effective date?

A—A statement by your physician, showing increased disability, is acceptable by VA as an "informal claim" for a higher rating. If a VA physical examination confirms your physician's statement, the increased rating could be made effective as of the date VA received his letter.

Q—I was unable to keep two consecutive appointments for medical treatment at a VA clinic because I had to make emergency trips out of town. In the excitement, I forgot to notify VA in advance. Does this mean I've given up my rights to further treatment?

A—Not necessarily. Veterans who break two consecutive appointments without reasonable excuse and without advance notice may be denied further treatment. But if your reason is acceptable to the clinic, your treatments may be continued.

Q—I've held a permanent GI insurance policy for several years, but about a year ago I let it lapse. Until I reinstate it, am I without any GI insurance protection whatsoever?

A—No. When a permanent policy lapses, VA extends your coverage automatically as term insurance. Premiums come out of the cash reserve you've built up. The term protection ends when it has used up all the reserve.

Q—Is War Orphans education limited to only one child in the family of a deceased war veteran? Or may all children receive the educational benefits?

A—All children in the family may receive the educational benefits, once they reach the eligible age for War Orphans schooling which generally is 18.

U. S. Navy builders working on the air-sea base being developed at Rota, Spain, found that oxen were more efficient in hauling heavy sheet steel fuel tank sections through mud and sand than were man-made vehicles.

Of the 11,697,203 tons of coal mined by nine leading electric utilities in 1956, almost 25 per cent or 2,853,177 tons, came from mines owned by American Gas & Electric Company.

Shortens Drying Time

Richard Herman, South St. Louis county agent, reports that a farmer near Cloquet has found a way to shorten time needed to dry hay in the field. The farmer, Charles Witte, uses an "all-purpose" flail-type forage harvester that cuts, shreds and blows the hay back on the ground. Less than a half day later, Witte says, the hay is dry enough to put in the barn.

Safety Regulator

Serious erosion resulted from up-and-down hill cropping on Donald Krenik's farm near Montgomery after he purchased it in 1956. This spring, Krenik, a cooperator in the Rice county soil conservation district, contour strip cropped the area, and saw no erosion resulting from heavy June rains. He says "Strip cropping is the safety regulator of my farm and its soil."

Corn Needs Starter Fertilizer

Francis Januschka, Faribault county soils agent, reports that Ralph Button, a local farmer, is convinced that starter fertilizer is needed for corn. This spring, corn where 100 pounds of starter fertilizer was used was twice as tall and had about 2,000 more plants per acre.

Disease Light On Oats

No plant diseases caused any severe damage on oats crops this year in Minnesota, reports Herbert Johnson, extension plant pathologist at the University of Minnesota. One reason for the light damage, he says, is that more farmers are raising disease resistant oat varieties. For example, many recommended oat varieties have some resistance to race 7, the most common strain of black stem rust—one of the worst oats diseases.

September, August and October have proved to be the most active months for hurricanes, according to records compiled by the Navy's Hurricane Hunters. Since 1800, approximately 173 have occurred in September, 143 in August, and 133 in October. July, November and June are next in frequency in that order.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

What could be nicer than a walk in the country on a brisk fall day? Whether you carry a gun, a camera or are just "eye-balling," the scenery since the recent frosts is hard to beat.

The only drawback we can think of is that a pair of hip boots is necessary if one wanders afield in some places. Even so, one can get around this requirement by keeping to the rural roads. They're in pretty fair shape.

Northwest Minnesota isn't the only locality taking a beating from rains in recent weeks. My brother down in Virginia tells me some of the farmers down there got caught with their tobacco down on the ground waiting to be hauled to drying barns. They can't hang wet tobacco, even if they could get to it, so the result is that a lot of tobacco is rotting there.

To return to the fall theme again, it's nut-gathering time down in the hills, or will be after the first frost. Then the thick green husks around the walnuts and hickory nuts will dry out and the nut inside will be ripe.

Nut gathering after school used to be one of our favorite pastimes.

Wild persimmons ripen after frost, too. Before frost these fruits are hard and bitter but frost softens them and they become mushy and sweet. Pawpaws (they taste like bananas) also ripen after frost.

Hunting season doesn't open down there until around Thanksgiving—Nov. 28 this year, to be exact, which is Thanksgiving Day.

But, so far as we know there has never been a closed season on hunting B'rer Possum with dogs only. Just after the persimmons ripen is the time to go after this nocturnal remnant from prehistoric times.

You don't need a gun to hunt possum. You just take a good "tree dog" along and wait until he starts yelling his head off up some tree. Then you go and shake B'rer Possum out of the tree. He promptly "sulls", as a rule, and you carry him home alive by his rat-like tail.

I've heard possum and sweet-taters is mighty good eating but have never ventured more than just a taste of it. The meat is a lot like very greasy pork.

When hunting season opens in the Old Dominion they have a good variety of game to go after. Bobwhite quail, ruffed grouse (often called "pheasant" down there), cottontail rabbits, squirrels, the same kind of deer we hunt in Minnesota, and bear.

They hunt ducks in some parts of Ol' Virginny. But, not in the southwestern part, altho the TVA dams are bringing more and more of them through that country as the quackers fly south.

To partly offset their lack of ducks, tho, some counties have a short season on wild turkey. Hunting these is quite a sport, we hear.

The have a novel system of licensing hunters down that way. You can buy a license for all or part of the season and you can also buy a license for hunting in one county or all over the state. In some respects it makes good sense, at that!

We were glad to read in last Thursday's Tribune that even that tear-splashed journal doesn't think all the people in the South are rabid nigger-baiters and segregationists, and says that most of the ruckus down there arises from a small group of rabble-rousers.

Nor are all rabble-rousers busy fighting segregation in Little Rock. Some of 'em are weeping tears all over the Union about the state of the downtrodden negro, who, in spite of his status in the south, is still better off than most of the Russians, Chinese and many other peoples in this world.

As for "Satchmo", we wouldn't care to have him represent us at a dog-fight, much less as an ambassador of good will.

His Grand Forks statement didn't take much in the way of guts but required plenty of gall, in view of the fact the little people of his race are doing far more to advance their cause than Satchmo, whose popularity comes mostly from the white race to begin with.

By such a statement as his he bit deep into the hand that's been feeding him for years.

If ol' Satch was such a fearless fighter for his people why didn't he open his big mouth years ago? The integration problem is well along toward being solved now—it's just a matter of time now, in spite of all the hot-heads may try to do.

How now, Ora Kell?

National Red Cross Chief Praises Press

Appreciation of the assistance of newspapers in the American Red Cross was expressed by Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, who became president of the organization upon his detirement from the army as his contribution to National Newspaper Week, beginning Tuesday:

"Since I retired from the United States Army and took over as President of the American National Red Cross on January 1, I have become increasingly aware of the great public service newspapers perform in informing the public of the work done by such organizations as the Red Cross. The Red Cross depends upon public understanding and good will for the support necessary in carrying out its humanitarian task. We owe a debt of gratitude to the newspapers for interpreting our needs in a way to make our task successful.

"During the past two years the Red Cross has been faced with the largest disaster relief job in the 76 years of its history. During this period we have experienced over $51,000,000 which has placed the Red Cross in a very critical position, as we have totally exhausted our disaster reserves. Our job is now to reconstitute these reserves as we carry on our day by day operations. To do this, we once again need the help of the newspapers of this country.

"I am frequently asked the question, 'Since the federal government assists in disaster relief, why is it necessary for the public to give additional contributions to the American Red Cross for this purpose?' The answer is simple. The assistance given by the federal government in cases of disaster is limited to rehabilitation of public works such as water plants, roads, bridges. The Red Cross assists in the rehabilitation of the home and of the family. That is exclusively the job for private charity, and I think it is right that it should be that way."

Red Cross work without the aid of newspapers would be impossible, the general explained. This includes information to disaster stricken families, corrections of ill founded rumors, and stating facts.

For this service he closed, "I want to extend our thanks on the occasion of the National Newspaper Week for the cooperation given us during the 76 years the Red Cross has been serving the people of this nation."

Parents, Teachers Offer Elementary Report Card Form

Recommend New Form of Card to Reveal Pupil's Specific Skills in Subject

A committee composed of parents from each of the three elementary schools and a group of faculty members has completed its work of report card evaluation. The committee formulated new report cards and proposed their use in the elementary schools. One report card is to be used in grades one, two and three and another is to be used in grades four, five and six.

The new cards would be marked with letter grades (A,B,C,D,F) as used on the present card; however, under each subject title would be statements concerning specific skills included in the subject. These statements would be checked for each child as Satisfactory, Improvement Shown or Improvement Needed. The statements would be checked to indicate what each child's progress is according to his own ability.

Also included as a part of the proposed cards are check lists for social habits and work habits.

The old report cards were issued six times each year. The new report card is designed to be issued 4 times each year and will be supplemented by two parent-teacher conferences; one to be held in the fall and another to be held in the spring. The new card will also contain space where either the parent or the teacher may request a special conference, in the event it is felt necessary to call the parents' attention to their child's work between marking periods, a mid-period report will be sent home.

The committee examined more than 50 report cards in use in Minnesota schools. The proposed card is suited to the present curriculum of the elementary schools.

Committee members representing the parent-teacher groups were, Mrs. D. E. Greene, Knox; Dr. and Mrs. George Martin, Northrop, and Howard Holum, Washington. Faculty committee members were: Mrs. Adelyn Aune, Miss Olga Bloomaness, Kermit Eastman, John Elsbrener, Lew Johnson, Miss Betsey Legvold, Mrs. Ida Nelteberg and Miss Judith Wold.

Pleasant Weather Continues in Area

Mercury Hits Summery 77 Here Wednesday

There are relatively few instances when monotony can be enjoyable but our recent weather is one of these. Apparently the weatherman is trying to keep everybody happy after being so cantankerous the past summer as he even has rain, cloudy skies and cooler weather forecast for the opening of the 1957 migratory waterfowl season in Minnesota.

Until Saturday, however, the weather picture is very nice indeed, with fair skies the rule.

Temepratures since Monday have been more like summer than fall with a high of 77 registered Wednesday and the low, 42, reached Tuesday. No precipitation fell during the period.

The forecast is for fair skies today, becoming partly cloudy Friday, with continued mild temperatures. Southerly winds, 20-30 m.p.h. will prevail and we will have excellent drying conditions in the area.

Highs will range from 75-80 and the lows tonight will be 45 to 55. The good news for duck hunters is contained in the Saturday outlook, for occasional rain, cloudy skies and cooler weather.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I was told that the War Orphans education program allows up to $110 a month for handicapped young people who need special restorative training. Sometimes this training is expensive. Is there any way the allowance could be increased?

A—Yes. If special restorative training costs more than $35 a month, VA may step up its monthly allowance accordingly. However, these excess payments would cause a reduction in the length of time a War Orphan student could train.

Q—I have been totally and permanently disabled for more than half a year, and I just applied for a waiver of premiums on my GI insurance policy. Will the waiver become effective retroactively, to the date I first became totally disabled?

A—No. The waiver will become effective six months after your total disability commenced.

Q—I have to sell my house and move to another climate that will be more beneficial to my health. I understand that under these conditions I may get my GI home loan rights restored. What kind of evidence does VA require to approve restoration?

A—VA will want a statement from a reputable physician confirming that the change in climate is essential to your health.

Q—I thing I am taking the wrong course of training under the Korean GI Bill. Before making my one and only change of course, could I receive VA's vocational counseling to help me to get on the right track?

A—Yes. In filling out the application for a change of course, indicate on the form that you want vocational counseling. An appointment will be scheduled for you.

Fall Clean-Up In The Garden

Don't be careless with your garden this fall. Steps you take to remove diseased plants and seed-bearing plants can materially lessen your work in the garden next year. Often gardeners will begin to slack off on gardening activities in the fall. Even in October there are many important tasks which should be completed.

Continue mowing the lawn until the first frost. Remove the clippings where crabgrass has been a problem this year. These clippings should be destroyed and not added to the compost pile.

When annual flowers are thru blooming, remove and destroy them. If any insects are present in the stocks or on the foliage or if any disease has been ravaging the plants, these should all be burned during the fall season.

Remove and destroy the old plants in the vegetable graden. Any diseased plant will serve as a source of infection for the following year.

The lawn and the garden can be fertilized this fall to save time next spring for other gardening activity. If your soil needs testing, fall is a good time to have it tested and to get your fertilizer recommendation.

Don't forget to keep the weeds from going to seed.

Nine million children—one out of every four in the nation's schools— need some form of eye care, according to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

The air-sea base now being built in Rota, Spain, by the U. S. Navy will be the largest American naval facility in the European-African area.

What's the Story on ASIATIC FLU SHOTS?

When Asiatic Flu first invaded the United States, there was no known vaccine that would provide immunity against it. Today, there is one—thanks to the research and resourcefulness of the American drug industry which had to start from scratch to develop, produce and distribute the vaccine. More and more of it is being made available every day. We pledge that whatever supplies we receive will be placed immediately at the disposal of physicians. Keep in touch with your doctor. When he has the vaccine, he will be happy to administer it to your family.

Sportsmen's Club vs. Bounty on Predators

The Pennington County Sportsman's club at its regular monthly meeting held Tuesday in the city Auditorium, went on record as being opposed to county and state bounty payments on Predators for the first time in the history of the club.

After hearing Don Balzer, of the state conservation department, speak on the futility of predator control through bounty payments the question was put to a vote and the club members voted almost unanimously against continuing the bounty.

Balzer, in his address, stated that, despite the bounty payments in most Minnesota counties, predator numbers are holding their own, if not actually increasing.

He brought out that bounties cost the counties and states well over $100,000 a year, yet does not accomplish its goal of efficient predator control. Actually, he said, nature can keep a better balance of wildlife species without man's interference, in most cases.

The only time predator control by man would be needed would be in cases where one species became so numerous as to cause exceptional depredations and then the trapping could be done by a professional who would do the job better than it has been done under the bounty system.

Under the bounty system, Balzer said, most predators on which bounties have been paid were killed incidentally or accidently by persons who killed two or less predators in any given year and that there were very few persons in the state who killed predators on a scale large enough to affect the predator population in any given area.

One northwest Minnesota county, Kittson, has already discontinued predator bounty payments and Sportsman Club President Raymond Johnson said the club's recommendation will be passed on to the Pennington county board of commissioners for further action, if any.

Robert Farms, area game biologist, used a display case of duck wings and heads as a means of illustrating his lecture on duck identification after Balzer's speech.

Herb Dill, manager of the Mud Lake refuge, also spoke briefly, and gave an encouraging report to sportsmen eagerly awaiting the opening day of the migratory waterfowl season Saturday.

Several thousands of ducks and geese are at the refuge now, he said, and more are arriving daily.

After the meeting was adjourned a lunch was served by a committee filling in for Ole Ness, who is on a trip at the present time.

A skilled veteran can now select the base of his choice.

It's All Even

The football series between the Prowlers and the Lakers of Detroit Lakes, which had its inception with the game in 1952, is all even, with each club having posted two wins, and with one game, that of last season, having ended in a tie. The tie-breaker is on the schedule for Friday night.

Not excepting the Fergus Falls game, which the football Prowlers lost, but which, according to fair-minded opinions of the sideliner observers, the locals should have won, coach Joe Mrkonich's squad will be up against their toughest test yet on Friday night. It's Homecoming, and the Prowlers will feature the festivities by meeting the hefty Detroit Lakes Lakers on the Lincoln high field. Kick-off time is at 8:00 P. M.

And it will be somewhat of a "homecoming," too, for the Lakers' coach, Marlow (Red) Davidson. He's a former Prowlers athletic great, having played here in 1945, '46, and '47. You can wager, though, that come Friday night, Marlow will have forgotten the "old school," and will be striving to give the Lakers the proper weapons with which to beat the Prowlers. The game should be a dandy.

Speaking of football scores. Did you notice the result of the Bemidji vs. Fergus Falls game played at Fergus Falls last Friday? Fergus defeated the Lumberjacks, 32 to 7. But don't let that lop-sided score lull the Prowlers and their fans into a state of over-confidence. Red Wilson and his Bemidji club will consider the season a big success if they can beat the Prowlers in the game that will be played here on Oct. 18th.

Grousing about Grouse

Never have we heard so much grumbling and grousing about the upland game-bird season as this year. It's an epidemic.

Comments such as "I'm going to sell my gun, I'm going to shoot my dog, I'm going to take up golf, etc." have been common in conversations with the city's hunters.

To date the birds, except for the odd instance or two, haven't been cooperative. While there are sharptailed grouse in evidence, and in greater numbers than had been expected, these birds have shown more alertness and wariness than has been customary. These birds will flush a block or two ahead of the hunters.

The partridge season opened on Saturday, and the reports that have filtered in are very discouraging. In the first place, the season-opening was, according to the veteran partridge hunters, too early. The heavy foliage carried by the trees this season hadn't been frost-killed and wind-swept, and the result that it was nearly impossible to see or hit a grouse as the birds flushed. There is the hope that, as the killing frosts arrive, that the partridge hunting will improve.

It's A Sight

These past few evenings, at about five or six o'clock, we have been joining with that ever-increasing crowd of hunters along ditch 18 to watch that vast horde of mallard ducks that have been feeding in the swathed field on the old T. K. Rynestad farm, about six miles northeast of town.

These ducks, and they must number into the twenty or thirty thousands, must be doing tremendous damage to that grain. You know, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and they are so anxious to get our duck stamp money, should make provision to re-imburse a farmer for losses such as this.

But to get back to the ducks. We have been challenged as to our statement that there were thirty thousand ducks in there. How do we know? How do we estimate that number? Well, it's like this. Some years ago we watched a huge concentration of ducks that were feeding on the Skomedal brothers farm north of town, and at that time the federal game warden, who was studying the birds, stated that there were about fifty or sixty thousand ducks there. In our judgment, the concentration of ducks north east of town is about half of that horde that invaded the Skomedal's barley field. That amounts to about thirty thousand. Close enough.

Why not drive out there one of these early evenings, and you will enjoy one of nature's awesome sights. To see the flights of ducks, or geese, is one of the thrills of the outdoors.

Motorists Can Save Lives When Mishaps Occur, Patrol States

"Following the proper procedure when a traffic accident occurs may save lives and help prevent similar accidents in the future," Paul R. Martz, chief of the Minnesota highway patrol said today.

He pointed out that if a motorist is involved in an accident he must stop and:

1. Give all the help he can to anyone who is hurt.

2. If any person is injured or killed in the accident, the motorist involved must notify police of the accident by the quickest means of communication. Notice should be given the local police department if the accident occurs within a municipality, or at state highway patrol officers if the accident occurs on a state highway, or to the office of the sheriff of the county. A motorists involved in an accident must remain at the scene of the accident until he has fulfilled his duties.

3. Give his name and address, and registration number of his vehicle to persons involved in the accident. He should also show his driver or chauffeur's license if asked to do so.

If any person is injured or killed, or if the total combined property damage in the accident amounts to $50 or more, the motorist must send a written report of the accident promptly to the Commissioner of Highways, St. Paul 4, Minnesota.

Accident report forms may be obtained from all law enforcement officers or the Minnesota department of highways.

Chief Martz explained that accident reports are used by the Minnesota department of highways to gain information on where, when and how accidents occur and other circumstances to be used in improving highway conditions.

"Make reports of an accident as complete as possible," he said. "The thoroughness and accuracy of the report will aid the Department of Highways in its efforts to halt accidents."

Hunting Seasons Bring Increased Driving Hazards

The Minnesota department of highways safety division today issued a warning to all motorists to be on special guard during the present and upcoming hunting seasons. "Long-distance driving by eager hunters can enlarge the ever-present danger of accidents caused by fatigue and sleepy drivers," the warning said. "Long drives over highways with more than the usual amount of traffic, coupled with unaccustomed hours and extra out-door activity brings sleepiness and fatigue. Motorists should be on the constant alert for cars which seem to be traveling erratically on the highway and often at higher speeds than are safe."

The statement also alerted the state's motorists to be especially wary during the early hours just before the sun rises. "If you are driving and feel at all sleepy, pull off the road for a short nap before continuing your trip," it said. "Finding an all sleepy, pull off the road for a stretch and a cup of coffee every 100 miles or so is another method for fighting off drowsiness." It ended by asking all motorists in the state, whether residents or non-residents, to continue to fight for lower traffic deaths in 1957.

To Investigate All Cases of Persons Accidentally Shot

Legislature Enacts Law Providing for Reporting Each Shooting Mishap

Hunters and shooters involved in accidental shootings will be thoroughly investigated and studied from now on according to Lee Kulvar, state firearms safety coordinator. Under the terms of a new law passed in the last session of the legislature, a statewide uniform system of investigating and reporting all firearms casualties was established.

Sheriffs and police chiefs thruout the state have been furnished especially prepared casualty report forms by the conservation department. Copies of these reports, which will be used in all investigation, will be returned to the department for analysis. For the first time the state will be able to have an accurate statewide analysis of all accidental gun shot wounds and fatalities. Heretofore unknown facts will become available to assist the state in its all out fight against needless firearm accidents.

Kulvar said, "In addition to giving us invaluable information on gun accidents and the people who cause them we will now be able to measure the effectiveness of our new Youth Firearms Safety Training Program. Studies in California have shown that a trained youth is twenty times safer than the untrained. With close to 35,000 youths now trained in Minnesota we will have accurate findings, that we feel will back up the amazing California results, by the end of this fall's hunting season."

Minnesota is the first state to set up such a system and according to Kulvar it should serve as an excellent gun safety warning now that fall hunting is upon us. All hunters should bear in mind that no longer are senseless gun accidents going to be treated lightly by the officials. When the hunter reaches into the closet for his trusty gun he must accept the responsibility that goes with it. It is up to the individual, for no gun accident need happen if each participant governs himself accordingly.

333 Arrested for Game Violations in Month of July

Arrests for violations of game and fish laws in July soared to the high figure of 333, reports Arthur Emme, assistant chief warden, game and fish division.

Fishing violations topped the list with 292 arrests reported.

As a reminder to hunters who will soon be going afield, warden Emme pointed out that 18 arrests were made in July for transporting loaded or uncased firearms in motor vehicles.

A new law passed by the 1957 legislature makes it mandatory for hunters to submit to an inspection of their firearms while in any type of conveyance.

Illegal transportation of fish accounted for 15 arrests, while one case of resisting arrest was successfuly prosecuted.

Editorials . . .

"A great deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly, or at least to the best of one's ability, everything which he attempts to do. There is a sense of satisfaction, a pride in surveying such a work—a work which is rounded, full, exact, complete in all its parts—which the superficial man, who leaves his work in a slovenly, slipshod, half-finished condition, can never know. It is this conscientious completeness which turns work into art. The smallest thing, well done, becomes artistic."

—William Mathews

Cause and Effect

An untruth, repeated often and not challenged, gradually gains acceptance as a truth. One of the current untruths that has gained too much acceptance because it has not been challenged often enough, is the statement that a low price for farm products encourages production.

The theory behind such a conclusion is that a farmer whose income is reduced because of lower prices will attempt to produce more in order to make up for the price loss.

All we have to do to get the true picture is to check the price and production charts for such commodities as eggs, hogs and beef. Over a period of years, in a free market, high prices have encouraged overproduction, resulting inevitably in lower prices. The lower prices have discouraged production, resulting in short supply and the inevitable price increases.

A local egg man, who does not complain, tells us that he expects to do well only one year in three. Normally, he says, there will be one fair year and one that is bad.

It isn't the production of the regular producers that cause this fluctuation, as he sees it. It is the inners and outers who disrupt the market. And they, almost invariably, are in at the wrong time and, fortunately from his standpoint, are also out at the wrong time.

The obvious fact that we hopefully would like to ignore is that where we have peaks we must also have depressions. The two are inseparable, and the only way we can eliminate the depressions is by leveling off the peaks.

The Fellow To Watch

Governor Orville Freeman appears to be growing desperate in his attempts to discredit the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation organization. Having lost his argument about the availability of funds for flood relief, a purpose for which Congress did not appropriate money, the governor now charges that the ASC organization in the state is guilty of either gross mismanagement or fraud in the conduct of elections in which various unit and county committees are selected.

From what information we have on the procedures [illegible] for these elections, and from our observation on how the voting machine works, we are satisfied that these elections are locally controlled and are as democratic as they possibly can be.

The farmers in each county select their own officers in elections that are managed and controlled completely at the local level. It is as "grass roots" as you can make it.

Errors are common in elections of all kinds, and it would be strange indeed if, in the ASC elections, there were no errors.

And it is not inconceivable that there might be instances of skullduggery in some of the thousands of polls that are required thruout the state. But if there are errors or fraud, as he charges, then they are at the local level and are a local responsibility.

Governor Freeman has the backing of the big-city machine that controls both parties in Minnesota, and instead of having a Congressional investigation of corruption in an ASC election in Squash Hollow, as he suggests, maybe it would be more in keeping with the best interests of good government in our state if there were a thorough investigation of the top-level politicians and their hatchet men. From our experience the fellow to watch is the one who is constantly accusing someone else of being a scoundrel.

Rural Highway Danger Traps

(Red Oak, Iowa Express)

Why are rural roads so dangerous? Principally because, according to the old saying . . . "familiarity breeds contempt". It is home people who are involved in most of these accidents; they are the people who use the highways most. They use them so much that they take it for granted there is no car at the corner, or coming over the hill. These same drivers in a strange territory would watch more carefully.

The farmer who goes out his driveway or field onto the highway with car or tractor forgets he is not in the south 40 on his own land, where he makes all the traffic. The young folks who take off for town, glad the day's work is over, can't wait to step on it. And the gravel, which surfaces most of the rural highways, is treacherous.

The big answer is to cut the speed on rural roads . . . that and the weeds that may obscure the corners.

We have to live with these roads as they are, narrower, with sharper corners, shifting gravel surface. But we must not let our familiarity breed contempt to the extent that caution is thrown to the winds. The chances of coming on a slow-moving piece of machinery over the hill are perhaps greater than on the main highways.

To Grow Old Gracefully

(The Milwaukee Journal)

Let's stop asking very old people how they have been able to achieve their longevity. They don't know, anyway, and often give some silly answer such as: "Well, I take a mint julep four times a day."

Extra years may be a happy time of life or not. So it is very much to the point to ask those who seem to enjoy their final years, who have grown old gracefully and cheerfully, how to do it. With more of us headed for ripe old age than ever before that's a secret worth learning.

A 72 year old North Carolina physician, Dr. Wingate Johnson, tells in the Journal of the American Medical Association about his advice to his patients on this subject. And his first suggestion is to start preparing oneself in middle age for a rewarding and contented old age.

Keep from becoming an old fogy by associating with young people, he says. Be prepared for a few shocks but try to understand their viewpoint.

Keep in touch with old friends but make new ones, so you won't find yourself alone and lonely when old friends leave or die.

Cultivate wide interests. Learn to enjoy the less strenuous amusements.

Take life calmly, at an even pace. Think and talk about the present and the future, not the past.

And, we might add, let your grown children live their lives and raise your grandchildren as they think best. It will all add greatly to your peace of mind and happiness.

A NEWSPAPER WAS A RARITY IN MANY AMERICAN COMMUNITIES!

Then—a newspaper was a thing to be marveled at —for memories of the Press' fight for freedom were fresh in mind. Although newspapers are common in our country today, their existence should not be taken for granted. It is a wonderful fact that almost all of our modern communities have their own hometown newspapers, freely edited by members of their own communities—spreading the news, stimulating the business of the community, and keeping their readers informed of important events elsewhere. It is well to keep in mind that a free press and a free people are an unbeatable team.

Markers Are Adopted for New Interstate Routes in Minnesota

Big, 36-inch shield shaped red, white and blue route markers will guide motorists when they begin traveling the super-highways of the new national system of interstate and defense highways, commonly called the Interstate system or Interstate network.

The Minnesota highway department has received approved specifications and regulations for the interstate route markers from the American Association of State Highway Officials, which prepared them with the approval of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Construction and installation of the uniform route and directional markers will be the responsibility of the state highway departments, since the routes will be a part of the state highway systems of the staes through which they pass.

The Minnesota department also was notified of the assignment of new numbers for three of the Minnesota interstate routes: Route 35 for the route beginning at Duluth and passing through the Twin Cities and Albert Lea to continue southward to the international boundary at Laredo, Texas; Route 90 for the route transversing southern Minnesota from LaCrescent to the Luverne area; and Route 94 for the one transversing Minnesota from southeast to northwest, from the Wisconsin border at Hudson, Wis. to Moorhead. Route 90 extends from Boston, Mass., to Seattle, Wash., and Route 94, from Detroit, Mich., to join Route 90 at Billings, Mont.

New numbers for the other two interstate routes in Minnesota—the north-south Minneapolis freeway and the new Twin Cities metropolitan belt line—have not yet been determined.

East-west interstate routes will be designated by even numbers and north-south routes by odd numbers, nation-wide. The pattern is so arranged that no state will have duplicate numbers for interstate and U. S. highways.

The 36-inch shield, or more nearly heart shaped, route markers will be used along the interstate routes for route identification.

Similar 24-inch shield signs will be placed on intersecting U. S. or state routes or major city arterial streets to indicate an interchange junction or intersection with an intrastate route. Current plans, according to the state highway officials' organization, are for installation of 18-inch "trail blazer" signs to direct traffic in urban areas to the interstate routes.

In addition, the interstate routes will have large guide signs one and two miles in advance of intersecting interstate routes.

The uniform pattern for the route markers provides for white lettering and borders. Across the top will be the word, INTERSTATE, on a red background. On the blue background below will apear the name of the state in which the marker is located and large two-digit numerals designating the route number. All three colors will be reflectorized.

Steps are being taken with the U. S. patents office and the federal trade commission to prevent registration of the marker design in the name of any private individual or commercial interests, A. E. Johnson, AASHO executive secretary, reported.

Regulations for the route designations and marker signs provide, among other things, for designating individual routes for maximum continuity between major control points and that "interstate highway patterns in urban areas be carefully numbered and marked for the safety and convenience of the traveling public."

The new interstate markers will be installed as rapidly as sizeable sections of the interstate routes are open for traffic, beginning probably late next year in Minnesota.

Public Is Urged to Find Employment for Handicapped

Employ the Physically Handicapped Week to Be Observed October 6 to 12

National "Employ The Physically Handicapped" Week (October 6-12) is something more than just one of the many hundreds of "weeks" that overwhelm our modern American calendars. It is one of the few weeks set aside by Presidential Proclamation and not by some advertising agency; it is not a week for selling more paint or apple pies, but rather a concerted effort to emphasis that a physical handicap will not and does not prevent a worker from doing a good job — "that ability, not disability, is what counts!"

For most of us the usual reaction is, "That's sure a darn good idea, finding jobs for the handicapped." Then we forget about the problem until next October. But for several hundred Minnesotans in public and private rehabilitation agencies it is a full time, year-round job.

For example, how many Minnesotans are aware that the state department of education has a division of vocational rehabilitation with a staff of 85 people whose function is, as its name implies, to assist in the vocational rehabilitation of the physically and mentally handicapped of the state. And during the past year the division put back on the job 967 persons, an increase of 42% over the previous year.

The staff of the division is scattered throughout the state with offices in Bemidji, Crookston, Duluth, Virginia, Mankato, Worthington, Rochester, St. Cloud, Fergus Falls and Minneapolis.

Rehabilitation is more than a "do-good" humanitarian program. By restoring these Minnesotans to productive, wage-earning, citizen rehabilitation has made them, not dependents, but tax-paying contributors to the economy of their community, state and nation. During his productive years the average rehabilitant will repay, in state and federal taxes, ten times the cost of his rehabilitation program.

Employable handicapped workers who are seeking employment are asked to contact the State Employment service at 16 North LaBree Avenue, Thief River Falls so that they may receive consideration for referral to available jobs. Employers with available job opportunities are invited to list them with the office. Remember, it's what the handicapped can do, not what they can't do, that counts.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN ?
IHS

Frightening, isn't it? You see a picture like this and suddenly you feel as if you are standing at the edge of a chasm in the dark. You are confronted with the threat of the unknown, and you don't like it.

Why, you wonder, does it have to be like this? Why can't men live together in peace?

We all need the courage to face the unknown future unafraid. We need to find and to develop love, understanding, and peace of mind. But to attain our goal, we need help. That help can be found in the Church, which gives us Faith.

On World-Wide Communion Sunday—millions of men and women will unite in solemn observance of one of Christianity's holy sacraments. There will be new faces at thousands of altars, men and women who have only recently begun to realize where man's Hope is to be found.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

H. S. Homecoming Was Huge Success

Detroit Lakes Bows to Lincoln Prowlers; Shirley Kulseth Queen

A victory over the Detroit Lake Lakers by a one-point 7 to 6 margin Friday evening served to make the annual Lincoln high school homecoming a highly successful affair, from the standpoint of local fans.

The homecoming queen, Shirley Kulseth, who had been crowned at an elaborate coronation ceremony in the afternoon, was introduced, together with her retinue, to the large crowd at the game.

Dale Kjenarud officiated as master of ceremonies at the coronation ceremony, in which Shirley was crowned by James Nelson and David Rasmussen, newly elected co-captains of the football team.

Queen Shirley's attendants included Beverly Braaten and Angie Wiener, seniors; Rosalie Fonnest and Virginia Lanska, juniors; Dianne Storhaug and Nancy Gunderson, sophomores; and little Cam Peterson, daughter of the Norman Petersons, and Mark Gustafson, son of the Lester Gustafsons.

The program included a group of musical numbers, including a duet by Jon Larson and Wes Christensen; solo by Donna Hesse; piano duet by Carol Ewing and Diane Lindquist; a vocal quartet made up of Wes Christensen, Lolell Dyrud, Frank Conklin and Ronald Moe; and the singing of "Lincoln Alma Mater" by the high school chorus.

Other numbers on the program included the class prophecy by Lolell Dyrud, and a queen coronation skit presented by a group of faculty members.

Later in the afternoon a parade was staged thru the business district, including the queen and her attendants borne on attractive floats, and the Lincoln band.

16 County 4-H Clubs Now Are Conducting '57 Membership Drive

Pennington county's 16 4-H clubs are now conducting their annual membership drive and setting their membership goals.

Both new and old members are urged by County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk to enroll immediately in their local clubs in order to get an early start in project work and to be included in fall activities. 4-H work is a year round program with activities and projects planned on a year round basis.

Stelmaschuk encourages club members who joined last year to re-enroll. Boys and girls who are members for a number of years find far greater satisfactions in club work than those who join for only one year. Last year 415 boys and girls were enrolled in county 4-H clubs. More than 2 million boys and girls are members of the nation's 4-H clubs.

County 4-H leaders and members will attempt to reach their clubs' enrollment quotas by National 4-H Achievement Day, Nov. 2.

Anyone between the ages of 10 to 21 is eligible to join a 4-H club. There is no membership fee. The only requirement is that each member carry at least one of the many projects offered in homemaking, livestock production or crop production. Or he may choose one of the general projects such as home beautification, tractor maintenance, soil conservation, farm and home shop or electrification. Each project is a planned piece of work in which the member "learns by doing."

Besides projects there are special activities like health, safety, fire prevention, and conservation. They are not required for membership but designed to add to the 4-H'ers enjoyment of rural living.

Boys and girls interested in joining a 4-H club should see their local club leader or extension agent as soon as possible. The county office can supply the names of leaders and clubs in different locations in the county.

Hearing on Mavie School Districts Slated Wednesday

Controversy to Be Aired Further Before Dept. of Education Official

The protracted controversy over whether three rural school districts in the Mavie area shall be attached to the Goodridge or Thief River Falls independent school district will be further aired at a public hearing to be held Wednesday evening, October 9, at 7:30 in the district court room in the court house.

B. N. Hendrickson, consultant on surveys and reorganization with the state department of education, will conduct the hearing, which is being held at the request of the Mavie districts and State Senator Roy E. The Mavie districts have indicated a preference for being attached to the Thief River Falls district, but this is opposed by the Goodridge district, which contends that the three districts in question are logically a part of the Goodridge area.

Results of Job Survey Given out by C of C

Total Employment of 2,808 Down Slightly from September '48

A report released today by J. M. Roche, secretary of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, and R. S. Eldevik, manager of the local state employment office, reveals that Thief River Falls employment as of September 1, 1957 was 2,808.

This was the number of employed persons as reported by local employers and employing units who were contacted by mail and telephone in a re-survey of employment sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and conducted by the local employment office. This total includes proprietors, self-employed professional people and family workers as well as wage and salary employees. It also includes partime workers working more than 15 hours per week. It does not include domestic workers in private households.

It is significant to note this over-all employment in Thief River Falls is down slightly compared with September 1948, the earliest comparable month for which employment figures are available. Total employment at that time was 2843. This drop is accounted for by a substantial decrease in construction employment, a moderate drop in manufacturing employment and in transportation.

Construction employment, which accounts for the greatest loss, is down 107 workers compared with September 1948. A drop in residential and commercial building and completion of all large public buildings projects, and also a reduction in the number of firms engaged in this type of work, is responsible for this decrease.

Manufacturing employment was down 51 workers with September 1948. This drop is accounted for because of a reduction in certain phases of operations of a few local firms, and increased operating efficiency through use of improved methods and machinery by other firms.

Employment in transportation showed a decline of 66 workers within the same comparable period. Increased railroad automation and mechanization has reduced the number of way and equipment personnel needed for regular operations. The going out of business of one taxi firm and the change in bus operations is partially responsible.

On the plus side of the picture is the gain that was made in local trade and government employment. Local trade is up 72 workers and employment in government is up 137. Although a number of retail and wholesale firms have tightened their operations or discontinued business with a consequent reduction in personnel, local trade has never-

$1,400 Damage Caused in Week-end Mishaps

City police reported a rash of accidents causing nearly $1400 property damage occurred here over the past week-end, as a heavy influx of out-of-town cars was noted due to the opening of duck season. None of the accidents involved out-of-town hunters, however, although they contributed greatly to the unusually heavy traffic during the period.

About 10:40 Thursday morning Morris P. Johnson city drove into the rear end of a car driven by Reuben Olson, city, as both cars entered the intersection at 4th and Main.

The Johnson car sustained about $450 damages while Olson's had an estimated $250. Johnson was tagged for careless driving.

The Renala truck sustained about $55 damage and the English truck about $25. The Red Lake woman was charged with driving without a license and for failure to yield the right of way.

At 3:15 p.m. Saturday a car driven by Russel R. Zimple, rt. 4, Red Lake Falls, was hit in the left side by Mrs. Ida L. Sund, rural Goodridge, who drove out into E. 3rd st. from Horace. Zimple was going east at the time and Mrs. Sund was driving south. Zimpel's car sustained about $75 damage and the Sund vehicle $10. Mrs. Sund was tagged for not yielding the right of way.

About 7:25 p.m. Sunday police were notified by Stan Gibson that a car had struck one owned by the Ziegler Co. of Minneapolis, as it was parked in front of the Norman L. Olson residence on Main av. N. The Olsons, neighbors of the Gibsons, were not at home at the time.

The car was pushed up on the curb and an estimated $115 damage was done to it. It is a company car driven by Olson in his work.

Monday Dr. Jerome Hillard, city, reported he had struck the parked car as he was driving south on Main but further details concerning the cause of the accident were not available in the case.

Fire Prevention to Be Noted Oct. 6 to 12

Ways that Minnesota farm families can observe Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 6-12, were explained today by Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Prickett says that week is an ideal time to get rid of things that might cause fires later on.

He explains that in 1956, there were 127 barn fires and 122 fires in homes and other buildings on Minnesota farms. These fires caused more than a million and a half dollars worth of total damage.

Chief causes of the fires were defective electrical equipment, misuse of electrical equipment, overheated and defective heating units, poor chimneys, careless smoking and match handling, liquid fuels, rubbish fires, spontaneous combustion and lightning.

Nine out of 10 of these fires, Prickett says, could have been avoided by a thorough check around the farm. He makes these recommendations:

Have an experienced electrician check the wiring system. Follow any suggestions he makes. Then use proper fuses, keep electric motors clean from oil, cobwebs or dust, protect brooder lamps and replace worn wiring.

Store fuel 40 to 50 feet away from buildings, in tight tanks.

Put up "No Smoking" signs in the barn, especially in the hay loft, and in the granary and other buildings where there is fire danger.

Be prepared for the time when precaution fails. Have an approved fire extinguisher handy to stop small fires. Have enough hose length and nozzles that will shoot a spray to the top of buildings. You also need sturdy ladders long enough to reach roofs of buildings.

Finally, make sure everyone in the family knows what to do when fire breaks out. Prickett says that a "family council" on fire prevention during Fire Prevention Week can make fire less of a danger the other 51 weeks of the year.

Month of September Brought 3.60 In. Rain

No set pattern in the September weather picture made that month one of great variety in northwest Minnesota, but, generally speaking, it was an unusually wet month, with rainfall distributed throughout the month.

A total of 3.60 inches of rainfall was reported to have fallen in Thief River Falls, although the amount was probably greater in other areas of Pennington county, especially in the east and north. The greatest amount of rainfall occurred as a steady downpour Labor Day when 2.14 inches fell here.

The first killing frost was recorded here on the 23rd and was followed by another the 26th when the low temperature of the season to date, a chilly 26, was registered on the KTRF thermometer.

Oddly enough, the high temperatures of the month were evenly distributed throughout the month although 79, registered the first day was the top for the month. The month closed on a warm, dry note.

None of the accidents involved out-of-town hunters, however, although they contributed greatly to the unusually heavy traffic during the period.

About 10:40 Thursday morning Morris P. Johnson city drove into the rear end of a car driven by Reuben Olson, city, as both cars entered the intersection at 4th and Main.

The Johnson car sustained about $450 damages while Olson's had an estimated $250. Johnson was tagged for careless driving.

The Rensla truck sustained about $55 damage and the English truck about $25. The Red Lake woman was charged with driving without a license and for failure to yield the right of way.

At 3:15 p.m. Saturday a car driven by Russel R. Zimple, rt. 4, Red Lake Falls, was hit in the left side by Mrs. Ida L. Sund, rural Goodridge, who drove out into E. 3rd st. from Horace. Zimple was going east at the time and Mrs. Sund was driving south. Zimpel's car sustained about $75 damage and the Sund vehicle $10. Mrs. Sund was tagged for not yielding the right of way.

About 7:25 p.m. Sunday police were notified by Stan Gibson that a car had struck one owned by the Ziegler Co. of Minneapolis, as it was parked in front of the Norman L. Olson residence on Main av. N. The Olsons, neighbors of the Gibsons, were not at home at the time.

The car was pushed up on the curb and an estimated $215 damage was done to it. It is a company car driven by Olson in his work.

Fire Prevention to Be Noted Oct. 6 to 12

Ways that Minnesota farm families can observe Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 6-12, were explained today by Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Prickett says that week is an ideal time to get rid of things that might cause fires later on.

He explains that in 1956, there were 127 barn fires and 122 fires in homes and other buildings on Minnesota farms. These fires caused more than a million and a half dollars worth of total damage.

Chief causes of the fires were defective electrical equipment, misuse of electrical equipment, overheated and defective heating units, poor chimneys, careless smoking and match handling, liquid fuels, rubbish fires, spontaneous combustion and lightning.

Nine out of 10 of these fires, Prickett says, could have been avoided by a thorough check around the farm. He makes these recommendations:

Have an experienced electrician check the wiring system. Follow any suggestions he makes. Then use proper fuses, keep electric motors clean from oil, cobwebs or dust, protect brooder lamps and replace worn wiring.

Store fuel 40 to 50 feet away from buildings, in tight tanks.

Put up "No Smoking" signs in the barn, especially in the hay loft, and in the granary, and other buildings where there is fire danger.

Be prepared for the time when precaution fails. Have an approved fire extinguisher handy to stop small fires. Have enough hose length and nozzles that will shoot a spray to the top of buildings. You also need sturdy ladders long enough to reach roofs of buildings.

Finally, make sure everyone in the family knows what to do when fire breaks out. Prickett says that a "family council" on fire prevention during Fire Prevention Week can make fire less of a danger the other 51 weeks of the year.

Month of September Brought 3.60 In. Rain

No set pattern in the September weather picture made that month one of great variety in northwest Minnesota, but, generally speaking, it was an unusually wet month, with rainfall distributed throughout the month.

A total of 3.60 inches of rainfall was reported to have fallen in Thief River Falls, although the amount was probably greater in other areas of Pennington county, especially in the east and north. The greatest amount of rainfall occurred as a steady downpour Labor Day when 2.14 inches fell here.

The first killing frost was recorded here on the 23rd and was followed by another the 26th when the low temperature of the season to date, a chilly 26, was registered on the KTRF thermometer.

Oddly enough, the high temperatures of the month were evenly distributed throughout the month although 79, registered the first day was the top for the month. The month closed on a warm, dry note.

Here are the month's temperature and moisture statistics:

LaVerne Hamre, Donald Bjerke Win Red Ribbons

The Junior Livestock Show held at St. Paul last week saw some of the finest exhibits and competition since its historic beginnings 39 years ago. Two Pennington County 4-H'ers exhibited at the show. They were LaVerne Hamre of the Mavie 4-H Club who showed a wether and Donald Bjerke of the Silverton 4-H Club exhibited a borrow. Both were awarded red ribbons.

There were over 750 4-H'ers competing in the show according to County Agent Paul Stalmaschuk. 362 4-H'ers showed baby beef, 182 exhibited barrows, 193 showed wethers, and fifteen showed trio wethers. In addition to the Junior Livestock Show the 4-H'ers took part in a varied program. On Monday evening they enjoyed films, fun and food, the hosts being South St. Paul Civic and Commerce assn. and the Junior Chamber.

These organizations were also hosts to the 4-H'ers on Tuesday evening when a 4-H Round-up program was held at the South St. Paul High School and the 4-H banquet held Wednesday night.

Winner of the coveted 4-H livestock achievement award at the show was Edgar Olson, 20, Fosston, who has built up a full-scale beef and sheep breeding business in 11 years of 4-H club work.

Grand champion barrow was a Poland-China shown by Robert Deters, 21, Eitzen. Michael Harder, 14, Mountain Lake, had the grand champion lamb, a Southdown.

Boy Scouts Making Geological Trips

[illegible] Geologic [illegible] Study Trips

Boy Scouts and Explorers of the [illegible] Council will have an opportunity during the month of October of participating in [illegible] field trips in North Dakota geological survey under the direction of Dr. Wilson M. Laird, state geologist. The dates of the field trips will be October [illegible] 19th and 26th.

The Boy Scouts of America will have a program theme for the Scout troops for October of the [illegible] "Earth." It deals with geology and suggests that the Scout councils throughout the nation secure the help of the geologists in their states. North Dakota is the only state that is cooperating in field trips for all the councils. There will be such trips leaving from Williston, Dickinson, Bismarck, Mandan, Minot, Fargo, Jamestown, Valley City, Grand Forks, Grafton and Devils Lake. The latter three trips will be used by the Scouts and Explorers of the Lake Agassiz Council.

Each Saturday morning Troop and Explorer Units will leave from these communities at 9 o'clock. They will be accompanied by a member of the Geology Survey. [illegible] units [illegible] urged to make reservations with the Scout office indicating the weekend of their choice and also the approximate number of Scouts going. They will make the trip by car, taking a lunch with them.

The departure points within the cities are the City Hall in Grafton, and Wilder School in Grand Forks.

The Minnesota units participating are Troop 66, [illegible]; Troop 60, Lancaster; Troop 40, Crookston; Troop 78, Hallock and Troop 71, Stephen.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Beauty is fleeting . . . the brilliant fall foliage is slowly but surely fading as the leaves drift down. It was pretty while it lasted, but, alas, the transition from summer to full-blown autumn is all too short.

One group of people we know of will welcome the shedding of leaves from underbrush. These are the boys who enjoy hunting the ruffed grouse.

It's natural for us to gripe a little about the coming of the snowy season . . . but, if winter comes, can spring be far behind? (Heck yes in our neck of the woods it's more than a half-year behind!)

Well, since the duck season opened last week-end, hunting is probably as good as any subject to discuss this week. Here, courtesy of the Carlton County News Graphic, Cloquet, are some common duck varieties one might encounter on opening days:

"The Daylight Sloughpumper—comes rowing across your favorite duck lake just after sun-up when the mallards are on the move . . . He'll use a metal boat and sound like a Pittsburgh rolling mill. The Stygmatic Skybuster—identified by his habit of opening fire at any ducks that come within 200 yards. The Red-Topped Chowderhead—never heard of a duck blind and will perch in a white boat wearing a red cap. The Ivory-Skulled Scissorbill—will establish himself about 500 yards downwind from your decoy spread . . . The Marshhound Magpie—always travels in pairs or flocks . . . can readily be identified by a terrific din of talking laughing.

All the above warmints look like regular duck hunters and are equipped as such.

There are the types of hunters to whom the term "sportsman" hardly applies. One is the Stygmatic Skybuster, mentioned above; the other is the "Leaser".

It's a toss-up as to which is the more selfish and annoying to other hunters. The Skybuster is the bird who bangs away at anything close enough to be tentatively identified as a duck. Result: mostly misses but all to often crippled, lost and thus wasted, ducks.

The Leaser is the hunter who is so selfish he isn't willing to take his chances of getting his limit alongside us common folks who hunt, so "leases" exclusive hunting rights to the most likely hunting locations. He isn't too common here, fortunately.

Now most hunters shouldn't be against a farmer charging on a come-one-come-all basis, a slight fee for hunters who hunt on his land, especially if it . . . and crop losses from game birds. As a matter of fact it probably would be a good deal if more hunters were to volunteer a few bucks for the privilege of hunting on the farmers' land, even without being asked. But most hunters of our acquaintance are against leasing, saying this and our present high license fee makes hunting appear more than ever like a rich man's sport exclusively, which is strictly against our national tradition.

Both the Stygmatic Skybuster and the Leaser show very little consideration for other hunters, who, after all, paid just as much to support our conservation department as these two.

One, with his irresponsible, illogical shooting, keeps the birds out of range vertically; the other keeps 'em out of range, horizontally, with his wallet.

Which should be exterminated first is a matter of opinion. What's yours?"

It's kind of strange to have an electrical storm such as Sunday's so late in the season and it pretty well stopped hunting for that day. Which is just as well, for the ducks hadn't had much chance to feed with so many hunters shooting holes in the air, trying to make scatter-guns do a job cut out for guided missiles.

And, that's that for this week—SO LONG!

theless shown a gain because of new businesses that have been established and because some companies have expanded operations.

There also are more "over-the-road" and commission salesmen working out of Thief River Falls than in previous years. Government employment has increased substantially because new and improved school programs and facilities have made it necessary to increase the faculty, the maintenance staff, cooks and bus drivers. There also has been an increase in city, county, state and federal payrolls in this city over the past few years.

Last Rites Are Conducted For John Davies

Funeral services for John Arthur Davies, a resident of Rolette, North Dakota, were conducted Saturday, October 5 at the Presbyterian church in Wolford, North Dakota with Rev. Roy McGlasney officiating. Interment was made in the Wolford cemetery. Mr. Davies passed away October 2 at the Northwestern hospital in this city, at the age of 90 years.

John Davies was born June 3, 1867 in Longton, Staffordshire, England, where he attended school and grew to manhood. In 1891, he came to the United States and settled in Devils Lake and Minot. In 1900 he moved and homesteaded in Wolford, North Dakota where he farmed until six years ago when he retired. For the past few years he has made his home with his son Harvey in Rolette.

Survivors include one daughter, Maude Davies of California; five sons, Harvey of Rolette; Clyde of this city; Charles of Shevlin; Harry of Grafton; 14 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his wife, two sons, two daughters, two brothers and one sister.

Fred Sundby Succumbs; Rites Are Held Today

Funeral services for Fred Sundby were conducted today (Monday) at Our Savior's Lutheran church in Grygla with Rev. Arthur Dale officiating. Interment was made in the church cemetery. Mr. Sundby passed away October 4 at the age of 88 years.

Fred Sundby was born June 18, 1869 in Norway where he was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and grew to manhood. At the age of 21 years he came to the United States and settled in Minneapolis where he was employed by the Minneapolis Street Railway Co.

He was united in marriage to Miss Abigail Vatt on September 7, 1901, and they moved to Beltrami county and homesteaded in Hamre township. In 1945 he moved to this city and has made his home at the Valley Christian Rest Home. He was a charter member of Our Savior's Lutheran church and also served on the township board for a number of years. He was preceded in death by his wife in January of 1954.

Rev. V. Rasmussen Leaves Grygla to Serve at Fosston

The Rev. Virgil Rasmussen, for the past eight years pastor of the Grygla Gospel Tabernacle, moved Saturday with Mrs. Rasmussen and their five children to Fosston, where he will serve as pastor of Bethel Assembly.

During his period of service at Grygla, a new church edifice and parsonage were built.

Succeeding Mr. Rasmussen at Grygla is Rev. James Larson of Breckenridge, who is married and has no children.

The Navy got its start so early in radio pioneering that it at least coincided with, if it did not precede, Marconi's time.

Dairy Outlook Seems Stable, Say 'U' Men

Dairy farmers in Minnesota and the rest of the nation will receive about the same price for their milk in 1958 as they're getting this year.

Extension agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota say that prices paid for dairy products will continue to depend on government price supports, and support programs are expected to change very little, at least until next April.

Minnesota dairy farmers are influenced more by price supports than in other states where a larger proportion of milk goes into fluid consumption. About 80 percent of Minnesota milk is used for manufactured products, and prices for manufactured dairy products are closely tied to government price programs.

Cow numbers are down in the nation as a whole but milk production per cow has risen so much that total milk production is higher than ever. This is because there are more well-managed, high producing herds and poor herds are going out of business.

The economists say a good "barometer" to watch in the dairy business is the number of heifer calves kept for milk. This number on Jan. 1, 1957, was about the same as a year earlier, and indicates a trend toward "leveling off" in cow numbers.

There are still a great many low-producing, inefficient herds that will continue to be unprofitable, say the economists. They explain that the key to dairy profits will be increased production per cow at lower cost.

Prickett Heads DFL Fund Drive

Ray Hemenway, Minnesota DFL chairman, named Robert Prickett of Middle River to be chairman of the 1957 Dollars for Democrats drive in the Ninth congressional district.

Hemenway said this year's drive would constitute the biggest fund raising effort ever attempted by a political party in the year following a presidential election. Goal for the DFL drive, according to Hemenway, will be $30,000.

School Costs Vary Widely in Nation

Taxpayers Group Quotes Construction Costs

How much should new school buildings cost?

Norman A. Borgen, executive secretary of Minnesota Taxpayers Association, said today this is one of the most controversial subjects in government financing and quoted from the U. S. Office of Education to show the wide variation in construction costs in various states.

"Figures from the U. S. Office of Education and published in U. S. News and World Report indicate Minnesota's construction costs per pupil are $1558 as compared with $1100 in Iowa, $1297 in Wisconsin, $1034 in Michigan, and $1359 in California.

"At the upper end of the scale," Mr. Borgen said, "is Massachusetts with $1845, Connecticut with $1691, and Rhode Island with $1625. At the bottom of the scale is Maine with $87., Vermont with $956, and Oregon with $965. These figures, of course, do not include the southern states where the range is from $578 in Mississippi, $701 in Georgia, $833 in Florida, $687 in Louisiana up to $846 in Alabama. Indiana in the east north central group has a construction cost per pupil of $985.

"The many Minnesota local school districts confronted with new construction problems should get all of the facts possible. They should try to determine what they can afford today and what they may have to spend tomorrow. They should establish only such building standards as they can afford. Lack of planning, lack of knowledge of the present problems and failure to fully understand financing procedures can be most costly if they are not thoroughly investigated before new construction is undertaken."

Jesme-Skoglund Speak Vows

Madlyn Ileen Jesme and Vernon Byron Skoglund both of Milwaukee, Wisc. spoke their wedding vows Saturday, September 29th in Our Savior's Lutheran church at Thief Lake. Rev. E. G. Bagley performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 250 relatives and friends. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jesme of Middle River and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Manvel Skoglund of Argyle. Darlen Johnson presided at the piano for a prelude of nuptial music and also accompanied Irene Helstad of Gatzke who sang, "I Love You Truly" before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" while the couple knelt at the altar and the "Lord's Prayer" after the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a white lace gown of nylon tulle over satin. The fitted bodice featured a Queen Anne collar, long fitted sleeves and buttons extending down the back. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of seed pearls.

She wore a pearl necklace and ear rings, gifts of the groom and carried a cascade bouquet of of tangerine roses and white feathered mums. Beverly Jesme, sister of the bride was maid of honor and wore a peacock blue formal featuring a lace bolero. The bridesmaids, Phyllis Jesme, cousin of the bride and Mrs. Gene Hansen, sister of the groom both of Milwaukee, wore shrimp colored dresses identical to that of the maid of honor. They all wore matching head pieces and pearl necklaces and earrings, gifts of the bride and carried colonial bouquets of shrimp roses and white carnations.

Robert Skoglund, brother of the groom was the best man. Groomsmen were William Jesme, brother of the bride and Joel Vattendahl, friend of the couple. Ushers were Floyd Jesme of Middle River, brother of the bride and Arnold Larson of Milwaukee. The men wore light grey suits with carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Jesme chose for her apparel for the occasion a dark blue tailored dress with black and white accessories. The groom's mother wore a two piece pink and black print with white and black accessories. Both wore corsages of red roses and white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a wedding reception for approximately 250 guests in the church parish hall.

The bridal party was seated at a beautifully decorated table with a center piece of azaleas, white mums and ferns in a basket. Mrs. Martin Davidson of Wannaska, Mrs. Floyd Jesme and Mrs. Patricia Berg served the wedding table. They wore blue organdy aprons, gifts from the bride. The other guests were served buffet style from a table that featured the three tiered wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Lawrence Gjovick of Canby cut and served the wedding cake and Mrs. Hanna Endeen of Minneapolis, aunt of the groom poured. Mrs. Robert Skoglund of Holt registered the guests and the gift table was arranged by Deloris Brandon and Darlene Stuud. After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home at 4014 Madison Ave. So. Milwaukee, Wisc.

Parking Skill Reflects Your Driving Ability

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

DO YOU FIND that parking a car is a "snap?" Then you're probably a pretty capable driver in traffic, too.

For driving experts believe that the ability to park well indicates that the driver is skillful at controlling a car in other situations as well; in other words, a good "parker" can put a car just where he wants it.

Miss Smith

However, if you find that parking is "next to impossible," don't be disheartened. Proper parking is easy, according to Matthew C. Sielski, director of the Chicago Motor Club's Safety and Traffic Engineering department. "As in any other driving skill, all it takes is practice—away from traffic."

Here are the basic steps in parking, which Sielski and other driving experts recommend.

1. Signal for a stop.

2. Make certain that the open space is large enough. (You need about five feet more than the overall length of your car.) Drive alongside the car in front of the intended parking spot, with about two feet of space between cars. Stop when the rear bumper of your car is beside the rear bumper of the adjacent car.

3. Back very slowly, steering sharply to the right, until your car is at nearly a 45 degree angle with the curb. Your right front door should now be opposite the rear bumper of the adjacent car.

4. Straighten the front wheels. Continue backing into the parking spot until the right end of your front bumper is opposite the left end of the rear bumper of the second car.

5. Then turn the steering wheel rapidly to the left as far as it will go while backing slowly into the parking space. The rear wheel should now be close to the curb, but should not touch it.

6. Go slowly forward, turning the steering wheel to the right to bring the car parallel to the curb. Stop the car after centering it at about an equal distance from cars ahead and behind.

Finally, for your safety, get out of the car on the curb side—and don't forget to lock the doors.

U. S. Savings Bonds Have Different Look

Don't be surprised if that United States Savings Bond you buy from now on looks and feels a little different — it's just gone streamline.

In keeping with the electronic brain and other advancements of the modern era, the new Series E bond is going to have more "punch." In fact, it's full of punches — 13 of them. But don't let these worry you. They're just another sign of progress in this day of mechanization. And, incidentally, will save you 200,000 tax dollars a year in reduced printing costs.

The Treasury says the only other Savings bond now offered, the current income H bond, will continue to be printed on paper stock in the old size.

The punch card bond is smaller than its predecessor, and will be handier to carry in a man's coat pocket or a lady's handbag. (It might even prevent some of those washing machine tragedies, caused when the fellows had to fold the old bond, then forgot to remove it from a shirt pocket.)

The new size will also make it easier to stow away bonds in your strong box or bank safety deposit box. The actual size of the new E bond is 7⅜ by 3¼ inches. The old bond is 7⅞ by 4¼ inches.

For any who might be curious about the 13 punches, the Treasury offers this explanation. The first punch denotes the size of the bond. For example, a $100 bond would have a punch down in the fourth position. The next 10 columns, or punches, represent the serial number, and the twelfth indicates it is a Series E bond. The thirteenth column is reserved for special accounting operations by the Treasury when the bond is cashed.

Other than the smaller size, the punches, and the flexible cardboard stock on which it is printed, the new bond looks very much like the old one. It contains about the same wording and illustrations.

One exception is the wording, "eight years and eleven months from the issue date x x x." This change in maturity from "nine years and eight months" reflects the increase in the interest rate from 3 to 3¼ per cent, effective on bonds bought since February 1, 1957. The new table of redemption values also appears on the back. The other exception: most of the punch card bonds carry the signature of the new Secretary of the Treasury, Robert B. Anderson, who succeeded George M. Humphrey on July 29.

So don't worry when your next Savings Bond is "shot full of holes." The Treasury wants to assure you it's the same "safe and sound" Series E bond you've been buying since 1941 — to the tune of nearly one hundred billion dollars worth.

Prowlers Edge Lakers 7-6 in Homecoming Tilt

Fullback Jimmy Bennes' plunge over left tackle and over the north goal-line, following Lynn Nicholson's touchdown in the second period, provided the Prowlers with the point that gave coach Joe Mrkonich's club a 7 to 6 win over the Detroit Lakes Lakers in a Homecoming tilt played here Friday night.

According to the season's records, the Prowlers should engage in a "breather" on Friday night when, (the kickoff time at 8:00 P. M.) they meet the Warroad Warriors at Warroad in an inter-district game. Following that game the locals will make ready for the season's wind-up games against the Bemidji Lumberjacks on Friday night, Oct. 18th, and the Crookston Pirates on Friday night, Oct. 25th.

Friday night's Homecoming tilt was an evenly-played contest, the outcome being determined by a conversion point.

The Prowlers, defending the north goal, accepted the game-opening kick-off, with Dave Hanson making a 13-yard return to the Prowler 41-yard line. After picking up a first down, the locals were forced to yield possession when the Lakers held on the Detroit Lakes' 30-yard line. Halfback Rollie Mann sped around left end to the Prowlers' 35-yard line. With Mann and fullback Carl Grossman lugging the ball, the Lakers drove for a couple of first downs, and, with the ball on the one-yard line, Grossman plowed over left guard for the touchdown. On the try for the point, it appeared the Lakers were confused on their signals, the quarterback Mike Parker was halted at the line of scrimmage.

On the last play from scrimmage in the first period, with the Lakers in possession of the ball on their 17-yard line, Prowler tackle Larry Gausen recovered a Laker fumble. Lynn Nicholson [illegible] through left tackle and [illegible] 16 yards for the touchdown, crossing the north goal-line standing up. Bennes then added the point, giving the Prowlers a 7 to 6 lead.

The Prowlers threatened to increase that lead late in the second period when Ken Sauve recovered a Detroit Lakes fumble on the Lakers' 8-yard line. Dave Rasmussen, on a smash over left guard, fumbled and the Lakers recovered to halt the threat.

In the second half of play neither team was able to sustain an attack. The Prowlers did, in the third period, drive to the Lakers' 19-yard line, but a pass interception halted that march. And the Lakers, in the early minutes of the fourth period, came down to the Prowlers' 31-yard line, where the locals held for downs.

While the Prowlers offense didn't operate with its usual effectiveness and crispness, the local defense proved to be alert in recovering Laker fumbles. And it was through the recovery of a fumble that the Prowlers were able to present a victory to their Homecoming Queen, Miss Shirley Kulseth.

The WORLD OUTDOORS

THIS is the season of the year when the world outdoors becomes a world of gorgeous color. The early frost touches the trees and in the wondrous ways of nature the long-green leaves turn brown and red and gold. Soon the evergreens will stand out on the hillsides like lonely sentinels in a naked forest.

For the most part, we are all so occupied with our individual and separate lives that we have no time to observe the wonders that go on in the world about us. The seasons change and we automatically change our clothing, put up or take down storm doors and summer screens. We witness the magic miracle of birth and accept it as a casual thing and we have not the time to sit idly beneath a spreading oak; or marvel at the glorious colors of the sunset.

But we are not as busy as we like to pretend. Should we find the motivation, we could well divert some of our ill-used time for a solitary walk down a shady lane or a thoughtful pause on the banks of a rippling stream. We could find here the simple pleasures that come with a small share in the wonders of nature. We would soon learn that the forest which becomes so still and quiet with our noisy approach comes to life again when we sit quietly to ponder the things that surrounds us. A bright red cardinal flits restlessly among the trees. A ground squirrel chatters incessantly and a pair of playful rabbits chase along the forest trail.

If we but had time we could watch a robin build her nest. We could observe the tender fawn as it stood on wobbly legs and sought to venture forth into the world or find ourselves amazed at the endless industry of an army of ants.

Four Men May Seek Post in Congress

Republican Prospects Attend Bemidji Meeting

Four prospective candidates for the Republican nomination for Ninth district congressman in 1958 met Tuesday, October 1, with Rep. Simpson (R., Pa.), chairman of the House Republican national campaign committee, at Bemidji.

Candidates who met privately with Simpson and his staff members were W. Earl Williams, Fergus Falls, municipal judge and Ninth district GOP chairman; State Rep. Odin Langen, Kennedy; State Sen. Magnus Wefald, Hawley, and Gaylord Saetre, Moorhead, attorney and Clay county GOP chairman.

Some 150 delegates from all Ninth District counties met later at dinner in the Markham hotel. Simpson led a panel discussion which centered around the need for a Republican Congress and a Republican congressman from the Ninth district. He pointed out that the present administration had its hand tied in many respects because policy making officials in all of the departments were frozen in their positions by legislation that was passed during the Truman administration.

These men had never passed a civil service examination but cannot be removed from office no matter how efficient and even though in a great many instances they do everything they can to actually sabotage the policies of the administration.

Williams reported three other possible aspirants were unable to attend yesterday's sessions. They are Mrs. Harold Hagen, Crookston, widow of the late former congressman, Harold Hagen, who was the Republican nominee in 1956; Dr. Leslie Dale, Red Lake Falls, and State Rep. Ernest Windmiller, Fergus Falls.

M. L. Schiechter at Conference in Sioux Falls, S. D.

Col. M. L. Schiechter, U. S. Army Reserve, attended a national resources conference at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, conducted by the Industrial College of the Armed Forces from September 23 through October 4.

Basic theme of the conference was to present a condensed version of the ten month course given at the Industrial College in Washington, D.C. to selected reserve officers of the Army, Navy and Air Force, officers of the National Guard, and selected executives of industry and labor, and representatives of other groups.

It is a broad presentation which highlights the inter-related civilian-military economic problems inherent in mobilizing our resources for National Security.

By using the radioactive "tracer" technique, Caldwell found out a few years ago that alfalfa plants vary in their uptake of phosphorus, depending on the chemical source of that nutrient. He made this test by spreading tagged phosphorus on alfalfa at different rates. He varied the compounds used on different plants and made applications at different times. Then he checked the phosphorus uptake in plants with a Geiger counter.

Local People Own Unusual Pets

Raccoons Enliven Two Households in TRF

If you should ever go across Long's bridge north of the city and see a raccoon scampering about playing with dogs in the neighborhood, don't think anything of it—that is a common sight in that neighborhood where the Hilary Stoltmans live.

Their pet coon, Whiskers, often plays with dogs there and is really quite tame—in fact, Hilary says, "Whiskers enjoys his romps with the dogs and if they should get to playing too rough for him or gang up on him Whiskers merely streaks up a tree", where he views his pursuers with proper raccoon disdain.

You may also see much the same thing at the Sherman Johnson place at 301 S. Oak. Their coon, Nancy, is a sister to the Stoltman's Whiskers. As a matter of fact the two coons come from a family of four that Hilary found last spring. Hilary's father, Walter Stoltman, has another of the family at Oslo and the fourth was killed by a car this summer.

Hilary said he found the four young coons in a tree along the Thief River a few miles north of Ditch 18, May 20, when they were only about seven inches long, including their tail.

When they were first brought home they were fed by eye-dropper, then, when large enough, by baby bottle. Now they are about five months old and find much of their own food along the river by the Stoltman residence. Their diet consists of fish—provided by Stoltman—frogs, grasshoppers and the like.

Their piece de resistance, however, is marshmallows and that's what the Johnson and Stoltmans were feeding them when the Times photographer took their pictures. Despite their being brother and sister, Nancy would become quite perturbed if Whiskers came near while she was having her treat.

Generally speaking the two are quite gentle, their owners say, although Nancy at times is a little grouchy. Even though they snarl and spit at their owners occasionally they don't bite often and even then they do so more in a playful manner than from anger.

Nancy's favorite pastime is having her tummy rubbed while she lies in someone's lap and the look of contentment on her face while this is in progress is almost ludicrous.

The Stoltmans don't expect the coons to be much of a problem this winter as they will hibernate, probably in the Stoltman garage. They expect the animals to be a little surly when they come out again in the spring, but doubt if they'll be any trouble.

Asked how they liked having wild animal pets around the house Mrs. Stoltman and Johnson thought about the question a moment and said, "Weeelll . . . it's ok." and then looking at their husbands, they said, "But don't you guys get any ideas about bringing a bunch of skunks home next spring!"

Thundershowers Visit Area Sunday

.71 Inch of Rainfall Here, First in 2 Weeks

Crackling thundershowers put an end to the Indian summer weather Sunday in northwest Minnesota and by Monday morning the weather had settled down to a damp drizzle and fog.

The weather wasn't good for duck hunters on opening day and early Sunday but Monday morning was ideal—but the hunters had to work for the most part.

Records of KTRF show .71 inch of rainfall occurred in the Sunday showers and up to Monday morning. It was the first rain in over two weeks.

Temperature since Thursday ranked from a high of 72 that day to low of 44 Friday. The weather system that moved into the area Sunday brought cooler temperatures, with a high of 59 and low of 49, Sunday. This morning's low was 51, according to North Central Airlines office here.

The KTRF forecast: cloudy, cooler with scattered showers and thundershowers today. Highs will be 53-60 and lows 42-48.

The Times strives to be the show-window of this community.

Not Worth the Excitement

In the first place, Saturday afternoon's weather, which was balmy, wasn't duck hunters weather; and in the second place, there were, apparently, a number of inexperienced hunters afield, taking sky-busting shots at the ducks. Add those two factors together, and the result is that the 1957 duck season-opener was poor to fair, with the emphasis on poor.

We made a tour of the field hunting area around ditch 18, ditch 200, and the territory northeast of Steiner, and the reports we received in every instance as poor. There were plenty of ducks in evidence, but they were mostly high flyers, and were very wary about decoying.

Much of this out-of-range shooting must be charged to lack of experience by the hunters. With the scarcity of birds, and the short seasons, the young hunter just starting his career as a game-bird hunter, doesn't get much of an opportunity of becoming acquainted with his gun, and its limited shooting range. There are, perhaps, a few ornery critters who take out-of-range shots for the purpose of spoiling the shooting for other hunters, but we hope and believe they are in the minority.

Another factor that added to the difficulties of the "field hunters" was that the heavy rains of the past several weeks had caused many fields to be flooded, and consequently the ducks were dispersed over a wide area. It was tough going.

We met up with game warden Carl Sundstrom on Sunday, and he stated that he had checked very few limit bags on Saturday. He did compliment the hunters, though, on observing the noon-hour shooting time, saying that the first shot was fired along ditch 18 was at six minutes after twelve.

While the duck hunters didn't have much to be excited about, the goose hunters, and we're speaking about Walt and Bob Larson and Claude Johnson, had a "bingo" shoot on Saturday. The trio of hunters knocked down five geese, found four. The reports we have at hand is that these geese, in spite of Walt's claim that they were "honkers," is that they were lesser Canadas or Hutchins geese. Well, anyway they were geese; and they are worth bragging about.

Memory Lane

Making his first visit to the city in a number of years was Jordan Penney, the elder son of the late Dr. G. A. Penney. Jordan was lured up here by the reports of the heavy concentration of mallard ducks hereabouts.

Long time high school athletic fans will remember Jordan as being the captain of the 1918-19 Prowler basketball team. He left the club before the season ended, enlisting in the army, and and Denny McGinn replaced him as captain of the team. Jordan continued his high school career following his return from the service, graduating in 1921.

Team-mates of Jordan on that team, and which, by the way, was coached by George McConnell, were Rube Hadrath, Roy Flattum, Clyde Nason, George Mostue, Gordon LaBree, Leland Schuster, and Fat Johnson. They had just a so-so record, winning seven and losing four. It will be recalled, though, that this was the season of the flu epidemic, and the Prowler football team that season played but one game, that being lost to Bemidji by a 33 to 0 score.

Jordan gained a measure of fame last year when his daughter, Judy, was named queen of the Minneapolis Aquatennial.

Not Very Sharp

While the Prowler athletic records will record that the locals defeated Detroit Lakes, 7 to 6, on Friday, the facts are that coach Joe Mrkonich's club, on their play in the game, were deserving of a tie.

Not since the East Grand Forks game of a couple of weeks ago have the Prowlers appeared so sharp and crisp in their play. The locals had their troubles with the Roseau Rams a week ago, and on Friday night, taking advantage of a recovered fumble, the Prowlers edged out the Lakers.

The "honeymoon" for the football Prowlers will end on Friday night following the tilt with Warroad, for on Oct. 18th they meet the Bemidji Lumberjacks, and on Oct. 18th they meet the Crookston Central Pirates. Those two teams are filled with "facts of football life."

The Prowlers are the defending region, district, and Northwest conference football champions; and these titles will be "on the line" during the next three weeks.

Gets Mention

Named on WCCO's third weekly All-State Team of the Week for the 1957 Minnesota high school football season was Dave Hanson, the Prowlers rangy end. Dave, though, was selected as right tackle, and that may have come about because of this strong defensive play against the East Grand Forks Little Green Wave a couple of weeks ago. With his ranginess, and he possesses surprising speed, too, Dave can be a top-flight defensive player.

Minnesota Story to Be Told to the Nation

The "Minnesota story" will be told to the nation in a series of advertisements sponsored by the state, its communities and industries to be run in the Wall Street Journal during the next six months.

Otto A. Silha, chairman of Governor Orville Freeman's advisory business development committee, said more than $60,000 of a $100,000 fund to pay for the advertising campaign already has been raised.

Contributions already have come in from 30 Minnesota communities and 14 major businesses and industries.

Silha, a Minneapolis newspaper executive, gave these reasons why he believes Minnesota will continue to move aggressively ahead in its compaign for new industry:

1. The leadership of James Clark, state commissioner of business development, a department established in 1947 by Governor C. Elmer Anderson and now strongly backed by Governor Freeman.

The Governor is planning to participate in an international trade tour to Japan and the Far East in November.

2. The work of the Minnesota Bankers association in organizing an Industrial Development Credit corp., as authorized by the last legislature.

3. The Centennial year. The fact 1958 is the anniversary of Minnesota statehood, Silha said, provides a chance not only for celebration but for co-operation in planning for the future.

4. Progress of the St. Lawrence seaway, which will make Duluth a major seaport and put the whole state "on the ocean," for more economical transportation.

5. The good chance that the Twin Cities will have a major league baseball team soon—and the prospects of a winning Minnesota football team, focusing attention on the state.

6. The interest shown by Minnesota communities in business development corporations. Already they have formed more than 100 of these in the state.

7. Widespread publicity given the state by a national public relations firm hired for the purpose.

8. Promotion efforts by individual firms.

Prowlers Edge Lakers 7-6 in Homecoming Tilt

Fullback Jimmy Bennes' plunge over left tackle and over the north goal-line, following Lynn Nicholson's touchdown in the second period, provided the Prowlers with the point that gave coach Joe Mrkonich's club a 7 to 6 win over the Detroit Lakes Lakers in a Homecoming tilt played here Friday night.

According to the season's records, the Prowlers should engage in a "breather" on Friday night when, the kickoff time at 8:00 P. M., they meet the Warroad Warriors at Warroad in an inter-district game. Following that game the locals will make ready for the season's wind-up games, against the Bemidji Lumberjacks on Friday night, Oct. 18th, and the Crookston Pirates on Friday night, Oct. 25th.

Friday night's Homecoming tilt was an evenly played contest, the outcome being determined by a conversion point.

The Prowlers, defending the north goal, accepted the game-opening kick-off, with Dave Hanson making a 13-yard return to the Prowler 41-yard line. After picking up a first down, the locals were forced to yield possession when the Lakers held on the Detroit Lakes' 30-yard line. Halfback Bellie Mann sped around left end to the Prowlers' 36-yard line. With Mann and fullback Carl Grossman lugging the ball, the Lakers drove for a couple of first downs, and, with the ball on the one-yard line, Grossman plowed over left guard for the touchdown. On the try for the point, it appeared the Lakers were confused on their signals, the quarterback Mike Parker was halted at the line of scrimmage.

On the last play from scrimmage in the first period, with the Lakers in possession of the ball on their 17-yard line, Prowler tackle Larry Gausen recovered a Laker fumble. Lynn Nicholson knifed through left tackle and scampered 14 yards for the touchdown, crossing the north goal-line standing up. Bennes then added the point, giving the Prowlers a 7 to 6 lead.

The Prowlers threatened to increase that lead late in the second period when Ken Sauve recovered a Detroit Lakes fumble on the Lakers' 8-yard line. Dave Rasmussen, on a smash over left guard, fumbled and the Lakers recovered to halt the threat.

In the second half of play, neither team was able to sustain an attack. The Prowlers did, in the third period, drive to the Lakers' 19-yard line, but a pass interception halted that march. And the Lakers, in the early minutes of the fourth period, came down to the Prowlers' 31-yard line, where the locals held for downs.

While the Prowlers offense didn't operate with its usual effectiveness and crispness, the local defense proved to be alert in recovering Laker fumbles. And it was through the recovery of a fumble that the Prowlers were able to present a victory to their Homecoming Queen, Miss Shirley Kulseth.

The

THIS is the season of the year when the world outdoors becomes a world of gorgeous color. The early frost touches the trees and in the wondrous ways of nature the long-green leaves turn brown and red and gold. Soon the evergreens will stand out on the hillsides like lonely sentinels in a naked forest.

For the most part, we are all so occupied with our individual and separate lives that we have no time to observe the wonders that go on in the world about us. The seasons change and we automatically change our clothing, put up or take down storm doors and summer screens. We witness the magic miracle of birth and accept it as a casual thing and we have not the time to sit idly beneath a spreading oak; or marvel at the glorious colors of the sunset.

But we are not as busy as we like to pretend. Should we find the motivation, we could well divert some of our ill-used time for a solitary walk down a shady lane or a thoughtful pause on the banks of a rippling stream. We could find here the simple pleasures that come with a small share in the wonders of nature. We would soon learn that the forest which becomes so still and quiet with our noisy approach comes to life again when we sit quietly to ponder the things that surrounds us. A bright red cardinal sits restlessly among the trees. A ground squirrel chatters incessantly and a pair of playful rabbits chase along the forest trail.

If we but had time we could watch a robin build her nest. We could observe the tender fawn as it stood on wobbly legs and sought to venture forth into the world or find ourselves amazed at the endless industry of an army of ants.

Four Men May Seek Post in Congress

Republican Prospects Attend Bemidji Meeting

Four prospective candidates for the Republican nomination for Ninth district congressman in 1958 met Tuesday, October 1, with Rep. Simpson (R., Pa.), chairman of the House Republican national campaign committee, at Bemidji.

Candidates who met privately with Simpson and his staff members were W. Earl Williams, Fergus Falls, municipal judge and Ninth district GOP chairman; State Rep. Odin Langen, Kennedy; State Sen. Magnus Wefald, Hawley, and Gaylord Saetre, Moorhead, attorney and Clay county GOP chairman.

Some 150 delegates from all Ninth District counties met later at dinner in the Markham hotel. Simpson led a panel discussion which centered around the need for a Republican Congress and a Republican congressman from the Ninth district. He pointed out that the present administration had its hand tied in many respects because policy making officials in all of the departments were frozen in their positions by legislation that was passed during the Truman administration.

These men had never passed a civil service examination but cannot be removed from office no matter how efficient and even though in a great many instances they do everything they can to actually sabotage the policies of the administration.

Williams reported three other possible aspirants were unable to attend yesterday's sessions. They are Mrs. Harold Hagen, Crookston, widow of the late former congressman, Harold Hagen, who was the Republican nominee in 1956; Dr. Leslie Dale, Red Lake Falls, and State Rep. Ernest Windmiller, Fergus Falls.

M. L. Schlechter at Conference in Sioux Falls, S. D.

Col. M. L. Schlechter, U. S. Army Reserve, attended a national resources conference at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, conducted by the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, from September 23 through October 4.

Basic theme of the conference was to present a condensed version of the ten month course given at the Industrial College in Washington, D.C. to selected reserve officers of the Army, Navy and Air Force, officers of the National Guard, and selected executives of industry and labor, and representatives of other groups.

It is a broad presentation which highlights the inter-related civilian-military economic problems inherent in mobilizing our resources for National Security.

By using the radioactive "tracer" technique, Caldwell found out a few years ago that alfalfa plants vary in their uptake of phosphorus, depending on the chemical source of that nutrient. He made this test by spreading tagged phosphorus on alfalfa at different rates. He varied the compounds used on different plants and make applications at different times. Then he checked the phosphorus uptake in plants with a Geiger counter.

Raccoons Enliven Two Households in TRF

If you should ever go across Long's bridge north of the city and see a raccoon scampering about playing with dogs in the neighborhood, don't think anything of it—that is a common sight in that neighborhood where the Hilary Stoltmans live.

Their pet coon, Whiskers, often plays with dogs there and is really quite tame—in fact, Hilary says, "Whiskers enjoys his romps with the dogs and if they should get to playing too rough for him or gang up on him Whiskers merely streaks up a tree", where he views his pursuers with proper raccoon disdain.

You may also see much the same thing at the Sherman Johnson place at 301 S. Oak. Their coon, Nancy, is a sister to the Stoltman's Whiskers. As a matter of fact the two coons come from a family of four that Hilary found last spring. Hilary's father, Walter Stoltman, has another of the family at Oslo and the fourth was killed by a car this summer.

Hilary said he found the four young coons in a tree along the Thief River a few miles north of Ditch 18, May 20, when they were only about seven inches long, including their tail.

When they were first brought home they were fed by eye-dropper, then, when large enough, by baby bottle. Now they are about five months old and find much of their own food along the river by the Stoltman residence. Their diet consists of fish—provided by Stoltman—frogs, grasshoppers and the like.

Their piece de resistance, however, is marshmallows and that's what the Johnson and Stoltmans were feeding them when the Times photographer took their pictures. Despite their being brother and sister, Nancy would become quite perturbed if Whiskers came near while she was having her treat.

Generally speaking the two are quite gentle, their owners say, although Nancy at times is a little grouchy. Even though they snarl and spit at their owners occasionally they don't bite often and even then they do so more in a playful manner than from anger.

Nancy's favorite pastime is having her tummy rubbed while she lies in someone's lap and the look of contentment on her face while this is in progress is almost ludicrous.

The Stoltmans don't expect the coons to be much of a problem this winter as they will hibernate, probably in the Stoltman garage. They expect the animals to be a little surly when they come out again in the spring, but doubt if they'll be any trouble.

Asked how they liked having wild animal pets around the house Mrs. Stoltman and Johnson thought about the question a moment and said, "Weeelll . . . it's ok." and then looking at their husbands, they said, "But don't you guys get any ideas about bringing a bunch of skunks home next spring!"

Thundershowers Visit Area Sunday

.71 Inch of Rainfall Here, First in 2 Weeks

Crackling thundershowers put an end to the Indian summer weather Sunday in northwest Minnesota and by Monday morning the weather had settled down to a damp drizzle and fog.

The weather wasn't good for duck hunters on opening day and early Sunday but Monday morning was ideal—but the hunters had to work for the most part.

Records of KTRF show .71 inch of rainfall occurred in the Sunday showers and up to Monday morning. It was the first rain in over two weeks.

Temperatures since Thursday ranked from a high of 72 that day to low of 44 Friday. The weather system that moved into the area Sunday brought cooler temperatures, with a high of 59 and low of 49 Sunday. This morning's low was 51, according to North Central Airlines office here.

The KTRF forecast: cloudy, cooler with scattered showers and thundershowers today. Highs will be 55-60 and lows 42-48.

The Times strives to be the show-window of this community.

Not Worth the Excitement

In the first place, Saturday afternoon's weather, which was balmy, wasn't duck hunters weather; and in the second place, there were, apparently, a number of inexperienced hunters afield, taking sky-busting shots at the ducks. Add those two factors together, and the result is that the 1957 duck season-opener was poor to fair, with the emphasis on poor.

We made a tour of the field hunting area around ditch 18, ditch 200, and the territory northeast of Steiner, and the reports we received in every instance as poor. There were plenty of ducks in evidence, but they were mostly high flyers, and were very wary about decoying.

Much of this out-of-range shooting must be charged to lack of experience by the hunters. With the scarcity of birds, and the short seasons, the young hunter just starting his career as a game-bird hunter, doesn't get much of an opportunity of becoming acquainted with his gun, and its limited shooting range. There are, perhaps, a few ornery critters who take out-of-range shots for the purpose of spoiling the shooting for other hunters, but we hope and believe they are in the minority.

Another factor that added to the difficulties of the "field hunters" was that the heavy rains of the past several weeks had caused many fields to be flooded, and consequently the ducks were dispersed over a wide area. It was tough going.

We met up with game warden Carl Sundstrom on Sunday, and he stated that he had checked very few limit bags on Saturday. He did compliment the hunters, though, on observing the noon-hour shooting time, saying that the first shot was fired along ditch 18 was at six minutes after twelve.

While the duck hunters didn't have much to be excited about, the goose hunters, and we're speaking about Walt and Bob Larson and Claude Johnson, had a "bingo" shoot on Saturday. The trio of hunters knocked down five geese, found four. The reports we have at hand is that these geese, in spite of Walt's claim that they were "honkers," is that they were lesser Canadas or Hutchins geese. Well, anyway they were geese; and they are worth bragging about.

Memory Lane

Making his first visit to the city in a number of years was Jordan Penney, the elder son of the late Dr. G. A. Penney. Jordan was lured up here by the reports of the heavy concentration of mallard ducks hereabouts.

Long time high school athletic fans will remember Jordan as being the captain of the 1918-19 Prowler basketball team. He left the club before the season ended, enlisting in the army, and and Denny McGinn replaced him as captain of the team. Jordan continued his high school career following his return from the service, graduating in 1921.

Team-mates of Jordan on that team, and which, by the way, was coached by George McConnell, were Rube Hadrath, Roy Flattum, Clyde Nason, George Mostue, Gordon LaBree, Leland Schuster, and Fat Johnson. They had just a so-so record, winning seven and losing four. It will be recalled, though, that this was the season of the flu epidemic, and the Prowler football team that season played but one game, that being lost to Bemidji by a 33 to 0 score.

Jordan gained a measure of fame last year when his daughter, Judy, was named queen of the Minneapolis Aquatennial.

Not Very Sharp

While the Prowler athletic records will record that the locals defeated Detroit Lakes, 7 to 6, on Friday, the facts are that coach Joe Mrkonich's club, on their play in the game, were deserving of a tie.

Not since the East Grand Forks game of a couple of weeks ago have the Prowlers appeared so sharp and crisp in their play. The locals had their troubles with the Roseau Rams a week ago, and on Friday night, taking advantage of a recovered fumble, the Prowlers edged out the Lakers.

The "honeymoon" for the football Prowlers will end on Friday night following the tilt with Warroad, for on Oct. 18th they meet the Bemidji Lumberjacks, and on Oct. 18th they meet the Crookston Central Pirates. Those two teams are filled with "facts of football life."

The Prowlers are the defending region, district, and Northwest conference football champions; and these titles will be "on the line" during the next three weeks.

Gets Mention

Named on WCCO's third weekly All-State Team of the Week for the 1957 Minnesota high school football season was Dave Hanson, the Prowlers rangy end. Dave, though, was selected as right tackle, and that may have come about because of this strong defensive play against the East Grand Forks Little Green Wave a couple of weeks ago. With his ranginess, and he possesses surprising speed, too, Dave can be a top-flight defensive player.

Minnesota Story to Be Told to the Nation

The "Minnesota story" will be told to the nation in a series of advertisements sponsored by the state, its communities and industries to be run in the Wall Street Journal during the next six months.

Otto A. Silha, chairman of Governor Orville Freeman's advisory business development committee, said more than $60,000 of a $100,000 fund to pay for the advertising campaign already has been raised.

Contributions already have come in from 30 Minnesota communities and 14 major businesses and industries.

Silha, a Minneapolis newspaper executive, gave these reasons why he believes Minnesota will continue to move aggressively ahead in its compaign for new industry:

1. The leadership of James Clark, state commissioner of business development, a department established in 1947 by Governor C. Elmer Anderson and now strongly backed by Governor Freeman.

The Governor is planning to participate in an international trade tour to Japan and the Far East in November.

2. The work of the Minnesota Bankers association in organizing an Industrial Development Credit corp., as authorized by the last legislature.

3. The Centennial year. The fact 1958 is the anniversary of Minnesota statehood, Silha said, provides a chance not only for celebration but for co-operation in planning for the future.

4. Progress of the St. Lawrence seaway, which will make Duluth a major seaport and put the whole state "on the ocean," for more economical transportation.

5. The good chance that the Twin Cities will have a major league baseball team soon—and the prospects of a winning Minnesota football team, focusing attention on the state.

6. The interest shown by Minnesota communities in business development corporations. Already they have formed more than 100 of these in the state.

7. Widespread publicity given the state by a national public relations firm hired for the purpose.

8. Promotion efforts by individual firms.

Editorials . . .

"If time of all things be most precious, wasting time must be the greatest prodigality, since lost time is never found again; and what we call time enough always proves little enough. Let us then be up and doing, and doing to a purpose; so by diligence shall we do more with less perplexity."

—Franklin

A Russian "First"

By successfully launching a space ship the Russians seem to have stolen a march on us in the field of cold war propaganda. They have now proven that they too have scientists who must be recognized as tops in their class.

Perhaps it is well that we are being thus rudely shocked into recognition of an unpleasant fact. We have grown complacent in our self-assurance of our own superiority. Learning now that we must bestir ourselves if we are to maintain our position of leadership is a bitter pill to swallow, but probably it is the kind of medicine we need more of.

Russia's rise to a position of leadership in scientific research is not accidental. The need for large numbers of scientifically trained men, and their value as agents of the government in backward countries, has been recognized. Their education system has been geared for volume production of doctors and engineers.

Maybe that Russian sphere passing constantly over us will serve the good purpose of keeping us reminded that we are not permanantly established as a nation of super-men. A re-examination of our system of education might also be in order. In Russia the schools of higher education are workshops, operating long hours a day, six days a week and ten months a year. The play programs are organized as recreation for factory workers.

Our Responsibility

Property damage by fires can be measured in terms of dollars. Property damage from this cause will cost us a billion dollars in 1957. A large portion of this loss is due to carelessness—our carelessness.

The insurance we carry does not reduce this loss or its cost. Insurance merely distributes the burden. Whether or not it is our own property that is destroyed by fire, we share in the loss through the insurance premiums that we pay.

Each fire is a direct loss for us, in terms of dollars.

But the most serious result of fire is the human tragedy of death and injury. Last year fires killed 5,400 people in our country, and hundreds of thousands were injured. These are the losses that cannot be measured in terms of dollars. These are costs that can be distributed only partially in the form of insurance premiums.

Fire prevention is a problem in which each of us has an interest—and a responsibility.

Off To A Good Start

Night study courses at the Area Vocational school are getting off to a good start this week. The enrollment of more than 250 adult students exceeds earlier expectations and assures a well balanced program.

All of the night school courses are supported in part by tuition payments. And all of the so-called hobby courses will be paid in full by the contributions of those who attend. No tax dollars, collected at the state, federal or local level, are being used to provide instruction on how to hit a golf ball.

The hobby courses serve a useful purpose and, on a self-supporting basis, should be encouraged. But most of those who have enrolled in the night classes are seeking to improve themselves in the field of gainful operation and employment, and it is in this field that the school must justify itself. The large enrollment in classes offering training of an occupational value proves the need for the courses in practical education that now are being offered.

Keep Politics Out of This

(A. J. Suel in New Prague Times)

"Integration Crisis Boosts GOP Hopes" reads a headline in a Minneapolis Sunday newspaper over a by-lined article from its Washington Bureau.

If the passions and prejudices of today's hotblood can be resolved peacefully and amicably with fairness, justice, equality and tolerance for all of our citizenry regardless of the color of their skin, the country of their ancestry or their religious faith, what difference whether the Democrats or the Republicans may be helped politically?

These are flesh and blood human beings with bodies and souls who are involved in this far-reaching social adjustment, not pawns on a board or graphs on a chart.

If this grave problem is to be approached primarily from the standpoint of blind partisan advantage, we shall all rue the day.

In this critical hour of destiny, let us arise above petty politics to serve the welfare of our nation and her people.

Age Has Its Uses

(Port Arthur News Chronicle)

Pension schemes can make it permissive that a worker can retire at, say age 65, but to speak of this as being universally desirable is to ignore the different human natures we possess and to throw into the dust heap the skills acquired after years of experience.

Age is not always destructive. It develops patience and concentration on the work at hand. Age is not subject to the distractions of youth.

As we have said, pension schemes require a basic age limit but a grave error is committed when this is converted into a compulsory retirement.

Recognize Chemical Hazard

(Hoard's Dairyman)

Reports keep coming in to us of farmers who have been killed or injured through careless handling of agricultural chemicals.

Chemicals of all types are common on most farms today. As we become familiar with them, we are apt to take them for granted. We drop our guard and, without knowing it, begin to take more and more chances. This is the danger period.

Remember that most chemicals are designed to kill. They may or may not be selective in what or whom they destroy.

In use and in storage, these products should command our lasting respect. Chances should never be taken. Use them properly, according to the instructions of the manufacturer. Store them for maximum security.

If you do not follow strict safety precautions you not only endanger your own life but, through negligence, endanger the lives of others.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times

I agree with Mrs. Koglin, that through the "Public Opinion" column in the "Times" is one of the best ways to express the opinion of the citizens involved, to the public. But I certainly dislike the method Goodridge administrators have been using to press this issue through various channels.

I wish to say that Dist. 46 and 15 have been transporting their elementary pupil to Goodridge for fourteen years, not almost twenty as stated. Dist 76 has been, and is operating their own school. About one half of the high school pupils of this area have attended Goodridge during the last twenty years. The balance have attended other schools to meet their educational wishes because of the inability to secure it in Goodridge. That also holds true with a great many high school pupils of the Goodridge and Grygla school areas.

I also wish to point out, in the event the Thief River school bus serves our area. They will not have to go through the Goodridge district, if so it would be only one mile as to gain access to the black top, Highway No. 1. Furthermore the bus will not run any closer to Goodridge school than five and one half miles by air and seven miles by a sparsely settled gravel road.

We know that Goodridge will never be in any position to offer what a larger system such as Thief River Falls is now offering and will be able to offer in the future.

Is it not every citizens right to choose what he thinks is best for himself and his immediate community? If so, we therefore have to acknowledge the interests of a small group with regard to the law or otherwise, as well as a large group. If not, are we not losing our individual rights as citizens?

We in Dist. 46 voted in 1948 to join Thief River Falls but under the consolidation laws of that time our wishes could not be carried out. Goodridge knew all these years that, although our children attended their school, these districts as a whole did not wish to ever join Goodridge. We have been consistent on this issue, therefore Goodridge knew the break would come sometime.

There were numerous meetings held at Goodridge in regard to the results of a school building survey made by the Bureau of Field Studies and Surveys in 1953. These three districts were present and expressed their desire to be omitted in regard to any building program at Goodridge.

Prior to the above stated meetings we of these districts expressed our desire of consolidating with Thief River Falls and be considered in their building program.

We are not impressed by the implied threat that if the 3 school districts are consolidated with Thief River Falls district probably other areas in the Goodridge school districts will want to do likewise thus breaking up the set-up in that area.

Our answer to this threat is, in the first place, that we have for years been trying to connect with the Thief River Falls district.

Districts 15, 46 and 76 are independent districts; they belong neither to Goodridge or Thief River Falls but want to join Thief River Falls district. I do not think anybody should allow themselves to be bluffed by the aforesaid threat which is not a threat at all.

So far as the claimed loss of $5,000.00 is concerned, this obviously is not a loss at all because it represents simply gross revenue the Goodridge district would receive, if our three districts were taken over by Goodridge. It is not revenue that the Goodridge district now has nor is it a net loss because out of the revenue from taxation is paid the cost of educating the pupils from the area contributing.

The school area included in both the Goodridge and Thief River Falls district have now been fixed and everything is settled except for these three districts, the two in Pennington and one in Marshall counties that now belong to neither and that are now at the point of decision. Either they join Thief River Falls or they retain their present independent organization.

The unanimous wishes of the people in all three districts is and for years have been to consolidate with the Thief River Falls district. From time immemorial the people of a district has had the right to decide when and with whom to consolidate. Is that right, which is in line with American principles, now to be done away with and the people of these 3 districts forced to join a district that they do not want to join? The question is as simple as that.

We of these three districts feel that now is the time to go ahead and seek the fulfillment of our wishes. Thief River Falls district now has the accomodations. At the present time our elementary and high school pupils are attending Thief River Falls schools in proof of the fact.

The forth coming hearing is called soley to hear the pros and cons of the three districts involved and not the whole Goodridge high school area. Therefore if Goodridge has any desire to transfer their area that is their problem, not ours.

Kenneth Habedank,
Clerk Dist. No. 46

New numbers of these districts are: No. 1551 for 46; No. 1547 for 15; No. 1042 for 76.

Twin conveyors can load 3,550 tons of taconite pellets an hour at new Silver Bay plant.

Paying off Silver Bay's

$190,000,000 Investment

Minnesota's "newest" iron ore is now flowing in a steady stream from the world's first large-scale commercial taconite plant at Silver Bay.

In full operation since April, 1956, Silver Bay is now producing at the rate of 5,000,000 tons a year. Even so, it will take many years to pay back the $190,000,000 that far-sighted investors put up to build it.

Many experts call taconite "Minnesota's iron ore hope for the future." But Silver Bay is a concrete example of how "hope" must be backed up by cash to make a future come true.

If Minnesota is to maintain its place as a major iron ore producer, many millions of dollars must still be invested for more research and more new plants. You and your family and all the people of Minnesota have a very real stake in iron ore.

RESEARCH AND INVESTMENT CAN KEEP MINNESOTA'S IRON ORE FUTURE BRIGHT!

Storage Of Tender Bulbs

Harvest your gladiolus as soon as the tops have been killed with frost. Lift the corms (often called bulbs) carefully. Then cut the tops off about one inch above the corms. Place name varieties in individual labeled containers. Labeling is important to identify the variety. Paper sacks may be used for storing the bulbs.

For the first few weeks after harvest, keep the corms in a warm, well ventilated room. Do not place them in the hot sun because the heat may injure the corms. As soon as the corms have been cured, clean them and put them in a cool storage room. The cleaning operation consists of removing the old basal corm and any loose husk. The bulblets from choice varieties may be kept for future use.

Before placing the corms in storage, dust them with a 5% DDT dust to control the thrips. Be sure to discard diseased corms—corms which show any signs of either soft rot or dry rot. You can easily detect the disease and appear healthy, they may be stored. Store corms in shallow crates or sacks at a temperature between 32 and 40 degrees. Be sure there is good air circulation.

Dig dahlias as soon as the frosts have nipped the tops. Be careful not to injure the roots. Spading is preferable to lifting them from the soil. Wash with a hose to remove all excess dirt. Cut tops off, turn clumps upside down, and place in a cool dry well ventilated place to dry thoroughly. Roots must be mature to store well. A cool, moist room where temperatures are above 40 degrees is ideal for storing dahlias, once they are dry. Packing the roots in sand, wood shavings or vermiculite will reduce shriveling. Plastic bags may also be used for storage of dahlia roots. The roots should be checked several times during the winter season to be sure that no rots or mildews are attacking them.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Fred H. Cook, Murfreesboro, Tenn.: A few weeks past an uncle died at the age of 94. His passing was the last link to the Old Timers or pioneers in our community who were in direct contact with the early wave of migration from North Carolina that came here in the early Eighteenth Century.

He could sit for hours and relate the experiences of his parents crossing the mountains in an ox cart which held all their house furnishings, pots and pans and a few homemade quilts. They drove their cows and hogs ahead of them and the tinkling of the cowbells was all that broke the intense stillness of the forest, except for the broad axe that was used to clear away the forest for a road.

When they arrived here, the few pioneers who had already settled down stopped to help build the cabin—two rooms, one on top of the other; no floor (just dirt); no windows, only a door hung on leather hinges, with a large board placed across the door to bar it at night.

QUACK DOCTOR TROUBLES

By Kathryn Brummond

MARTIN OWENS breathed deeply of the damp, hay-scented, evening air. Hill's Butternut Farm was a lovely place for a young college student to recover from an operation. Even with the so-called-doctor Reynolds frequenting the premises.

Then, to his surprise, he saw Rita Hill hastening toward him through the dusk. "Oh, Mr. Owens," she said in a troubled voice. "I just hate to do this, but I'm going to ask you to leave."

"To leave!"

"I'm so sorry and—and humiliated. I'll return your board money, of course."

"But what in the world—"

"It's mother," Rita said, agitatedly. "She's become prejudiced against you for some incomprehensible reason."

(Mrs. Hill is afraid, Martin said to himself, afraid I'll entice Rita out of this treadmill into a home of her own.) Aloud he said, "How long has your mother been ailing, Rita?"

"Always. But she became worse back when I was in high-school."

(About when you began to go with boys.)

"Then I started college but I had to quit and come home because she needed me here. That's why I began taking summer boarders. I could be at home and earn money besides."

"But you'll marry and leave some time."

"Not while she needs me. She won't live long. I'm afraid."

(Oh yes she will. That kind always does.)

A new thought burst upon Martin Owens—one which had not occurred to him before. This man Reynolds, this pseudo doctor in whom Mrs. Hill put all her trust, perhaps wanted Rita himself. He might have influenced Rita's mother against the young boarder.

"Rita," Martin said, "can't we persuade your mother to see a real doctor? A psychiatrist? There's Dr. Evanston at the U. He's one of the best—has a national reputation, and—"

Rita shook her brown curls hopelessly. "She wouldn't go. She's so—so loyal. And she has such faith in Reynolds."

"Still, I believe we can swing it, together, if you will trust me and do just as I say."

"Oh Dr. Reynolds," she said, "I'd just like you to look over this new diet and see if it wouldn't be excellent for mother."

Placing the paper down on the desk before Reynolds, Rita pulled off her gloves and pointed out headlines on the sheet. She used her left hand to do so and thus Dr. Reynolds could not escape noticing a gorgeous ring which ornamented the third finger. It glittered like a diamond.

After a stunned silence the healer said coldly, "I believe I shall have to consider the matter at length, Rita."

"A very good decision doctor," Martin Owens said approvingly. Then he added distinctly, "Come Rita darling. We've a lot of shopping to do."

Martin did not return to the farm until evening. Then, again, he saw Rita coming through the dusk. But now she was running, curls flying. "Oh Martin, it worked!" she cried. "Reynolds came scooting out here as soon as we had left his office and they had an awful row."

"Now, we'll coax her into the city to see Dr. Evanston. He'll make her want to get well instead of wanting to stay sick."

Suddenly Martin took Rita's hand and looked at the ring. "How much did you pay for this diamond?" he asked. "A dime?"

"I should say not! A whole dollar!"

"Well, Rita, can't we have it for a going-steady ring? Let's be engaged to become engaged just as soon as your mother will let you wear a real diamond."

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Indian Summer in Minnesota is a period of transition from summer activities to those of the fall and winter. It is hard for me to realize how rapidly the past summer has slipped by. Somehow, when we look forward to summer we always feel that we'll have time to do many of the things we dream about in winter. But for the Freeman family, I must admit that we weren't able to find time to do all of the things we had planned to do as a group.

Summertime in Minnesota is a very busy period for a public official. Each year we have celebrations, fairs, and picnics; and the number of these community events has increased with the approach of the Centennial year. The invitations which the Freemans have received have more than doubled. Because so many of these celebrations have been held on Sunday, I have been unable during the past summer to enjoy as many of the family-Sundays that have been traditional for us.

Local Celebrations Import

I have attended as many of these local community events as possible, partly because I like to see the people on such occasions, and partly because I believe that it is important for a governor to take part. It is one way to find out what the people are thinking, what is going on, and to get background information for some of the decisions he must make as chief executive.

I have traveled far and wide this summer, over all parts of the state. As always, it has been a rewarding experience. I want to thank the many hundreds and thousands of people who have extended friendly greetings and made me feel at home, and who haven't hesitated to tell me what they think, and what they would like to see done in our state.

I have answered literally hundreds of questions on highways, conservation, our institutions, the aged, education, and many others,— including the ever-present question of daylight saving time.

The Freeman Schedule

Now that the celebration season is over, we in the Freeman family are going on our winter Sunday schedule. We have always tried to make sure that, especially during the school year, Sunday is set aside as a family day. In our family we look forward to church in the morning and to activities in which we can all participate together for the rest of the day.

Accordingly, from now until spring, when the celebration season starts again, Sunday is going to be family day for the Freemans. If you or some of your friends find that the governor is not available when you kindly invite me to attend a local affair, I hope you will understand. Setting these Sundays aside makes it possible for Mrs. Freeman and me to have the time we want to spend with our children; and gives us an opportunity to get the rest and variety that we believe to be necessary if we are to do our jobs well and serve the people of Minnesota in the fashion they deserve.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the Minnesota Historical Society

19th-CENTURY CO-OP

Co-operative buying associations are not a twentieth century invention. As early as 1868, within two months after its organization, the Minnesota State Grange appointed a purchasing agent, whose duty it was to buy co-operatively supplies and agricultural implements for members of the Grange. Thus began what was to be one of the most important activities of this group.

The Patrons of Husbandry, better known as the National Grange, was an agricultural organization founded in 1867 by Oliver H. Kelley of Elk River. The first Minnesota chapter, the North Star Grange, was organized at St. Paul in August, 1868. By the end of 1868, there were thirty-seven active local granges in the state.

AGRICULTURAL COLUMNIST

Oliver H. Kelley, the Minnesota farmer who founded the National Grange, emigrated to the state in 1849. After spending a short time clerking at a trading post, he opened a farm near Elk River, where he lived and worked for the following fifteen years.

Though little is known of Kelley's life during these years, a record of some of his interests and activities exists in the pages of the "Sauk Rapids Frontierman," a newspaper on which he served as agricultural editor for some years after its founding in 1855. Each week he filled the back page of the paper with editorials, announcements, correspondence from farmers throughout the nation, and articles on such subjects as "Hop Culture," "Winter Care of Lambs," "About Oxen," etc.

That Kelly was a hard-working, practical farmer is apparent from the following paragraph, which appeared in the issue of June 7, 1855: "It can hardly be expected that one who labors upon the farm all day particularly at this busy season of the year, will be capable when night comes to pen a very interesting editorial; and we must necessarily beg the indulgence of our readers for any lack of interest under the agricultural head until spring work is over."

Kelly revealed his early devotion to the cause of agriculture by the many services he offered his farm readers. He furnished a medium through which farmers in various states could exchange seeds in order to improve the strain of certain grain; he procured copies of patent office reports on new farm machinery for his readers; and he encouraged farmers to exchange information by writing to him about their problems and experiences.

In the mid-1860s he went to Washington, D. C., and it was there in 1867 that he became the founder of the National Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry. He retained his residence in Minnesota until 1870 and returned to the state frequently thereafter. He died in 1913.

WILD RICE CULTURE

A letter from an Ohio dentist to Oliver H. Kelley, agricultural editor of the "Sauk Rapids Frontierman," appeared in the issue of that newspaper for February 28, 1856. The dentist said that he had been interested in wild rice since he had seen a description of it in an article Kelly had written for an eastern newspaper. "Do you think it would grow in Southern Ohio or in Mississippi?" he asked. "If you can send me a little with directions as to culture, I will be extremely obliged as I want to experiment with it in these latitudes."

"Little did we think," Kelly commented, "when we wrote for our own amusement a few sketches of Minnesota, three years since, in which we made mention of the Wild Rice, that at this time we would be receiving orders for it from nineteen different states, and receiving good news from quarters where it has been sown." Kelly stated regretfully that he had no wild rice left, but that he would try to secure some.

THE MONTICELLO'S BACHELOR'S CLUB

The large numbers of young men who followed the frontier westward in search of fortunes usually found themselves, when winter came, in a small, isolated town far from feminine society, or occupation for their leisure hours. A group of such men at Monticello, making a virtue of necessity, formed in 1854 a Bachelor's Club, which met irregularly to eat, drink, and make speeches about the joys of the single life.

On New Year's Eve in 1857, thirty-eight bachelors were present at the club's annual dinner, which was held at a local inn, the Jefferson House. Since the editor of the "Monticello Times" was an enthusiastic member of the club and toastmaster for the occasion, the proceedings were chronicled in detail in the January 27, 1858, issue of the paper. The story of the dinner provides an interesting sidelight on frontier social life.

After dinner at a "festive board crowned with profuse and tasteful decorations and loaded with all the delicacies of the season," the bachelors drank twenty formal toasts, written by the toastmaster and replied to by the members. The first toast was to "Our Association — May it never come under the yoke," and the next one was to "The Old Bach — Free from Squalls and bawls — may he continue thus." In reply to the latter he "deemed the Bachelor the happiest man alive, no family cares, no responsibilities; no wife to feed these hard times." When "The wife" was toasted, "No Bachelor was daring enough to respond . . . but all remained as silent as though the dreaded being was in their midst."

In response to a toast to "The Deserters" a long poem was read which set forth the circumstances of the marital downfall of former members. Each toast and reply brought forth fresh bursts of laughter and cheers. "Songs, jokes and stories enlivened the scene, and so attracted the interest of the members," the story concluded, "that the hours passed by unheeded, and it was almost gray dawn when the proceedings closed."

GUIDE TO GOOD DRIVING

Play It Safe -- Prepare Car Now For Freezing Weather

With winter's first chill in the air, it's time to put up storm windows, take clothes out of storage—and get the family car ready for freezing weather. Safety depends on not only how you drive—but on how well your car is prepared for snow, ice, and slush.

Early servicing, or "winterizing", prevents your car from getting caught in a sudden cold snap without anti-freeze. This can save you a badly damaged engine and a stiff repair bill.

Here are a few tips from cooling system experts of the Du Pont Company, manufacturers of "Zerone" and "Zerex" anti-freezes:

1. To be safe, have your car winterized early by your local serviceman. There's no waiting in line. And he'll have time to thoroughly check the cooling system.

2. Before adding anti-freeze, drain and flush the cooling system with a chemical cleaner. This gets rid of accumulated rust-sludge, which can clog the radiator and cause an overheated engine.

3. Check radiator and hose connections for leaks. Replace worn and cracked hoses and fan belts.

4. Have your engine tuned up, and check the battery.

5. Select the type of anti-freeze that best suits your needs. So-called "permanent" type anti-freeze can be used in any car, anywhere, in any climate and altitude. One shot, which lasts all winter, is good for driving in temperatures even lower than 30 degrees below zero. For average winter driving, however, a standard anti-freeze offers safe, sure protection. It costs less than permanent—and you need less of it. And it won't boil away in modern pressurized cooling systems.

6. For safety's sake, ask your serviceman to check the defroster, windshield wipers, and brakes. Replace smooth tires—they're dangerous on icy roads. Or have snow tires put on. If you use chains, get them checked for broken links.

Two final suggestions: when driving on icy roads, don't follow other vehicles too closely. And if you start skidding, don't jam on the brakes—turn the front wheels in the direction of the skid.

TELLTALE PICTURE

By Grace Scott

DANA RALSTON tidily brushed the jacket that Vincent had worn on his weekend trip to Trevittown. Though his territory selling tractors was no longer nor his work harder, he had lately stayed the whole weekend when he went to report to the main office instead of coming home on Saturday as usual. Brushing over the breast pocket she heard a small crackling sound. Unhappily but determined, Dana fished in the pocket with chilled fingers. A picture of a young, pretty woman!

Dana sank down on the trimly made bed because her knees refused to hold her.

Not Vince! Vince was big, and intense, and truthful. To bolster her faith she remembered the beginning of their acquaintance. Vince Ralston had come to the ranch to sell Dad a tractor.

"A fine young man," Mr. Harman had told Dana's mother. "I've invited him to dinner. Something tells me that young man has never tasted cooking like yours."

Dad was right. Vince was an orphan and his life had been a long story of orphanages and foster homes, and at eighteen he had been sent out to make his way. Finding a job with Macklin-James Tractors, he had been first an errand-boy, but he had worked hard. Then he was selling, and now he was in line to manage the territory.

And then they had planned their wedding and found this little home in Dennsville just right for his territory. They had been so happy. Oh . . . Dana shivered as memory slid to a halt before the funny little things that happened. She had been happy, but had Vince?

Mrs. Harman had cautioned Dana about rushing into marriage. After all, Dana, we know little of Vince, his family or his friends."

"I don't have to," Dana had declared then. But just the same Mother had often been right. Had she been right this time? Unwelcome tears welled up into Dana's eyes. Oh, Vince, I've been so proud of being Mrs. Vincent Ralston!

But more and more he sat up late going over his books. Once after she had gone to bed early, she woke to find him still at work in the living room. She had urged him to stop, and he had hastily hidden some papers as she came near.

And then there was that unexplained long distance telephone call. Thinking of the telephone made Dana start. She usually called her mother, to chat before she started dinner, but today time was short. Vince would soon be home.

Preparing dinner, she thought sadly, 'Maybe our last one.' The aroma of meatloaf and apple pie filled the house and soon she heard Vince drive up in front. As always she thrilled with joy at the thought of him, but now she stilled it.

"Hi, Dana," he called, and as he came in the door he looked unusually happy. "I want you to meet . . ." he turned and held out his hand to someone outside. Dana's eyes widened and her heart pounded painfully. Oh, Vince, oh, my darling! Have you come to ask me to free you?

The lovely young stranger smiled, but she had an appraising look in her eyes. Dana stepped back falteringly.

"Dana," Vince's voice was gentle, vibrant. "I want you to meet Betty, my long-lost sister. I've been searching to find my family, but everything seemed to stop me. Now at last Betty called me and I went to see her. She's told me about how Mom died when I was a baby during the depression, and Dad gave us kids to people who could take care of us."

"Oh, Vince," Dana's throat choked with tears. "I've always wanted a sister. Now our baby can have an aunt . . ."

She broke off, embarrassed as Vince's laughing about. "Now we're really a family!"

Yes, a real family, she thought happily.

Parents and the Schools

An amusing story making the rounds tells of Mrs. Olson in her mid-forties giving her husband the "news" of an expected child. Mrs. Olson seemed downcast—not at all like herself — since she was an excellent mother of two adolescents and respective to children of all ages at all times. Mr. Olson asked, "Well, why all of the gloom? Don't you want a baby? She replied, "Oh sure, the baby's fine, but I just hate to think of those PTA meetings all over again."

There may be some parents who view their children's schooling through the narrow end of a PTA funnel, but good parent-school relations mean much more than just PTA nowadays. Besides, the modern look of most PTA's offers parents highly profitable and enjoyable evenings if they participate regularly enough to understand what is going on.

Certain conditions stifle parent-teacher relations; parents unconsciously fear what they sense as authoritarism in the schools; teachers unconsciously fear parents for they do not understand their family patterns. The answer lies in more rather than in less school-home contacts. The nature of the contacts must differ with the community, but the main thing is to get parents and teachers together—looking at and talking about children regularly—and preferably when there is nothing wrong.

As with most groups, the more they get to know one another the more parents and teachers like each other, especially now since so many teachers are also parents. For children misunderstand, too. Billy was dwadling at dismissal time in kindergarten, and Miss King said, "Finish now Billy, as I am ready to go home, too." "What" you mean you don't sleep here?

Or, Fred, in third grade, when his father (an engineer) suggested an answer to a science question: "Dad, you're not a teacher. She'd just laugh at that."

People are people before they are either parents or teachers (or both) and differences between them are more apparent than real.

Community Mental Health Clinic Theme of Crookston Parley

Temporary officers for a study committee for the formation of a community mental health service were elected Tuesday night at a meeting held in the Elks hall in Crookston.

Dr. Howard Wykoff of Crookston was named president; G. M. Thompson of Ada, vice president; and Emil Bagley of Crookston, secretary.

Dr. Allan Hodges, consultant psychologist for the medical service department of the Minnesota department of welfare in St. Paul, was guest speaker at the meeting and explained the law passed by the last legislature allocating money for the establishment of community mental health service clinics.

Five major areas of service are outlined in the new law for the establishment and operation of community mental health programs. They are: collaborative and cooperative services with public health and other groups for programs of prevention of mental illness, mental retardation and other psychiatric disabilities; informational and educational services to the general public and lay and professional groups; consultative services to schools, courts and health and welfare agencies, both public and private; outpatient diagnostic and treatment services; and rehabilitative services for patients suffering from mental or emotional disorders, mental retardation and other psychiatric conditions particularly those who have received prior treatment in an in-patient facility. The state set up a $100,000 sum for the next year to aid in starting or supplementing mental health clinics.

The need for more clinics throughout the state was brought out at Tuesday's meeting due to the fact that the clinic now operated at Fergus Falls is serving the northern part of the state and one located at Albert Lea is caring for the southern part of Minnesota.

Previous meetings have been held in the area to discuss the possibility of establishing a mental health clinic to serve a six or 10 county area. Counties that would be included in six-county service would be Polk, Norman, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau. Clearwater, Mahnomen, Kittson and Lake of the Woods counties would be added to make up a 10-county clinic.

Facilities are available at the Sunnyrest Sanatorium in Crookston to house a mental health clinic, Dr. Wykoff said and some help has been assured to provide personnel for the clinic.

Organization of a mental health clinic, for either a six or 10 county area, is done by the county commissioners, Dr. Wykoff pointed out. The clinics are state supported, but locally controlled and a nine member board of directors is appointed by the commissioners to handle the clinic affairs. After a complete outline is prepared for operation of a community clinic, including financing an application is submitted to the commissioner of public welfare for his approval before a clinic can be started.

The newly-elected officers of the study committee will continue to investigate the possibility of getting a community mental health service for this area.

Telephone Firm Wins Safety Honor

Given Award of Honor by National Safety Council

Thief River Falls telephone employes helped Northwestern Bell Telephone Company and other Bell System companies to win the award of honor of the National Safety Council for 1956, A. K. Bacon, local manager, said today.

"Our people practiced what they learned about on-the-job safety rules," he said. "We all take pride in the fact that our industry collectively leads all industrial categories both in terms of fewest accidents and in their severity."

Only three out of almost 10,000 Northwestern Bell Telephone men and women in Minnesota had lost-time accidents in 1956. In terms of man-hours, the accident rate was less than one accident for every 4,000,000 man hours of work. The few accidents is particularly significant because many of the workers, such as installers, splicers and construction workers, climb poles, work in manholes or aerial ladders and use heavy machinery.

"While our on-the-job safety program has been very satisfactory, we're trying to impress on our folks that safety practices and caution should be applied 24 hours a day," Bacon said. "We want to reduce the number of accidents which occur during off-the-job hours."

Progress is being made to cut down the number of off-the-job accidents in the company. In the first quarter of 1957, there were 32 per 1,000 employees on an annual basis compared with 40 per 1,000 during the same period in 1956.

At this rate, a telephone man or woman could go about 1,600 years without an accident.

Mayor and Council President Speak at Lions Meeting

Berge Cites Beneficial Effects of Adoption of Strict Budget for City

Mayor O. D. Beich and A. F. Berge, president of the city council, discussed the progress and problems of Thief River Falls at the Lions club luncheon meeting Wednesday noon in the Elks club rooms.

Berge told the group that, following a bond financing program carried out in 1956 to meet heavy bond maturities, the council had drawn up a strict budget, which has been religiously adhered to this year, with the result that it has been possible to pay all current bills and to pay off maturing bonds as they fall due. Contributing to this result, he added, was the adoption of a more realistic tax levy for municipal purposes, three-quarters of which is used to retire maturing bonds.

Mayor Beich pointed out the large amount of time given by city officials during the past year to negotiations for Garrison dam power, shortly to be delivered to this city; negotiations with gas pipe line companies; modernization of the equipment of the street department, and initiating a long-range street improvement program.

F. Miles Nelson, Lincoln high school principal, made an appeal for the Minnesota Student Council association convention November 7-9.

Thye Discusses Farm Issues Here Tuesday Morning

Senator Defends ASC Elections, and Cites His Support of REA

Senator Edward J. Thye breezed hurriedly in and out of Thief River Falls Tuesday morning, this being one of the pauses on a whirlwind tour of the state. Coming from East Grand Forks where he had held an earlier meeting, he moved on to Hallock for a noon luncheon gathering.

Speaking informally to a group in the Terrace room at the Rex Cafe, Senator Thye discussed the problems of agriculture mainly, commenting on current issues not only as a legislator but as a farmer. He defended the present method of ASC elections which recently were criticised by Governor Orville Freeman.

The voting by mail procedure means a more representative vote in which farm operators choose from among their neighbors in the selection of those who manage the ASC operations, he said.

He defended his record as a friend of R.E.A., which, he pointed out, is a self-supporting and highly successful cooperative activity. Additional loans are needed largely to increase the capacity of existing lines to meet increased demand, and he said the continuing of the present low interest rate is justifiable.

Referring to charges that he has not been a friend of R.E.A. he cited his long record of promotion in the interests of the program, starting as a Dakota county farmer when he helped organize their first unit through to his successful efforts in making Garrison Dam power available in Minnesota and the securing of approval for the construction in Minnesota of an atomic power plant for the generation of R.E.A. power.

We have been a region of high-cost power, he said, and this condition is being improved. The St. Lawrence seaway will overcome another disadvantage we have suffered as a region, he predicted, giving us the benefits of lower cost transportation to the markets of the world.

Roy Lee named to City Council from 2d Ward

Council Approves Assessment Roll for East Side Project

The city council at an adjourned session Tuesday evening appointed Roy Lee as alderman from the second ward to serve out the unexpired term of Ward Nichols, who resigned recently on leaving for Wahpeton, N. D.

Lee, a long-time local resident, is a graduate of Lincoln high school and of the University of Minnesota, and is co-proprietor of the Lee Plumbing and Heating Co. He has been an active member this year of the advisory street committee set up to formulate a long-range program of street improvements.

Lee has filed to succeed himself in the aldermanic post in the November 5 election.

In its session Tuesday, the council conducted a scheduled hearing on the assessment roll covering the street improvement project now in progress on the east side. A dozen persons appeared at the hearing, only two or three registering objections to the work, mainly because of the size of their assessments.

The council then adopted by a unanimous vote the assessment roll in the amount of $75,932.67, which will be levied against benefited property owners, and will be payable over a period of ten years, with interest at the rate of six per cent. Property owners were given the right to pay their assessments in full within 30 days without any interest charge.

In another resolution, the council designated the city Auditorium as the polling place for each of the four wards in the municipal election November 5, and appointed last year's judges of election to continue in that capacity, with the exception that George Westby was named a judge in the third ward, and A. J. Rau was appointed to fill a vacancy in the fourth ward. The judges will designate their own clerks.

Co. Board Raises Budget $33,214

Levy for Welfare Accounts for More Than Half of Boost

The Pennington county board at its October session Tuesday, adopted a budget calling for an outlay of $259,558 for 1958, an increase of $33,214 compared to this year's figure of $226,344, with more than half of the rise being due to a boost in the welfare levy.

The budget as adopted will entail a tax levy for county purposes of 73.37 mills, up 6.77 mills from last year's 66.60 mills, County Auditor C. W. Bodeiruhn, however, pointed out that in the event the city of Thief River Falls is able to make another $10,000 contribution to the court house sinking fund, the levy could be cut 2.05 mills.

In addition to its general levy the board levied an additional $30,814 against lands in rural school districts as county high school tuition.

Items making up the budget are as follows, with the comparable figures for a year ago also given:

	1957	1956

The board will meet Thursday, October 24, to appraise tax-forfeited lands preliminary to offering the tracts for sale in December.

Officers of the county fair board and members of the 4-H leaders council were present to inform the board that they had reconciled their differences concerning the dates of the 1958 fair, and indicated their intention of setting the dates considerably later than the first week in July, as was the case this year.

Critic Lauds Margaret Barthel Piano Concert

by Ione Stone

At the request of the Northwest Concert Association

The Thief River Falls concert season opened auspiciously with the brilliant recital of Margaret Barthel, concert pianist, Monday evening in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

The first group was executed in the true spirit and style of early classicism, displaying a fine conception of the contrapuntal interweaving of the melodic interest. The Bach-Busoni Chorale Prelude and the rarely performed Bach-Pirano "Ariso" established Miss Barthel as a Bach player of distinction. The Variations in "C" and the frequently played so-called "Moonlight" Sonata Op. 27 No. 2 by Beethoven were magnificently performed in the genuine Beethoven tradition. After her artistry in the second Minuet movement of the Sonata, Miss Barthel's inexhaustible energy, displayed in the technically adequate performance of the final Presto Agitato movement, enhanced her prestige as a Beethoven performer.

The Chopin group was truly a pianist's paradise with Miss Barthel at the piano. She wisely made unannounced substitutions, the E Minor Waltz (posthumous) by Chopin, and his so-called "Black Key" Etude (right hand passages written entirely for the black keys) in place of the "Butterfly." The Prelude in B Minor Op. 28 No. 6, in which her exquisite melody playing displayed the ultimate in tonal production facility, followed. The group was brought to a triumphant close with the well known Polonaise in A Flat, which Miss Barthel performed excitingly as to its compelling tempestuous rythms and with stunning virtuosity.

Miss Barthel's dexterity and fleetness of fingers in the subtle and fiery impressionistic "Feux-d' Artifice" by Debussy was a masterpiece. Disappointing, for some, was the substitution of the brilliantly played 15th Hungarian Rhapsody by Liszt for the "Precipitato" from the 7th Sonata of Prokofieff. Only by submitting ourselves to the performance of new works, though the dissonances sound strange to our ears, are we to become familiar with them — we all are descended from grandfathers and great-grandfathers who scoffed at Wagner, Beethoven, etc.!

After each group Miss Barthel received an ovation and, at the close of the program, she graciously responded to the insistent applause of a sizable and selective audience, by playing numerous captivating encores — the Afro-Cuban and South American compositions of Lecuona and Villa Lobos, a Colombian contemporary composer, "La Comparsa" and "Polichinelle," respectively, the provocative "Bagatelle" by Tchrepnine, Morton Gould's "Boogie Woogie Etude," and exquisite rendition of the "Minute Waltz" by Chopin, and the serene Brahm's "Waltz in A Flat."

Miss Barthel's distinguished performance made the audience constantly aware they were listening to a first rank pianist of virtuoso caliber, and an artist whom we would look forward with enthusiasm, to hearing again.

W.C.T.U. NEWS NOTES

The Womens Christian Temperance Union met on Friday evening in the Mission Covenant church. Mrs. Earle Ripley, 1st vice president, presided in the absence of Mrs. Eber Conklin. Mrs. Nels J. Holmberg sang "The Song of a Soul Set Free", accompanied on the piano by Mrs. L. A. Ulvin.

Rev. E. C. Mead read Scripture and led in Prayer. Mrs. Ripley urged all who could to attend the prayer meeting which is held the 3rd Tuesday morning of each month in the Nazarene Chapel at 9 o'clock.

The business meeting was short in order to give Rev. Eva Peet, the Dist. President more time to report on the National WCTU convention held in Madison, Wisc. in September. She first gave an outline of the programs and later wove portions of the messages into her report, beginning with Mrs. Glenn Hays, national president who said that the increasing number of alcoholics was a worse threat to America than the atomic bomb because it threatens homes in every area of the land.

Dr. Ivy, dean of physiology, University of Chicago, spoke on the damaging effect of alcohol to the brain cells which once destroyed, are never replaced.

Mrs. Peet reported on the grand diamond speech contest in which Gaylen Ose participated also on the presidents' processional—in which all national officers and presidents of the forty eight states, Alaska and Hawaii moved down the aisles and took place on the stage. Each carried her state flag. Judge Theodore Knutson, Minnesota, spoke on "Why Your Community Needs a Teen-Age Code."

Mrs. R. B. Westacott made an appeal to the group to pray, listen and give to the WCTU broadcasts which are heard every Sunday at 1:45 p.m. over KTRF. Hostesses were Mrs. Edna Anderson, Mrs. David Drotts and Mrs. Iver Nelson.

Why Accused Man may Be Freed on Bail Told

Many persons wonder why persons accused of crime are released on bail.

A bulletin from the Minnesota State Bar association states that a person accused of crime is arrested and held by the police or sheriff until his trial at which time he is either committed to prison or released and his case disposed according to law. However, upon initial apprehension, a person is entitled to be brought before a magistrate within a reasonable time for a preliminary inquiry into the evidence against him. While in custody, the accused has the right to demand private consultation with an attorney before appearing in court to have bail fixed, and before any questioning or other proceedings are taken against him.

At the preliminary hearing, which is not a trial, the matter of bail will be considered by the judge. The accused is entitled under the constitution to post bail in lieu of confinement pending his trial. The bail will be set by the judge in an amount reasonably calculated to secure the appearance of the accused at his trial. If the amount set is excessive, an accused may take steps to have it reduced. The bail may be cash or a corporate or personal surety bond as approved by the court.

In minor offenses, such as the violation of a municipal ordinance, the courts usually have adopted a fixed schedule according to the nature of the offense, ranging from $1 to about $250. In these cases bail may be deposited upon arrest and before appearance in court. In more serious offenses no bail is accepted until fixed by the judge in open court at the time of the preliminary inquiry.

The right to bail is as old as the law of England, at least, and it is a valuable right of accused persons, The Minnesota State Bar association explains. It is helpful for an accused to be free before his trial to assist his attorney in preparing a defense, securing witnesses, and investigating necessary facts.

This right is supported by the idea that in the United States a person accused of crime is presumed under the law to be innocent until his guilt is established beyond a reasonable doubt at a trial held in open court. The right is guaranteed by both the United States Constitution and the Constitution of the State of Minnesota.

If an accused person who has posted bail fails to appear for his trial, his bail deposit may be forfeited to the state, and the accused becomes a fugitive. In some circumstances, he may then be tried in his absence.

Grand Forks City Council Approves Fluoridation

The Grand Forks city council Monday night voted 10 to 3 to add fluorides to city water to reduce tooth decay.

The action was taken after debate lasting about an hour and one-half.

Dr. O. W. Nord, president of the Grand Forks Dental Society, said Grand Forks was the last major city in North Dakota to provide fluoridated water. About 15 other persons also spoke for the proposal.

Theodore Wells, architect, urged that the city furnish pills to persons who want fluorides rather than adding it to the water supply. He said fluoridation of city water violates the constitutional liberties of those who oppose it.

County Welfare Workers Going to Mahnomen Oct. 17

To Attend Region Three Meeting of Minnesota Welfare Conference

Topics of current interest in the field of welfare are slated on the program for the Region Three meeting of the Minnesota Welfare Conference to be held at Mahnomen, Thursday, October 17, according to Ralph T. Hunt, executive secretary of the Pennington county welfare board, who will attend, along with other personnel of the local office.

Over 100 welfare workers from a 10-county area in northwestern Minnesota, as well as state legislators and state officials will attend the session. Morning and afternoon meetings are slated in the Mahnomen elementary auditorium and the public is invited to attend.

John W. Poor, St. Paul, director, public assistance division, state department of public welfare, will speak and moderate a panel. His topic will be "Medical Payment Procedures on Public Assistance."

On the panel with Poor will be Irving Peterson and Donald Glabe, both from the state department. Peterson will discuss the relative responsibility as it effects each aid program.

Glabe is slated to outline the work reorientation project now underway on a trial basis in three Minnesota counties. The project is aimed at grouping welfare cases according to type of need so effort can be concentrated by welfare workers on the cases needing the most attention.

Also scheduled to appear at the conference is Dr. Allen Hodges, St. Paul, psychological consultant, Community Mental Health Services. He will discuss the program which he heads.

Wayne Larson, Fergus Falls, administrator of a study project on mentally retarded, will speak on that program, which is concerned with making use of volunteer workers to assist the mentally retarded.

The program is scheduled to start at 10:00 A. M. with registration beginning at 9:30 A. M.

Hearing on Mavie School Districts Held Wednesday

three districts involved, with the Thief River Falls district.

Opponents of consolidation presented their case first, with Senator Wiseth the first speaker. He gave the history of school development and its attendant problems in Minnesota and described how the present school reorganization plan came into being.

Among the arguments brought out by Wiseth and the several other residents of the Goodridge district in opposition to the three districts consolidating with Thief River Falls were the contentions that the districts bulge out into Goodridge territory and that consolidation with Thief River Falls would impair educational opportunities for students in the Goodridge area because of the increased tax burden which would fall on the remainder of the people in the Goodridge district, in order to provide the necessary facilities.

The majority of the whole Goodridge district should prevail despite the wishes of the comparative few who wish to leave the district, Wiseth concluded.

Speaking also in behalf of Goodridge were Odin C. Hanson, Pennington county commissioner; Chester Larson, of the Marshall county survey commission; David Brown, Goodridge school superintendent and several parents in the Goodridge district.

Brown pointed out that the Goodridge district was already below recommended state minimums but that it was imperative to have a school there to serve the sparsely populated eastern parts of Marshall and Pennington counties and western Beltrami county, which would be without a high school otherwise.

Loss of the three independent districts would seriously impair the school, Brown emphasized, through the increased tax burden.

In speaking for the three districts wishing to join District 563, Chommie said the Thief River Falls district has "leaned over backwards" to comply with laws and recommendations but that the three districts have much more in common with the Thief River Falls district and that their unanimous wish to join it should not be disregarded.

Also speaking for districts 76, 15 and 46 were Kenneth Habedank, A. W. Oaki, Kermit Maidment, Mrs. A. W. Oaki, Roy Nelson and several other residents of the districts.

Glen Tass, Pennington county commissioner, said the Goodridge school district is the largest in the state in area, and has a sparse population, low evaluation and the highest cost per child in attendance. He said the school should not be closed under any circumstance, in answer to some arguments by the Goodridge faction that "if the three districts join Thief River Falls, all should join."

Mr. Hendrickson said the problem of the three districts was placed before the state advisory commission in June and that the commission recommended that petitions be circulated that the districts consolidate with Goodridge and that if enough signatures be obtained, a plat to this end be prepared.

The clerks of the three districts promptly stated that no signatures for such a petition could be had.

In his summary of the three districts' case Chommie said the responsibilities for such districts as Goodridge are up to the State Board of Education toward equalization. He said the state has many other resources to draw on to offset loss of the three districts should they be permitted to join Thief River Falls district 563. Actually, he stated, the Goodridge district drew very little revenue from the three disputed districts to begin with.

In their summary for the Goodridge district Senator Wiseth and Superintendent Brown emphasized that the wishes of the three independent districts ran counter to the good of the Goodridge district as a whole and that this should be taken into consideration in arriving at a final decision.

Such a decision will be made in about 60 days, Hendrickson stated, in closing the hearing, which was tape-recorded for the benefit of those who will have to arrive at that decision later.

Warmer Weather Predicted Here

Mercury Slumps to 26 Reading This Morning

An end to the cool weather of the past few days has been forecast by the KTRF weatherman, but high temperatures probably won't get much over 50, he says.

Meanwhile, temperatures in the wake of recent unsettled weather ranged from a high of 52 Monday to a high of 41 Wednesday, when there was a mere 10-degree variation between the high and the 31-degree low temperature. The low temperature for the period since Monday was today's 26.

Precipitation for the period was .18 inch, which fell Monday.

The cold weather was a break for duck hunters, who, last week-end, spent as much, if not more, time in slapping at mosquitoes as they did in shooting at ducks.

The forecast is for fair skies today, with a slow warming trend through Friday. Highs will be around 50 and lows will be in the thirties. Winds will be light variable today, becoming southerly 10-20 m.p.h. Friday. Humidity will be low both days.

The title of admiral comes from the Arabic Amir-al-Bahr, commander of the seas. It was first used during the Crusades.

4 Traffic Accidents Reported This Week

Four traffic accidents, two of which involved law enforcement officers, have occurred in the city since Monday, to disturb the tranquillity of the local scene.

According to police more accidents have already been had here in the first nine days of October than occurred during the whole month of September.

At 2 p.m. Monday a car driven by Harold S. Holen, Goodridge, was hit on the left side by a car driven by Bernard Elseth, Jr. rt. 1, Newfolden. Holen was making a left turn onto E. 1st st. from Main av. when Elseth, who was going west on E. 1st. st. hit him. Damage to the Holen car was about $110 and to the Elseth car $35. Elseth was tagged for failure to yield the right-of-way.

In an accident at 8:27 the same day, John F. Gustafson, city, who was driving west on E. 3rd st., collided with Donald E. Litstrom, who was making a left turn onto 3rd st. from Horace av. About $130 damage was caused to each car and Litstrom was also tagged with failure to yield the right-of-way.

About $150 damage was caused to Game Warden Carl Sundstrom's car about 10 a.m. Tuesday, when it was hit from the rear by a bakery truck driven by Charles T. Anderson, city, as both were going east near Robertson Lumber Co. Only $5 damage was reported to the truck and no charges were filed.

The city patrol car was also rammed from the rear about 5:50 p.m. Wednesday on the 3rd st. bridge. According to Patrolman Ray Bren, he had stopped a few feet behind the car of H. O. Chommie, which had run out of gas there while he was enroute home. Bren left the stop and tail lights on the patrol car burning to warn eastbound traffic and all was going well. Chommie and another man returned in another car with fuel for Chommie's vehicle and Bren got into the patrol car in preparation to leave as soon as the Chommie car was started.

While one of the men was standing in front of Chommie's car with its hood up trying to start it another eastbound vehicle, a station wagon driven by Oliver Fladeland, city, smashed into the rear of the police car, damaging it to the extent of about $350 and the Fladeland station wagon about $300.

Luckily enough, Bren said, he had been parked some distance behind the Chommie car, as the police car was knocked 10 ft. ahead by the force of the collision, even with the brakes locked. Had it hit the Chommie car, Bren said, it probably would have pinned the man who was trying to help get the Chommie car started as he stood between it and his own car which was parked ahead of the other two.

Bren was given a severe jolt by the collision but was examined and found uninjured. Fladeland was also uninjured. No charges have been filed in the case, police said.

Many Penalized for Poor Driving Habits

A rash of accidents in the city recently, plus one law violation added to the usual types of charges filed against persons appearing in court before Municipal Judge H. O. Chommie Monday afternoon. Failure to yield the right of-way was the most common charge against this week's violator crop.

The lone hunting law violator was Walter Leslie, Warren, who was brought into court by Game Warden Carl Sundstrom on a charge of hunting migratory waterfowl with a shotgun capable of holding more than three cartridges.

Leslie pleaded guilty and was fined $10 plus $4 costs.

City police cases dominated the Monday session. These were as follows:

Gordon Lee Miller, rt. 3, city, pleaded guilty to failure to yield right-of-way resulting in an accident, fined $10 plus $4 costs.

William Rondorf, Jr., rt. 5, city, pleaded guilty to speeding fined $10 plus $4 costs.

Dale W. Ranum, rt. 2, city, careless driving—involving an accident, plea guilty, fined $35 plus $4 costs.

Elizabeth L. English, Red Lake, no drivers license in possession, plea guilty, $5 fine, suspended; failure to yield right-of-way resulting in an accident, plea guilty, $15 fine, suspended; $34 damage resulting from accident paid.

Ida L. Sund, Goodridge, charged with failure to yield right-of-way, plea of guilty, fined $10 plus $4.

Warren V. Stone, city, charged with careless driving on a citizens complaint, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 plus $4 costs.

Peter Mellem, city, failure to yield right-of-way, plea guilty, fined $10 plus $4.

Bernard Elseth, Jr., Newfolden, failure to yield right-of-way, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 plus $4 costs.

Donald M. Thompson, city, pleaded guilty to making an improper U-turn and was fined $5 plus $4 costs.

Two persons were arrested by the highway patrol, of whom one, Lester Jesperson, rt. 1, Plummer, forfeited $17 on a speeding charge, while Kenneth L. Locken, rt. 5, city, pleaded guilty to driving without a drivers license and was fined $50 plus $4 costs, of which $25 of the fine was suspended.

There were no cases brought into court by the county sheriff.

Former Citizens of TRF in Picnic at Berkeley, Cal.

Nearly 100 former residents of the Thief River Falls community held their annual picnic September 29, in Live Oak park, Berkeley, Calif. The group heard a resume of Thief River Falls history for the past 30 years supplied by the Chamber of Commerce, which also supplied a collection of pictures of local scenes. E. M. Peck was reelected president of the picnic association, and Edna Steien of Sacramento was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Purebred Ram Sale

Many of the sheep producers expressed satisfaction with the growth of the Northwestern Minnesota Purebred Sheep Show and Sale held at Thief River Falls. That sheep population is increasing in the area is an encouraging sign. The more livestock the farms carry the more stable will be the income in the area.

The fact that champion rams stayed in Pennington county is also a credit to the area sheep producers. Those who bought champions were: Edgar Naplin, Polk Center township, champion Suffolk ram; Wilbur Hallstrum, Black River township bought the champion and reserve champion Shropshire; Norris Thune, a 4-H member with the Rocksbury 4-H club who farms in Smiley township bought the champion Hampshire ram.

The only champion ram sold outside the county was the top Columbia ram which went to Frank McDonald, Mannilo, Minn.

A good sire is imperative in improving a flock of sheep. With careful selection, proper breeding, feeding and other management practices the profit from a sheep flock can be attractive.

Dairy Feeding

The rains over the spring, summer, and fall have made production of good hay difficult if not impossible. Along with that some of the grains are lower in quality than usually. Some dairymen expressed concern over ration problems and how and what to use in their dairy rations for maximum and efficient milk production.

To cover some of the problems in this area and to discuss such persistent problems as well as other dairy subjects a special meeting has been arranged.

The meeting will be held in the courthouse meeting room on November 7. Ralph Wayne, extension dairy specialist from the University of Minnesota will discuss these subjects mentioned. All dairy farmers are invited to attend this evening meeting.

There is one job that can be done even when it rains that will pay dividends. Check what is in your soil by sending in a soil sample to the testing laboratory at the University. Soil boxes are available at the extension office and soil should be tested every two years, or after plowing down alfalfa or other grass-legume stands. Run a soil test and be sure of the kind and amount of fertilizer the land needs.

Beef Feeding Pays

Contrary to what you might think, you can buy 400-pound feeder calves at $25 per hundred pounds this fall, sell the animals for $22.40 when they reach 950 pounds and still get $1.50 per hour for your labor.

It is often believed that the selling price of finished cattle must be higher per pound than the price paid for feeder calves to bring a profit. That is true when feeder calves sell for lower prices—say $18 per hundred—but it isn't so at higher feeder calf costs.

But as feeder calf prices increase, finished cattle can sell for increasingly less than the feeder calf price without hurting profits.

The reason is that it takes a smaller percentage of the selling price to cover the feed costs in a period of high prices than is true with low prices.

For example, when feeder calves sell for $18 per hundred, a 400-pound animal costs $72. Based on current feed prices and average gains, and figuring labor at $1.50 per hour, it would take $113 in feed and miscellaneous costs to bring the animal to 950 pounds, on a pasture feeding program. To cover these costs, selling price would need to be $19.50 per hundred.

But suppose the same feeder calves were bought at $25 per hundred. Using the same feed and labor costs, the farmer could sell the cattle a 950 pounds for $22.40 per hundred and get the same labor return that he received at lower prices.

These figures are for long-fed calves and wouldn't be quite the same for short-fed cattle or for dry-lot-fed yearlings. However, the economists have worked out a simple chart that tells what selling price you need to receive for different types of cattle at different buying prices to make a profit. This chart, of course, assumes that the farmer does a good job of feeding.

Prowler 'B's Defeat Crookston 'B's 32-13

Exploding for three touchdowns in the fourth period, the Prowlers 'B' team, coached by Dick Edlund and Johnny Matchefts, broke up a 13-all tie game to defeat the Crookston Central 'B' team, 32 to 13, in a football game played on the Lincoln high field on Tuesday night.

The season's record for the Prowler 'B' team, following their win over the Pirates, stands at four wins and a loss. The lone loss on the 'B' team slate was a 26 to 7 defeat by the Grand Forks Central 'B' team a week ago.

Remaining to be played on the schedule are two games, against Bemidji and Crookston. The Bemidji game will be played here on Saturday morning, Oct. 19th, with the kick-off time at 11:00 a.m.; while the return game with the Crookston Central 'B' team be played at Crookston on Oct. 22nd.

Most of the scoring of Tuesday night's game was concentrated in the first half. The Prowlers, on touchdowns by Larry Haugen, on a run, and Bob Pearson, on a pass from Allan Hjelle, held a 13 to 7 first period.

After recovering a fumble deep in Prowler territory, the Pirates 'B' tied the score in the second period, with quarterback Jim [illegible] scoring on a sneak. And the score at the half-time was 13-all.

The Prowlers did make a touchdown in the third period, with Dale Wennberg sprinting through the line for a 24-yard gallop; but the play was called back and the Prowlers assessed a five-yard offside penalty.

In the fourth period, Peter Iverson rammed over a touchdown, scoring on 2-yard plunge, and when Hjelle added the point, the Prowlers held a 20 to 13 lead. A short while later, Hjelle, on a 15-yard dash around right end, added another touchdown, and the Prowler increased their lead to 26 to 13.

In the final minute of play, the Prowler 'B' team reserves, with fullback Jeff Hartje on a three-yard drive off right tackle, boosted the 'B' team lead to 32 to 13.

Trend to Heavier Trucks in State

Highway Department Analyzes Vehicle Load

Between 17 and 18 percent of all travel on Minnesota state trunks, rural roads and local highways is done by commercial vehicles. This is one of the conclusions indicated by an analysis of last year's traffic count conducted by the traffic and planning division of the state department of highways.

The study indicated that 17 per cent of the traffic on rural trunk highways was commercial and 18.4 per cent of the travel on local rural roads.

About 29 percent of this commercial traffic on rural trunks and 55 per cent on local roads is performed by the light panel and pickup trucks. But there has been a significant change during the past decade in the predominant types of heavier commercial vehicles. The growing preference for tandem-axle vehicles for commercial hauling has become quite obvious, the study shows.

For instance, in 1946, about 48 per cent of the commercial vehicles were single unit, two axle trucks with dual tires; 1.2 per cent were single unit trucks with tandem rear axles. By 1956, only 30 per cent numerically fell in the former classification and 4.3 per cent in the latter.

In the tractor-semi-trailer class, the trend was even more pronounced. In 1946, approximately 18 per cent of all commercial vehicles were three-axled tractor semi-trailers; by 1956, only 9 per cent. But the four-axled tractor-semi-trailers jumped from 5 per cent in 1946 to 17 percent in 1956, and the five-axled units, practically nonexistent in 1946, accounted for nearly 10 per cent of the commercial vehicles checked in 1956.

Squirrel Hunting Season to Start Saturday, Oct. 12

The open season for squirrels both gray and fox, begins Saturday, October 12 through December 31, both dates inclusive.

Squirrels may be hunted statewide from sunrise to sunset with a daily bag and possession limit of five (5) and ten (10) combined.

Game officials report squirrels are generally under-harvested throughout the state and point out this fine little game animal makes for fine hunting with a .22 or .410.

Reports from the field indicate squirrel populations to be generally good, and locally heavy acorn crops are expected to provide an abundant winter food supply for the bushy tails.

Hotel and Resort Men Meet Oct. 31

for Leamington Hotel Annual Convention Set

Products of some of Minnesota's budding agricultural industries will be put on display by state department of agriculture marketing service at the first annual Upper Midwest Hospitality exposition in Leamington hotel in Minneapolis Oct. 31-Nov. 1-2.

These secondary segments of agriculture will be given the nod before visitors from seven states —Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Montana and the upper peninsula of Michigan—over major agricultural divisions more widely known.

Emphasized will be displays of the growing apple industry, honey and beeswax producers, maple syrup and sugar processors and the wool and lamb industry, all among the newer Minnesota agricultural specialties.

The egg and poultry, potato and dairy sections, among major segments, also will be given space in the agriculture department booth. Material relating to the newer industries will be augmented by samples of the actual products to those who inquire.

Display of the agriculture department will be one of more that 125 exhibits to be set up for hotel, motel, resort and restaurant men from the upper midwest area. There were indications this week that many visitors from outside the area will be registered, as the roster of exhibitors appeared to take in most of the country.

Boys under Age 16 Do Not Need Duck Stamp in Hunting

Youths under sixteen were reminded today that they do not need federal duck stamps if they wish to hunt ducks, according to Lee Kuluvar, division of game and fish. Confusion has resulted about the need for licenses for youths 12 to 16 in accordance with the new state firearms safety law.

To clarify the situation Kuluvar said, "Youths 12 to 16 must have either a small game license or a state firearms safety training certificate to hunt this fall. The youth who buys a license must also be supervised by a parent or guardian until he is 16 years old. The youth who takes the training must also be supervised but only until he is 14 years of age."

"Youths under 12 years of age do not need either a hunting license or a training certificate but must be supervised. Youths hunting on land occupied by them as their permanent abode do not need a license or a certificate but must be supervised until they are 14 years of age."

Final Auto Races of the Season at Speedway Sunday

The final car racing program of the current season, sponsored by the Northwest Racing association, will be held Sunday afternoon at the Thief River speedway, three miles west of the city, with time trials starting at 2:30. Prizes donated by local merchants will be given to the best drivers, and Mayor O. D. Beich will present the championship trophy.

Farmers Reminded to Light Vehicles

Danger of Equipment on Road after Dark Cited

The Minnesota highway department reminds farmers in a statement today that they should never operate or tow any farm vehicle on the highway after dark unless it is properly lighted.

"This advise is especially important now when most farmers are entering their busiest season of the year," the department's safety division pointed out. "It is a time of intensive activity and long hours for most farmers. There is harvesting, combining, fall plowing, threshing and corn picking as well as many other things to be done at this time of the year.

"Daylight is getting shorter but the farmer's work day is longer. This fact coupled with the end of daylight saving time means that many farmers will be caught out on the highways with their tractors after dark." The highway department recommends that farmers anticipate this situation by installing lights on the front and rear of the tractors and reflectorizing all of their wagons and other equipment which may be towed or used on the highways.

Last year there were 150 accidents involving farm tractors or equipment on Minnesota highways, the safety division reported. Nine of these accidents were fatal. More than twenty farmers were injured. In some cases, these accidents involved unlighted tractors operating on the highways after dark. In others, the tractors were lighted but the rear lights were not seen by an approaching driver because they were obscured by a trailer or piece of equipment being towed by the tractor.

Fires Takes Heavy Toll of Woodlands

600 Forest and Grass Fires in State in '57

Fires are taking a heavy annual toll of state woodland and recreation areas.

And like all damaging fires, most of these result from plain carelessness, says Parker Anderson, extension forester at the University of Minnesota. He urges people in Minnesota to be especially careful during the coming fall season when forest fire danger is greatest.

When leaves turn color and grass dries up, one spark can soon become a conflagration covering thousands of acres, Anderson says.

So far in 1957, there have been about 600 forest and grass fires in the state.

In 1956, a total of 871 fires in Minnesota woodlands destroyed some 11,000 acres of forest land and about 12,000 acres of grasslands were burned over. Of the destroyed forest land, 4,400 acres were young timber worth more than $26,000 as it stood.

Of the fires in 1956, 34 were caused by careless campers and smokers started 175 fires. Other causes were: lightning, 17; land clearing, 97; meadow burning, 124; railroads, 147; lumbering, 9; grass burning, 32; incendiary, 19; miscellaneous, 217.

The way to combat this fire loss, Anderson says, is through better "outdoor etiquette." He urges persons in the woods this fall to be particularly careful with cigarettes. When on the highway, never flick ashes out along the roadside. Always step on and grind out cigarettes or matches before they are discarded.

Gustafsons Show '58 Model Rambler

New Line Includes Six and Eight-cylinder Cars

American Motors today announced its new 1958 line of six and eight-cylinder Rambler cars, featuring more than a hundred major styling and engineering improvements designed to "take further advantage of the trend toward compact cars which gained a strong foothold in 1957.

The new Ramblers are now on display at C. Gustafson & Son, local dealers.

Eleven models—station wagons, sedans and hardtops—in the Six and V-8 series are offered in 1958. Both the V-8, known as the Rambler Rebel, and the Six are built on the compact 108-inch wheelbase. This provides the Rambler with a roomy six-passenger interior, and combined with its compact exterior, makes it the most maneuverable and economical full-size American car.

New major engineering improvements includes a push-button control for the automatic transmission, new and larger brakes, all-welded single-unit construction made even stronger and safer by structural changes, a step-on parking brake and the optional Powr-Lok differential for V-8 models, which is designed to improve performance while driving through sand, mud, snow or ice. Powr-Lok permits the rear axle to send the greatest driving force to the wheel with the best traction.

150,550 DUCK STAMPS SOLD IN STATE IN YEAR

Continued Pressure

We have been, the past couple of afternoons, patrolling the range line east of town, and checking on the duck hunting. The range line road is three miles east of town, and it bears north across ditches 18 and 20, Thief river, and to the east and west road that leads to Mud lake. It's a vital thoroughfare for the duck hunters in getting to and coming from their hunting areas.

The reports, and our personal observation, is that the ditch 18 area has been "burned out." There are scattered flocks of ducks milling about, but the heavy concentration has evaporated. A few ducks, though, are being bagged by the hunters who have the patience to set out some decoys and stay put in a blind.

The duck limits that have been counted, and there have been a surprising number, are usually the result of hunting the potholes around Goodridge and Mavie, and in the public hunting ground at Thief lake. Mallards predominate in the bags taken around Goodridge.

And, too, the goose hunting continues to provide the hunters with plenty of excitement. Tom Waale, on Monday, bagged a twelve-pound Canada goose; and on Tuesday, Ted Kusmak, hunting southwest of the Mud lake refuge, got himself a ten-and-a-half-pound Canada goose. Tom and Ted are only two of the many local hunters who have garnered goose dinners. The bulk of the geese taken, though, have been lesser Canadas.

Humiliation

On Monday we occupied a seat in LeGault's bleachers and witnessed the World's Series game between the Yankees and the Braves. And we had a humiliating experience.

Barely had we been seated when the New York Yankees' Hank Bauer opened the game with a single. Al Holzknecht (you know Al, he's been an athletic authority around since he played quarterback for the Prowlers back in 1917-18, and he considers himself somewhat of an "elder statesman" in athletics) turned to us and explained: "You're so smart. Why don't you tell us what is going to happen?"

Without a moment's hesitation we replied: "The New York Yankees, with a fast man at bat in Tony Kubek, and always going for a cluster of runs, will hit away."

Said Al: "Well, I'll tell you something. Kubek will bunt on the second pitch."

And what happened? Kubek, after taken a called strike, bunted on the second pitch for a sacrifice, sending Bauer to second. That play made Al extremely happy; and, contrariwise, it take quite awhile to regain our confidence and prestige.

Chores

One of the joys (?) of owning a boat, especially a cedar-strip boat, is that, come this time of year, the craft must be taken from its anchorage, scrubbed down, rinsed off, and prepared for winter storage.

That's a chore that's been occupying our spare time this week. The fiberglass and aluminum hull boys do not experience this "pleasure." Fortunately, we didn't have too much trouble flushing out our boat, not having too many fish scales, etc.

Compiling a Fine Record

The Prowler 'B's football squad are compiling a fine record, having four wins and a loss as they move into the final weeks of their schedule.

We were in that well-chilled group of fans, and the cold winds apparently kept all except the most enthusiastic fans from the field, and were treated to a first-rate game on Tuesday night. The Prowler 'B' team, scoring three touchdowns in the fourth period, defeated the Crookston 'B' team, 32 to 13.

A familiar name popped up in that Crookston Central lineup, and we predict that this name will gain headlines for the Pirates in the years to come. We refer, of course, to John Lysaker, the fullback of the Pirate 'B' team. Young Lysaker is only an eighth grader, and the probabilities are that he will be a varsity squad man at Central next season.

Ask Duck Hunters to Help Avert Mishaps

The department of conservation asked duck hunters today to do their part to keep gun accidents in check this fall. The department has launched a statewide firearms safety campaign through the 5,400 gun safety instructors throughout the state. Sixteen thousand safety posters have been distributed to instructors and game wardens to serve as reminders to the hunters of the responsibility they must accept when using a gun.

Lee Kuluvar, gun safety chief listed the causes of gun accidents and said each year the same senseless causes result in the death and crippling of many duck hunters. Leading the list in the field are: Swinging on ducks, line of fire, falling, dragging the gun by the muzzle in the boat or grass and loading and unloading the weapon and entering or alighting from the boat. Leading the list when not afield are: Loaded gun in automobiles, unattended loaded gun, and cleaning the weapon.

Drowning also takes an annual high toll of duck hunters because of over-loaded or unstable small craft. Extra special care must be taken in using small duck boats, the cold water and heavy clothing of the duck hunter invaribly spells disaster if the boat is upset. Remember, ducks aren't made of gold and no amount of ducks is worth the slightest chance of a gun or boat mishap that may cost you or your partners life.

Despite the heavy cover the grouse hunters came through the opening without a major mishap. It is hoped this record will continue throughout the season and the duck hunters will follow suit, Kuluvar said. "This is the fourth season the state has carried on an intensified all out drive against gun accidents. We are hoping that this year the record will be even better than any of those of the past three falls. The hunters proved they can make hunting much safer when the over all death rate dropped an overage of 10 per year during the past 3 falls. It's the man with the gun in his hands who is at fault and the result is the innocent victim of a tragedy that could have been avoided."

WILDLIFE in Minnesota

by JIM KIMBALL

A roast pig with an apple in its mouth is proclaimed a culinary delicacy, but there are some apple growers in Southeastern Minnesota who dream of deer turning over hot spits with or without apples in their mouths. In the vicinity of Winona we have both apple orchards and deer and the two are not very compatible.

Deer not only eat apples but their idea of how a tree should be pruned does not always adhere to procedures set forth in the orchard grower's manual. Then, in late summer, bucks like nothing better than a row of young apple trees on which to polish the velvet off their antlers.

This is an old problem in many states and not such a new one here. On my first visit to the trouble area I walked through many orchards and listened to Warden Ron Shager tell of past efforts for a solution. "You Know, Jim, "he said, "one time we heard that moth-balls would keep deer out, so a bunch of us wardens tied moth-balls to this fence all the way around the orchard."

"Did it work?" I asked.

"Sure did," replied Ron. "We didn't have a moth in this orchard all summer."

In the summer of 1956 the apple growers, who are really a reasonable and tolerant group, agreed to sit tight until deer season if I would do everything possible to frighten the deer off their lands. Of course I agreed, and one thing done was to have wardens make nightly visits to the orchards with shotguns loaded with fine shot. This worked great for a spell. Then the solution turned out to be more of a problem than the deer, and you would never guess why. The orchard men suddenly wanted no more wardens and shotguns — why? Apple eaters were starting to bite into birdshot, and I guess the one thing worse than finding half a worm in an apple is to find half of your own tooth there.

Well, neither the archery season nor the two-day shotgun slug season did a satisfactory job of reducing the deer herd in those wooded hills, so the problem was right back with us this past summer and we had to try something new. The new thing tried was automatic exploders. These ingenious gas-operated devices belch a great ball of fire and a loud bang every 20 minutes. The Department provided the machines and the orchard men furnished gas and maintenance. Success was reasonably good for awhile, but deer are a highly adaptable species which become accustomed to anything not doing them bodily harm.

By mid-summer, it was obvious that a few of the deer doing damage in the orchard would have to be removed. This presented one of the toughest problems. Whenever possible, surplus game should be taken only by licensed sportsmen. But with a few deer to be taken and a small area to hunt, how do you choose a dozen out of 170,000 deer hunters to do the job. Local hunters would be glad to be selected, but deer are property of the state and belong to all the people of the state regardless of where they reside.

Under supervision of the Regional Game Manager Don Ledin and Warden Supervisor Dale Petersen, a carefully organized team of wardens and game managers moved into the orchards with rifles and took out the marauding deer. This was essential, because when wildlife managers start ignoring the man who makes a living off his land they are in for real trouble.

In spite of our best efforts to explain, and the superb job that sports writer Lefty Hymes of Winona did in presenting the facts and logic, the inevitable delegation of irate sportsmen and defending orchard growers arrived on schedule in St. Paul. This meeting didn't start out so well but ended most satisfactorily with everyone understanding the other fellow's problem much better. It was here that Commissioner Selke made a statement that has had me bewildered and amused ever since.

He said, "Over 400 deer were killed in that county during the open season and now we have taken only 16 more to solve the problem. How much closer could we get in setting a season." Sure sounds logical—or does it?

I don't know how many deer we will have in the orchards next year, but it is a good guess that there will be more trouble, so we are now experimenting with one more repelling device. This time it is a very special type of three wire electric fence. The third wire is two feet outside of the other two and one foot off the ground. Other states claim it works, but having seen deer jump fences I am anxious to witness the results. I can see an old buck step gently over the first wire, then, with hind feet planted firmly in the moist soil and tail high, rear back on his haunches to jump—making posterior contact with the hot wire. With the electronic triggering device we may develop intercontinental missiles with antlers—and with that I bring this tale to a shocking end.

Political Winds Over Fargo

Confusion over the availability of federal funds for relief purposes in distress areas is not limited to agriculture. Tornado-stricken Fargo, declared to be a disaster area, was also eligible for federal assistance. Some citizens of Fargo were led to believe that large shipments of Fort Knox gold would start rolling immediately to compensate them for their personal losses.

But in urban Fargo, as in rural northwestern Minnesota, federal funds have been made available for only limited purposes, mainly to help the community replace damaged public works. It is estimated that the government's contribution to the city of Fargo will not exceed $27,000.

In the soap-box oratory of wind-swept Fargo Senator Estes Kefauver has been quoted as saying to the Mayor of North Dakota's largest city that "the federal government has placed a narrow and heartless limitation on the act dealing with major disasters, contrary to the intentions of Congress." Similar statements have been made in our area.

The act which Senator Kefauver referred to is not a new law, and it has been administered over a period of several years under the present accepted interpretation. During these years there have been hundreds of tornadoes, and many tornado-stricken areas, most of them in the southern states. It must be assumed therefore, that Senator Kefauver has known for a long time how the law was being administered.

It is inconceivable that Fargo would be discriminated against in the distribution of federal aids. Senator Bill Langer would see to it that North Dakota communities would receive at least as much consideration as had been given to the distressed communities of any other state. We must assume therefore that the problem in Fargo has been substantially the same as in other tornado-stricken communities, and that Senator Kefauver and his colleagues, who have controlled Congress, have had ample time to correct any misunderstandings on the question of Congressional intent.

In his attempt to shift the responsibility for limited aid from Congress to the Eisenhower administration, Senator Kefauver made a statement that obviously is not true. The language in the law he refers to is clear, and if it is not sufficiently clear, Congress has had ample opportunity to change it. The simple fact that Congress did not appropriate the many billions of dollars that would be needed to pay the cost of relief on the basis that he proposes is, of course, convincing proof on the question of Congressional intent.

Untruthful statements about the opposition are not uncommon in our political wars. We expect some distortion of the facts in these battles for personal power.

The unfortunate thing about these misrepresentations about the availability of federal funds for relief purposes in distress areas is not the possible bad effect they may have on an opposition political party. That is comparatively unimportant.

They are bad mainly because of the added disappointment they bring to good people who already have a distress problem, and who must learn that they have been further victimized by the false promises of unscrupulous politicians for political purposes. This is what is known as playing politics with human misery.

Bring the Argument Home

Senator Martin of Pennsylvania is author of a bill that would require TVA to pay interest on the government's investment in its power facilities, to pay income taxes on its earnings and all state and local taxes, and to place its rates under regulation by the federal power commission. It is an interesting proposal that will not receive the serious consideration that it deserves.

To get a practical slant on a proposal of this kind let's bring the argument down to the local level and discuss our own little TVA. Thief River Falls operates a couple of big businesses that are profitable for Thief River Falls but contribute nothing in the way of taxes to the support of the federal government, the state government, the county or school district.

It would not be popular in Thief River Falls to suggest that the city's power and light business, or it's light refreshment business, should be taxed as privately owned operations would be taxed, and, through taxes, contribute toward the cost of other government services.

Rural taxpayers in Pennington county have reason to complain because the Thief River Falls power monopoly does not contribute toward the cost of county government. The rural cooperatives, on the other hand, that organize their power plants for the processing of butterfat and other farm products, pay all of the taxes that are assessed against any private partnership.

Maybe the place to start arguing about the justification of taxing the Tennessee Valley Authority operations would be right here in our own back yard.

The Welcome Motto

(Wall Street Journal)

The 1957 dollar bill is off the presses by a brand new process and though George Washington still looks benignly from the front the back of the bill is different. For the first time it bears the motto long found on our coinage, "In God We Trust."

Otherwise the bill is about the same as it has been since 1937, except that it doesn't buy as much. People who keep track of such things figure the 1957 dollar has only half the purchasing power the dollar had a scant 20 years ago.

And that brings us to the brand new process the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is using. By printing on dry paper instead of wet paper the Bureau has speeded up the process so much that now dollar bills can be printed five times as fast as before. It doesn't take much tinkering with that statement to see that it also means five times as many dollar bills can be printed in the time it used to take to print one.

We don't know what the Bureau of Engraving is preparing for, but if the Government ever gets around to a fiscal policy based on the new fiscal process, the 50-cent dollar of today will be worth a bushel basketful of tomorrow's dollars.

And that gets us right back to the motto now being printed on the dollar bills. We're happy to see it circulated as widely as possible, for not only does it tell us where man's trust is best placed. It also reminds us not to place our trust, in money or other matters, too much in Government.

Atoms Aid Farmers

Although the atom is a fearful symbol of destruction to some people, it promises to be a mighty big help to Minnesota farmers. Scientists at the University of Minnesota are using nuclear energy to help them find some of the long-sought answers to puzzling questions about the soil and plant growth. In fact, they have found that radioactive materials are among the best research tools discovered in a long time.

Take Al Caldwell, for example. He's a soils scientist at the University and one of the first to use atoms in soils research. He "tags" fertilizers, with radioactive materials, so that, with a Geiger counter, he can trace the movement of the fertilizer in soil where it's applied and in plants that grow there. "This technique," Caldwell explains, "helps scientists unlock many of the doors to unknown problems in soils and plant growth."

A recent finding that Caldwell and other scientists have made could be a big help to hybrid corn breeders. Again, using radioactive tracers, Caldwell and Agronomists E. H. Rinke and Duane Linden found that different inbred lines of corn seem to vary in the amount of phosphorus they take up from the soil.

So don't underestimate the atom. It's really a big help to all of us.

Want a new tractor?

Farmer friend of ours (and family) was in telling us about the new model he'd just picked out. And it's a dandy. Has the power attachments, power hitch—even power steering—and a lot more pull on the drawbar. Walks away with a 4-gang like a Percheron pulling a pony cart.

A shrewd move on the part of this farmer because now, he says, he can make himself more than twice as efficient.

When a new tractor is an investment in good farming like that, we're for it!

So if you've picked out a new tractor—or even if you're just thinking about one—drop in and tell us about it. We'll do all we can to help you get it.

Now—when you can really use it—when it will give you the help you need!

Chances are we can finance it for you in any one of several different ways. And at low bank rates.

We at the bank have faith in the future of farming, faith in you. And we're ready to demonstrate it. Right today

We're here to help you get what you want

Sound Advice
Never kill a fly with a shotgun, and never use drugs left over from a serious illness for self-treatment of a similar ailment. In the first case, you'll blow your kitchen ceiling to smithereens along with the fly. In the second case —you get the point. You see, modern drugs are highly potent—that's why we dispense them only when your physician prescribes. If you dose yourself with leftovers, you may do serious damage. It's a good idea to pour the remains of old prescriptions down the drain and destroy the bottles.

State ASC Chairman Explains Practices Available under Law

Floyd E. Sjolander, chairman of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced today that funds and practices are available under the 1957 and 1958 agricultural conservation programs to assist farmers in carrying out certain conservation practices on their farms where needs for such practices have been aggravated by floods earlier this year.

He continued by stating that there has been some misunderstanding concerning an emergency program which, at the present time, has been approved for 9 counties. Under the emergency ACP, costs could be shared with farmers for a few practices which are not included as a part of the regular ACP.

Many of the conservation problems which have existed on these farms for a number of years have become more critical and must be corrected without further delay.

The ACP is designed so that the government may share the costs with the farmers up to a maximum 80 percent on practices such as (1) establishing sod waterways which may include the cost of heavy earth moving equipment necessary to fill gullies or washouts in reshaping the area for seeding or sodding; (2) constructing diversion terraces or ditches to intercept run-off and divert excess water to protect bottom land from overflow and controlling gullies; (3) constructing erosion control, detention, and sediment retention dams to prevent or heal gullying; (4) constructing pits or ponds to protect vegetative cover through proper distribution of grazing and better grassland management; (5) constructing channel lining, chutes, drop spillways, pipe drops, drop inlets or similar structures for protection of outlets and water channels.

In addition, cost-sharing is available for ditching to drain cropland at the rate of 5 cents per cubic yard of earth moved. For tiling cropland the rate is $1.25 per rod for tile installed. For establishing terraces to control the flow of water and check erosion, the cost-share rate is $2.50 per 100 linear feet.

Sjolander further pointed out that cost-sharing may be approved for new seedings of legumes and grasses to be made next year for the purposes of (1) improving permanent vegetative cover; (2) establishing permanent vegetation on dams, ditchbanks, filter strips and field borders; (3) complete reestablishment of permanent pasture land; (4) establishing permanent vegetative cover on land which should be retired from the production of cultivated crops; and (5) for green manure and protection from erosion.

The cost-share rates vary for the different types and purposes of the seedings. These practices may also include fertilizer or liming materials where needed to establish good stands and growths. Establishment of contour stripcropping is another practice which should be used by more farmers, and is included in the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Sjolander stated that this program is administered by the county agricultural stabilization and conservation committees, and farmers desiring to participate are cautioned to check with their county ASC office to get complete details and cost-share rates on these practices, and to sign the necessary forms before starting any of these practices.

In conclusion, Mr. Sjolander pointed out that if enough farmers will make plans and follow through with the installation of these permanent-type ACP practices, which are designed to impound water and retard fast run-offs, the flooding and erosion problems resulting from rains will be greatly reduced.

Newfolden Church Addition Advances

Facilities of Bethlehem Edifice Being Expanded

The work on the building and remodeling of Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Newfolden is progressing on schedule, according to Harold Langseth, of the Langseth Construction Company of Thief River Falls in charge of the work.

The exterior dismantling has been completed, footings have been laid and the forms for the foundation are now being constructed. The concrete is expected to be poured during the latter part of this week. Harold Anderson of Newfolden did the excavating for the 32 x 49 foot addition and also for the new entrance on the west end of the present church. The excavating, plus many hours of labor have been donated by several men of the congregation.

The new addition will almost double the seating capacity of the church. It will also provide for a pastor's study and eight Sunday school rooms.

During the time of construction worship services and Sunday school are being held in the Newfolden School Auditorium.

No. Central Lines Transports 2,739 Passengers Oct. 4

North Central Airlines broke its own daily passenger record Friday, Oct. 4, when it carried 2,739 passengers, Hal N. Carr, airline president, reported today.

"Friday's record was the result of heavy World Series traffic through Milwaukee and Chicago which necessitated scheduling of extra flights between those cities," Carr explained.

In addition to the 53 regular daily flights between Chicago and Milwaukee, North Central flew 17 extra sections on Friday, four additional flights on Saturday and four more Sunday.

THE WORK BENCHES OF GOD

Christians are not turned out on assembly lines.

The skill and patience of many a human soul, the blueprint of Christ's own example, and the unseen but mighty craftsmanship of the Creator Himself—these over the decades bring forth a noble Christian life.

There must be understanding, guidance, faith. There must be a Christian home with sincere, loving parents. There must be prayer, the Bible, worship, thought, study. And at length practice and persistence must win many a victory over self before the world begins to recognize the hand of God in the life of a man.

Nearby in the church you will choose, there are busy hands at the work benches of God.

And room for more—your child's and your own!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Advise Ho[illegible]ital to Use Part for [illegible]ronic Cases

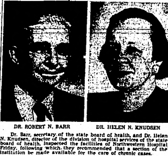
State Department of Health Officials Study Plant Friday

Following an inspection of Northwestern Hospital Friday afternoon, state health department officials recommended a reorganization of facilities to provide for the needs of both acute and chronic patients. A section of beds set aside for the needs of chronic patients might also provide lower cost hospital service for acute patients during a period of convalescence.

Dr. R. N. Barr, secretary and executive officer of the state board of health, and Dr. Helen L. Knudsen, director of the division of hospital services, expressed themselves as being very favorably impressed with the facilities and operation of the hospital. They stated that by providing for the needs of both acute and chronic patients the hospital could increase greatly in its usefulness as a health center for a large area.

They stressed the point that making the hospital available for chronics should not be confused with the services provided by nursing homes. There are many chronically ill people in the area who may be benefited by types of therapy that are provided by the hospital, they said, and only convalescents and chronically ill patients who may be rehabilitated in whole or in part by special treatment should be considered for admission.

Examine Hospital Facilities Here



DR. ROBERT N. BARR — DR. HELEN N. KNUDSEN

Dr. Barr, secretary of the state board of health, and Dr. Helen N. Knudsen, director of the division of hospital services of the state board of health, inspected the facilities of Northwestern Hospital Friday, following which they recommended that a section of the institution be made available for the care of chronic cases.

Public Employes Hold Referendum on Pensions Oct. 15

To Vote Tuesday on Plan to Come under Coverage of Social Security Act

Members of the Public Employees Retirement association in Pennington county will vote in a referendum Tuesday, October 15, in the office of County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The question at issue is whether or not services in positions covered by the retirement association shall be included under old age and survivors insurance provisions of the federal Social Security act.

Eligible to vote are employees of the county and city, as well as school custodians and bus drivers, numbering altogether about 190 persons. City police and firemen are not eligible to vote in the election.

All members of the association are urged to vote, since a failure to cast a ballot will be counted as a No vote.

Soo Agent Service to Cease at Trail

State Commission OK's Discontinuance Nov. 1

The Minnesota Railroad & Warehouse Commission last week granted the Soo Line railroad permission to discontinue agent and custodian service at their Trail station effective Nov. 1.

Other services of the railroad will continue. Passengers may board trains at Trail and pay their fares to the conductor. If cars are needed by shippers they may call the agent at Gully. Less than carload freight service will be available as at the present time.

O. E. Lewis of Bagley, attorney, Trail Mayor Arthur Wiberg, Representatives Leland Affeldt and Harvey Wilder, and State Senator Louis Murray represented the village of Trail at the hearing.

The railroad gave as a reason for discontinuing agent service the statement that gross receipts at the station were less than the expenses of operating.

Farmers Plan for Own Flood Control Work at Meeting in Oklee

Weary of "sweating out" possible government assistance, farmers of the Lost River and Ruffy Brook watershed areas met in Oklee Monday night to consider the possibility of accomplishing a program of flood control "on their own", the Oklee Herald reports.

The group heard a talk by Joe Seidel, Pennington county engineer, on provisions of the Small Watersheds Act, a conservation measure administered by the Department of Agriculture.

The farmers are studying the Small Watersheds Act to determine if they might accomplish the needed drainage program under it. It is an act designed to help small watershed areas provide an outlet channel. The Department of Agriculture can provide up to 50% of the funds needed in watersheds of up to 250,000 acre. Beyond this size, approval of congress is required.

The study is proceeding on the basis of estimated costs of $252,000 on Lost River and $19,000 on Ruffy Brook.

Named to the committee to continue the study of the Small Watersheds Act as it might relate to the two local projects were Claude Knudson of Gully, George Johnson, Oscar Flateland, Halvor Groven and Gunnuf Breivold of the Oklee and Trail communities and Wallace Evje, Harlan Nelson and Oscar Bratvold of the Gonvick and Clearbrook communities.

The conclusion of the farmers assembled was that they would not take any official action until after congress convenes to determine whether or not federal appropriations, already approved by both houses as part of a river and harbors bill, might be signed into law.

The original plan of the army engineers as approved by congress is considered the most economical procedure and the most likely to get early approval in spite of the fact that it has had many setbacks and delays during the years it has been in the legislative "hopper."

Lincoln High FFA Collects $123 for Crippled Children

Sam Peterson of State ASC Office Discusses New Provisions of Law

A district meeting was held last Tuesday at the Eagles Hall in Thief River Falls for the purpose of explaining the 1958 Soil Bank programs as they will operate in 1958.

The meeting was conducted by Specialist Sam Peterson from the Minnesota state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, and Selvin Erickson, farmer fieldman representing the northwestern area of Minnesota.

In attendance were ASC county committees, office managers, Soil Bank office personnel, and county agents and soil conservation service representatives.

Due to the fact that there are various changes in the 1958 programs, said P. W. Culkins, ASC office manager here, farmers should call at the local office and acquaint themselves with new procedures if they intend to participate in either of the Soil Bank programs in 1958.

Local Firemen at Regional School

House Burned Down in School at Crookston

One hundred fifty firemen, the largest number on record, attended the annual fall meeting and school of the Northern Region Firemen's association at Crookston last Thursday evening.

Representing Thief River Falls were Fire Chief Roy Langevin, Loren Borsheim, Paul Bedard, Olaf Dahlen and Bruce Reski, Pennington county civil defense director.

An eigh-room house slated for destruction was the scene of a fire-fighting demonstration. Fires were started and extinguished in the attic, various rooms and basement, the use of fog water streams being stressed by Fire Chief Jack Newark of Grand Forks, who served as drillmaster. The fire finally was allowed to go out of control, and surrounding houses in the closely built-up area were protected from damage.

Fresh new front-end styling includes modern dual headlamps and redesigned grille, hood and fenders.

Scheduled for display at the Northern Chevrolet Co., with the debut of 1958 Chevrolet passenger cars October 31, the new truck line lists 12 new models, for a total of 128, up 10 per cent over the number in 1957.

For the first time, Chevrolet will assume body production responsibility for three forward control "Step Van" models. Also of major interest is the addition to the line of nine new medium-duty cab-chassis models.

Soo Yard Office Expansion to Be Completed Soon

Another item in the continued program of improving Soo Line terminal facilities at Thief River Falls is the present remodeling and enlargement of the Thief River Falls yard office. A 14 by 24 foot addition to the north side of the yard office is being constructed at a cost of approximately $6,000. The work is scheduled to be completed this month.

A good speaker is one who rises to the occasion and promptly sits down.

Other lows ranged from 31.5 Friday to 49 Sunday, and no rain fell, although cloudy skies prevailed during most of the period. It was poor duck hunting weather and what few ducks are left in the country are flying high, wide and handsome due to the clear weather.

The forecast calls for increasing cloudiness bringing intermittent light rain Monday afternoon.

The light rain will continue through tonight and Tuesday and the mercury will drop somewhat, according to the KTRF weatherman.

Winds will be southerly, 15-25 m.p.h. today, decreasing slowly tonight. Humidity will be moderate today, high Tuesday.

High temperatures in the sixties and lows will from 45 to 52 are forecast for today.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From C. F. Young, Toledo, Ohio: Well do I remember the old horse-power threshing machine of my boyhood days in Illinois, near Oakland.

At first I sat on the sideline watching an older boy drive the horses—two teams of two horses each, hitched to a long shaft on opposite sides of a revolving platform in the center, under which were cog wheels that made the tumblers roll. These connected with the thresher.

In due time, I was a proud boy, standing on that revolving platform with a long whip in hand to urge the horses along.

When a stop was to be made, the driver jumped from the platform and ran in front of one team while someone else checked the other team.

From Mrs. R. N. Poole, Georgetown, Illinois: I remember when my mother raised flax. She had a large loom and wove linen table clothes, towels and cover lids as well as linsey cloth to make out school dresses and under skirts. The first school I attended was in the old Mt. Zion Church. We sat on slabs (with no back rest) for seats.

Mother had a big spinning wheel and a small one and she could spin thread. I will never forget the old time ways, born and raised in Old Virginia.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

As is our custom, we're writing this piece Friday but this time we're going to do things a little differently . . . and leave it open at the end, just in case something comes up.

Something did come up last week and we practically rewrote the whole biz—it won't happen again this time.

Well, the Series is over and the world has a new set of baseball champs. We had our doubts about the outcome especially after the first and sixth games—those Yanks have pulled all too many series out of the fire in years past. No ball game is over until the last putout. But, the Germantown gang came thru!

We're glad it happened the way it did and that Burdette was truly magnificant. Still, while praising the Braves you can't take anything away from the Yankees from N'Yawk . . . and we still think Ol' Case is the cagiest manager in baseball today, if not in the history of the game.

The Trib came up with a good editorial page cartoon last Friday as a result of the Braves' victory . . . no doubt you saw the cartoon with the caption, "The bier that made Milwaukee famous."

We note the 99'ers held their meet at Northfield this Sunday. Wonder how the attendance was . . . good, we hope. In case you're wondering, the 99'ers are womenairplane pilots who stage several flying events each year to promote aviation, especially from a woman's angle.

Which brings to mind, there is only one aviatrix in all of Thief River Falls, so far as we know. That, we understand is Mrs. Christ Klerk.

Which really is too bad. Women do just about everything else that men do but you see very few of them at the controls of an airplane—and for no good reason. Despite what we men say about women drivers at times (often without justification, we might add) there's no reason why many other average, intelligent women couldn't develop into a first-rate flygirls.

It doesn't take a superman—or superwoman— to learn to fly an airplane. Actually, flying is a simple proposition because there is little traffic to worry about, no gears to shift or such things as the automobile driver has to contend with. You just open the throttle and go—and, really, it's practically as simple as that!

Best of all, there are no speed limits in the sky, no small towns to slow up for, no stop signs—and, darn it, too few women drivers!

Isn't it all too true that many folks will do just about anything to get money from the government—except volunteer for the armed forces, or a reserve component, and earn it!

Next Saturday the pheasant season opens in Minnesota. It'll be interesting to note how many so called "sportsmen" in the southern part of Minnesota who came up here to hunt ducks wherever they please, have leased up the hunting grounds from under the northern Minnesota folks who go down there to hunt pheasant.

"Wouldn't it be nice," the Missus said late Sunday, "If our wee one could be born on President Eisenhower's birthday?"

Well—it looks just like that's what's going to happen. About 5 a.m. today she pokes me and says I'd best be stirring about—the stork is knocking at the door, which is what we've been waiting for practically all of 1957. (As a matter of fact we've been waiting over 14 years for this big, B-I-G event!)

By the time this goes to press there may be a third member of our family (we don't count our Cocker Spaniel, Cindy) but it's too early to know what the stork brought us and we can't hold the presses.

So, if you want to know whether pink or blue is the correct color you'll have to check Thursday's paper. We don't care ourselves, so long is it's healthy. And, now you know why we delayed finishing this column until now. SO LONG!

HOME Garden TIPS

ORRIN C. TURNQUIST

Although 'mums are considered fairly hardy in Minnesota, most varieties will respond better the next year if they are winter protected. The garden chrysanthemums can be transplanted to a cold frame after they have finished blooming. It is not necessary to put them in pots with this method of winter protection. The clumps can be dug and set into the cold frame and covered with loose soil. After the cold frame is closed, it should be covered with the sash. Straw can be placed over the top to prevent excessive heat inside the cold frame during the winter.

Chrysanthemums may be potted while still in bloom and brought into the house and enjoyed for some time in the fall. After they have finished blooming, they can be placed in a window well or in another protected location.

Mulching of the chrysanthemum bed is also practiced. Straw or marsh hay will serve very nicely as a mulch. It is a good idea to put sticks or brush in the border to collect snow. The snow also helps serve as a mulch for the chrysanthemums.

Hybrid tea roses, floribundas and climbers all need winter protection in Minnesota. A common practice is to mound soil around the base of the plant to a height of about one foot. A loose peat-soil works very well. After the mound has frozen in the fall, a 12 to 18 inch application of straw or marsh hay around the roses will protect the tops further. Care should be taken in the spring to remove the mulch after growth has begun the following spring.

Car Driven by Boy, Age 13, in Mishap

Car Carrying 5 Children Upsets Near River Valley

A carload of five children ranging from 13 to five years of age were involved in an automobile accident enroute to their home near River Valley from Sunday school at the Oak Park church Sunday morning, and two of the youngsters are hospitalized as a result of the mishap.

David Lundeen, 13, oldest of the five and driver of the car, apparently lost control of the vehicle, which wound up in the ditch alongside a county road about three miles southeast of River Valley.

In the car with David were his two brothers, Arden, 7, and Vincent, 5, their sister, Crystal, 8, and a cousin, Arlene Lundeen, 9.

David was reported today, by Dr. Dan Greene, attending physician, to have suffered a partial fracture of the pelvis and other injuries, while Arlene has a fracture of the left femur. Both were brought to Northwestern Hospital here.

Arden Lundeen was also taken to Northwestern Hospital with cuts but was released after treatment.

Sheriff Charles Richards said today that Floyd Lundeen, father of four of the children, who farms near River Valley, will be charged with permitting an unlicensed person to operate a motor vehicle, as a result of the accident.

More Nursing Homes Are Needed in State, Official Says Here

There is a need for 8,000 to 10,000 additional nursing home beds to care for the aged in the state of Minnesota, Dr. Robert N. Barr, executive secretary of the state board of health, stated at a regional meeting on problems of the aged held in the Pennington county courthouse Friday evening.

Furthermore, Dr. Barr said, about half the existing homes for the aged need to be replaced.

Barr made the statements in the course of his address to an assembly of doctors, county and state officials and citizens interested in problems of aged persons, who gathered in the district courtroom to hear him.

The problem is acute, Dr. Barr said, because the demands for care of the aged have not been met and because the percentage of persons over 65 has never before been so large in proportion to the rest of the population. In addition there are more children of school age than ever before so that the number of people in the productive age bracket to pay for the needs of the very young and the very old has never been so low by comparison and it is getting lower.

To balance this, never before have people in the productive age brackets been able to support so many in the two groups. We owe it to our elder citizens to care for them in the infirmities of old age, Dr. Barr said, because they are the pioneer citizens of the state, the people who helped the state reach its position in the modern world.

Of the 10 per cent of the population in Minnesota over age 65 approximately 20 per cent are not in a position to care for their own needs. And, because of the increasing number of oldsters in the state the need for more institutions and services is mounting steadily.

Diseases of old age are also increasing with the added number of old people in the state, Barr said.

Care of aged people is not an all-at-once proposition but should be done as the need is recognized. Nursing homes are as important to the community as schools and other facilities, he emphasized.

Dr. Barr enumerated the following needs for adequate care for the aged in any given community:

1. A good hospital. 2. Nursing home facilities for care of the chronically ill. 3. Rehabilitation facilities for those who can be rehabilitated. 4. A well staffed Home (or homes) for the aged. 5. Community services for those elder citizens who can live in their own homes. This is best whenever possible, Barr said. 6. Specialized care for mental cases and others with efforts toward rehabilitation.

of Region 5; and Dr. Werner Brand, Moorhead state college.

Greetings to the group were extended by Supt. Irwin Mickelson. Robert Mitchell won the hearts of the members with his spirited "Community Sing."

Mrs. Melville Simon, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers: Ernest Sisser of Warren, treasurer; and Paul Buran, Roseau, vice president. It was voted that they be accepted.

Dr. Werner Brand addressed the group with a presentation of five human needs. Physiological needs, such as food, air, rest and sleep; need for safety, need for love, and need for esteem; and finally, the self realization to accomplish, to achieve, and to occupy a place in a group.

Dr. Brand's views on discipline gave each and everyone food for thought.

From 10:30 a.m. to 12:00 each member attended the work shop of his choice: Parent and Family Life, conducted by Dr. Brand, Moorhead, and Rev. Robert Abbott of this city; program planning, conducted by Mrs. E. J. Coyle and Mr. Mitchell of Moorhead; membership and publicity, Mrs. Ray Edlund, Hallock; and unit presidents, Mrs. Elmer Bredlie of Eldred.

The new by-laws were read by Mrs. Bredlie, and were accepted.

At 12:15 a dinner was served at Zion Lutheran church with Rev. Otto Dale acting as master of ceremonies. Table grace was read by Rev. Walter Petersen. Musical numbers were in charge of James Bolsten of the Lincoln high school music department.

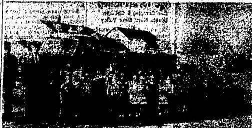
From 1:15 to 3:30 a lively panel discussion was held, during which time a question and answer period was enjoyed.

The Northrop PTA unit presented Miss Emma Tandberg with a life membership in the PTA, presentation being made by Del Seefeldt, president of the Northrop unit.

Hallock received the mileage award which was presented by Mrs. James Wells, Pennington county vice president. Mrs. Lillian Fuller of Goodridge received an award for being a member of the PTA for 30 years.

The session closed with two piano solos played by Mrs. Curtiss Nelson after which coffee was served.

Washington Pupils Observe Fire Prevention Week



An enthusiastic reception was given Fire Chief Roy Langevin and Jaycee President N. H. Kortuem by first grade pupils Thursday when they drove to Washington school in the fire department's modern truck. The first graders, about 50 of them, were given toy firemen's hats and cards to take home so they could make their own fire prevention inspections. They responded with a song for the firemen, directed by their teachers, Mrs. Ellen Peterson and Mrs. Florence Bredeson, shown in the background. The occasion was the annual observance of Fire Prevention Week.

WORLD OUTDOORS

LONG, long ago, before man initiated his progress toward today's modern civilization, the world outdoors was a scenic panorama of beauty in nature. It was a world of forests and glades, green growing vines and varicolored flowers, dotted with shimmering lakes set here and there like diamonds in a velvety field of green.

As man's numbers increased, so did his knack of developing new ways to divert the things in nature to his own personal use and services. He cut away the trees of the forest to make room for a shelter and used the trees to build it. He laid bare the glades and meadows and filled in the marsh lands for a new world of steel and stone. He took a note from the beaver and dammed lakes and streams to divert their power to his many uses. In his search for fuel to feed the hungry demands of his increasingly-modern world, he scarred the face of the earth with claws of mighty steel and dug deep into its bowels for the treasures that had lain there for centuries.

With late-found wisdom, man one day came to realize that the destruction and conversion of natural things had to be limited to a degree consistent with his needs. So he set aside certain areas of special beauty and gave them the protection of his laws. He planted new trees on expanses laid bare by his machines and shovels. He gave back to nature some of the things he had taken away.

And yet, there are a few spots today where the beauty of nature protected is left unspoiled. Mankind, it seems, cannot pass through the forest or glade without leaving behind the unmistakable mementos of his civilization—pop bottles, beverages, cans, candy wrappers, cigarette packages and just plain junk.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Pursuant to adjournment and for the purpose of conducting a hearing as advertised on City of Thief River Falls 1957 Street Improvement Assessments, the Council of the City convened in the Council Chambers in the Auditorium and Municipal Building on October 8, 1957 at 7:30 o'clock P.M. All members were present.

The Council then proceeded with conduct of the hearing in matter of assessments for said street improvements. Eleven interested property owners were present and were each advised of amount of assessment to their properties as shown on the assessment roll and questions of individuals relative thereto were answered and explained by the City Engineer. Objections were raised in a few instances, mainly as to the amount of benefits assessed. Following considerable discussion Alderman Carlson introduced a resolution adopting and confirming such special assessments as indicated by said assessment roll, providing that such assessments be payable in equal annual installments over a period of ten years with interest at 6% per annum from date of adoption of this resolution, directing certification of installments to the County Auditor for collection with real estate taxes, providing that no interest shall be charged if entire assessment is paid within thirty days hereof and moved adoption of such resolution. Alderman Stenberg seconded such motion. All members voted in favor thereof and the resolution was by the President declared passed and adopted.

Alderman Sandvig introduced a resolution designating the main floor of the Auditorium and Municipal Building as the polling place for the four wards of the City at the time of the General City Election to be held on November 5th, 1957, appointing Judges of such election and moved adoption, being seconded by Stenberg, and the resolution was duly adopted by roll call vote.

Alderman Stenberg moved that the Clerk cause notice to be published calling for bids for the furnishing for the office of public utilities, of postage metering equipment, both hand and automatic feed, bids to be opened and considered on November 19, 1957, being seconded by Winjum and the motion was duly carried.

Alderman Stenberg introduced a resolution appointing Roy F. Lee as Alderman from the Second Ward to fill the vacancy caused by resignation of F. W. Nichols. Alderman Carlson seconded such motion. The roll was called on the question, all members voted in favor thereof and the appointment was declared confirmed.

Alderman Carlson then moved adjournment, being seconded by Stenberg, carried and the hearing and meeting was declared adjourned.

Deferred installments shall bear interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of the adoption of this assessment resolution, subject, however, to such qualifications as are hereinafter provided. The City Clerk is hereby directed to file the assessment roll in his [illegible] County Auditor, on or before October 10th in each year, the total amount of installments of and interest on assessments on each parcel of land which are to become due in the following year, and the owner of any property so assessed may, at any time prior to certification of the first installment thereof to the County Auditor, pay the whole of the assessment on such property, with interest accrued to the date of payment, to the Municipal Treasurer, but no interest shall be charged if the entire assessment is paid within thirty days from the adoption thereof by this resolution. After such certification he may at any time thereafter pay the entire amount of the assessment remaining unpaid, with interest accrued to December 31st of the year in which such payment is made by paying the installment and interest in process of collection on the current tax list to the County Treasurer and the remaining principal balance of the assessment to the Municipal Treasurer.

Home Is Where You Live

City? Country? Suburb? Village? People must do most of their living in just one of them. And it may not be the one which would be chosen if there were the whole world to choose from. Where you live usually is partly by choice and partly by necessity, but how you live is mostly by choice.

How often one hears parents lament the lack of "advantages" and the limitations of a small town while another parent bemoans the distances and costly pursuits of a city. Just as the same water glass can be judged "half-empty" or "half-full," so can all places be judged partly desirable and partly undesirable for our homes. The trick is to learn to see realistically the advantages and disadvantages and then to turn both as completely as possible into positive experiences.

Living alongside a lake or stream can be viewed as laden with opportunities to learn and to enjoy the water and its vegetation, fish, and animal life, or it can suggest only the constant hazard to life and comfort that drownings, mosquitoes or floods might bring.

Living in a city can be tolerated as a succession of battles against time, space, crowds, and noise, or it can be cherished as a treasure filled with museums, zoos, excellent restaurants, parks and sports facilities.

The intimacy of the small town may increase meddling and gossip but it also increases the number of persons who know and care when trouble comes. The impersonality of the large city may make it seem cold and remote, but this same impersonality provides more independence to pursue the recreation of one's choice.

themselves set the mood for family living and this mood is relatively independent of such factors as geography, wealth, race or family size. Home is wherever people live and it thrives or shrivels depending upon how they choose to live in it.

Farm Income 10.5 Pct. of Minnesota Total

"Only $507 millions of Minnesota's total personal income of $5,657 millions in 1956 was classified as farm income in a survey of current business of the U. S. Department of Commerce," according to Norman A. Borgen, executive secretary of Minnesota Taxpayers association.

Mr. Borgen cited figures from the survey showing that manufacturing accounted for $1,062 millions or almost one-fifth of the total personal income in Minnesota. Wholesale and retail trade accounted for $983 millions, transportation $336 millions, services $490 millions, government $452 millions, and contract construction $352 millions. Other large segments in the personal income total were mining $101 millions, finances, real estate and insurance $106 millions, and communications and public utilities $125 millions.

"The farm played an important part in Minnesota's manufacturing income," Mr. Borgen said, "as food and kindred products totaled $233 millions or between 20 and 25 percent of the total manufacturing income. Lumber and wood products, including furniture, paper and allied products, and printing and publishing and allied products made up a total of $184 millions.

"Wages and salaries accounted for $3,584 millions of Minnesota's total of $5,657 millions in 1956. While farm wages and salaries dropped from $56 millions in 1954 to $55 millions in 1956, manufacturing wages and salaries increased from $873 millions in 1954 to $1,004 millions in 1956.

"These facts emphasize the importance of manufacturing in Minnesota and the further importance of providing a tax climate inviting to industry.

"Minnesota personal income in 1956 was $1,745 per capita—an increase of $70 over the previous year. The national average for 1956 was $1,937 per capita—an increase of $80," Mr. Borgen said.

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I am a disabled Korea veteran and I hold a routine job that doesn't interfere with my handicap. I would like to take vocational rehabilitation training to prepare for a better job with a future. Does the fact that I'm working mean I have given up my right to train?

A—Not necessarily. If your disability is service-connected and if you have a need for training, you may receive vocational training despite the fact that you now hold a job. However, your training would have to be full-time; once you start, the law wouldn't permit you to hold your job.

Q—I am drawing compensation payments from VA for a service-connected disability. What is the limit that I can earn before my compensation payments will be reduced?

A—There is no limit. No matter how much you earn, your compensation payments for service-connected disabilities will not be reduced. The ceiling-on income applies only to pensions, paid living veterans for total and permanent nonservice-connected disabilities.

Q—I am a Korea veteran with a dental condition for which I have a zero percent disability rating for purposes of dental treatment. Would that entitle me to the special Korean GI Insurance available to service-disabled Korea veterans?

A—No. The insurance may not be granted if the disability is a dental condition for which a rating was made only for purposes of dental treatment.

Q—I expect to retire from my job soon. If I sell my GI house and move to another city, could I get my entitlement restored for another GI loan?

A—Yes, provided VA is relieved of liability on the old guarantee.

Prowlers Overwhelm Warroad Friday 61-0

With their chunky right halfback, Lynn Nicholson, scoring a pair of quick touchdowns in the first period, coach Joe Mrkonich's and outmanned a young and inexperienced Warroad Warrior football team to score a lopsided 61 to 0 win in a game played at Warroad on Friday night. The Prowlers racked up nine touchdowns and seven conversion points during their evening's scoring spree.

On Friday night, under the lights of the Lincoln high school athletic field, the Prowlers will meet their traditional rivals, the Bemidji Lumberjacks. The Lumberjacks, who suffered a humiliating 47 to 8 defeat by the Crookston Central Pirates last Friday night, will be attempting to salvage a poor season by defeating the Prowlers. Kickoff time is at 8:00 p.m.

Nicholson, who has been doing a fine job for the Prowlers at right halfback this season, sparked locals to their first period lead on Friday night. After Ken DeLap had recovered a Warroad fumble on the Warrior's 27-yard line, Dave Rasmussen picked up three yards at right tackle, and then Nicholson knifed through left tackle for a 24-yard touchdown run. Jim Bennes plunged the extra point. Minutes later the Prowlers had their second touchdown. From midfield, Nicholson, on four plays, carried to the 2-yard line, and then drove over right tackle for the touchdown. Rasmussen added the point on the plunge.

Another recovered fumble, with the Prowlers gaining possession on the Warroad 21-yard line, set up the third touchdown. Bennes, on a pair of rushes, carried to the 3-yard line, from where Rasmussen hit the goal-line. Phil Hanson sneaked the extra point and the Prowlers held a 21 to 0 first period lead.

With the reserves playing the second period, the Prowlers continued to pile up the points. Gene Wackworth, from 21 yards out, went over left tackle for a touchdown. The try for the point was halted. Seconds later from the Warroad 37-yard line, Mickey Hanson sprinted through a hole at left tackle and crossed the west goal-line for a touchdown. Harlie Drees spun out around left end for the conversion point.

Larry Gausen, on a fourth down Warroad kick try, came through to block the ball, and Ken DeLap scooped up the pigskin on the 17-yard line and scampered for a touchdown. Wackworth plunged for the point, and the Prowlers held a 41 to 0 half time lead.

The Prowlers tallied but one touchdown in the third period, and that came as the result of a 14-yard Phil Hanson to Dave Hanson aerial. And the extra point was tallied via the airways, too.

In the fourth period, Harlie Drees, on runs of seven and two yards, respectively, scored a pair of touchdowns, with Wackworth converting after the first touchdown.

Warroad was completely outplayed during the game, but that was not unexpected as the Warriors are a young team. Only one senior was in the starting lineup, he being Stan Flick, a guard. Several 8th and 9th graders were in the starting lineup, as well as three freshmen.

Hunters Asked to Report Thief Lake Hunting Success

Since it would be inpractical to have attendants stationed at all five exits from the Thief Lake hunting grounds, Bob Farmes, fish & game biologist stationed there, announced today that cards on which to register shooting success or lack of it will be deposited in the car of each hunter visiting the area. Whether or not he bagged any birds, the hunter is asked to fill out and sign the card and deposit it in a box provided at the exits from the hunting grounds.

County Agent Says 4-H Club Projects Offer Big Variety

Stelmaschuk Encourages Pennington County Young People to Share in Work

Recreation, friendships, a chance to develop talent skills and leadership — these are some of the opportunities 4-H clubs have to offer, says County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

Boys and girls from Pennington county interested in joining a 4-H club may enroll in one or more of two dozen projects.

Through the clothing, foods and home furnishing projects, 4-H'ers learn to buy and sew clothing, to prepare appetizing and nutritious meals and to make their homes attractive and comfortable.

For the boy interested in livestock, beef, dairy and dual purpose cattle, sheep, pig, rabbit and poultry projects are available. His work will include selecting, raising, and keeping records on his project.

Caring for the home yard, raising a garden, field crops or fruit of participating in forestry and soil conservation are other possibilities.

Projects in electrification, farm and home shop and tractor maintenance may be chosen by the mechanically minded. The older member may be interested in the farm accounts project.

The 4-H member 14 or older can be of service to his club and adult leaders by enrolling as a junior leader, Stelmaschuk says. He carries on duties that relieve the adult leaders of many tasks. The junior leader may be a project leader or may assist with a phase of the club program such as demonstrating or record completion. In addition, the junior leader gains many benefits himself. Learning to lead, being at ease before a group and taking part in special events are some of these.

In addition to these projects, the 4-H member may select an activity — health, safety and fire prevention or conservation. Many clubs may want to choose an activity to work on as a group.

Boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 interested in joining a 4-H club should see their local leader or county extension agent soon.

Agencies Cooperate

A good example of cooperation between public agencies and private businessmen was a field demonstration in August on the Art Eder farm in Carver county. During the event, two gullies were filled and a water diversion dike was constructed above the gully heads. The day was sponsored by the Carver county soil conservation district, the Carver county agricultural extension service and the William H. Ziegler company, Minneapolis.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Crystal-Balling

The men's city bowling leagues, and four are in operation this season, have been bowling on their 1957-58 schedule for about a month or so. In that time we have had an opportunity to take copious and detailed notes, make performance charts, and compile statistics. All this information we have "fed" into an "electronic brain" computer, and the results were that the following team, will win league championships. And the following individuals will win league high-average honors.

In the Monday night Service league, the KTRF squad — Doug Tegtmeier, Fred Franklin, Rod Blodgett, Ray Mattson, and Orv Gillespie — will win the championship. The individual high average will be won by Orv Gillespie, but not until he's had a battle with the Eagles' Larry Thorstenson.

On Tuesday, in the Business league bowling, the V.F.W. team —Roy Jorgenson, Norm Wennberg, Eldon Harbott; Chuck Krause, Del Harbott, Gordy Dunham, and Cliff Stromberg — will take top honors. The high average title will be won by the Elks Club's John (City John) Jaranson. The Business league, as has been the custom the past several seasons, should provide the most consistent bowling.

On Thursday night, the Commercial league bowlers take the alleys, and this season the Eagles squad — Harold Johnson, Chuck Krause, Truman Hemmestvedt, Ed Carlson, Emil Dostal, Elton Cummings, and Hank Storhaug — will be the titleholders. Del Harbott will edge out Am Wysoski for the high average mark.

The Friday night City league (and for the past couple of years the Steiner Farmers have looked like league champions until they went on their November deer hunting expeditions) will find the Argyle State Bank team —Omer Deschenes, Vern Loranger, O. Skunes, B. Tracy, George Eagan, and Bill Conway — taking the top honors. The high average championship will be a nip-and-tuck affair between Am Wysoski and Orv Gillespie, with Am the winner.

ships have been determined, the other twenty-eight teams can relax and do their bowling for fun and exercise.

Fables of Our Times

The state game and fish department can continue to tell us these fables about the abundance of game-birds, and the necessity of "harvesting" the crop; but we don't have to listen.

Last year the department stated that the ruffed grouse were in the "low" year of their cycle. And the year before that the department had labeled that year a "low" year, too.

From personal observations, checking the Bemis Hill and Norris Camp territory, and the ridges west of town, and from the consensus of veteran partridge hunters, it's obvious that the ruffed grouse are in a "lower" cycle than in previous years.

It's apparent that game-bird management is not an exact science, and that the policies of the game and fish department are subject to political and economic pressures. The opening of a game-bird season is a moneymaker, both for the state department and for individuals who cater to the requirements of the sportsmen. But when the upland game-bird crop (and we include the sharptailed grouse with the partridge) is subjected to year in and year out hunting pressure, then it should be evident that this crop will in time disappear. Those are the facts of game-bird life.

Now that we have these ulcer-producing ideas out of our system, we'll move on to a more pleasant item, such as Roy Lee, alderman.

He'll Have The Poise

We of the city's second ward were given a new councilman last week when the city council, at an adjourned meeting Tuesday night, appointed Roy Lee to fulfill the unexpired term of Ward Nichols. We don't know what kind of an alderman Roy will be, we'll wager that regardless of how tumultuous and embroiled the council sessions will become, Roy will continue to keep his poise and be in control of his emotions.

The reason we will readily make such a wager is that Roy has been through the crucible of emotion-tempering events, and been proven. We're referring to the epic basketball season of 1937-38 when the Prowlers, co-captained by Roy Lee and Don Lorentson, and coached by Geo. Lee, won the state high school title.

Who can forget Roy's performance that year, and particularly in tournament play? Remember that regional finals game against Bemidji here? The Lumberjacks led by a 17 to 5 score at the end of the first period, 23 to 16 at the half, and 30 to 22 at the end of the third period. The Prowlers won that game, 35 to 32.

An the second game of the state tournament, against the favored Crosby-Ironton team. The Rangers led that game until the final minutes when Roy dropped in a field goal to tie the game at 27-all, and Earl Nicholson drove in to score on a lay-up and give the Prowlers a 30 to 29 overtime win. And the finals, against Minneapolis North. The powerful North team led the Prowlers throughout the game and it was not until the final minutes that the blue-and-gold succeeded in tying the score at 29-all. With seconds of play remaining, Roy looped in a long shot, giving the locals a 31 to 29, and coach Lee's team stalled out the remainder of the game-time.

Industrial Clinic Is Slated at Moorhead for October 24 and 25

Three subjects of major interest will be discussed at the Minnesota and Upper Midwest Industrial clinic to be held at Moorhead, October 24th and 25th according to J. W. Clark of the Department of Business Development. They are the Business Development Credit Corporation now in process of formation, the means of encouraging local industry, and the problem of finding the industrial prospect.

Leading the discussion on the credit corporation will be Clarence G. Ivey of Hartford, Connecticut, who will report on the experience of the New England states with this instrument of providing capital investment and by S. J. Kryzako, of Winona, Chairman Minnesota Bankers Association Committee.

The success which meets effective efforts in stimulating community growth through encouragement of local industry will be presented by E. J. Becker, North Central School and Experiment Station, Grand Rapids, Minnesota and J. W. Barton, president of the Princeton, Minnesota State Bank.

"Finding The Prospect" will be handled by Charles Myers, president of Albert Lea's Jobs Building, Inc. and by Lawrence Schneider, director of North Dakota Economic Development Commission.

Other subjects to be presented will be "What Industry Expects of the Community", "Community Planning", "Effects of Inter-State Highway System", "The Industrial Site", "The Farmers Stake in Industrial Development", and "The Great Laeks, A New Industrial Frontier."

The advance registration, according to Commissioner Clark, would indicate the desirability of early action to provide accomodations for those planing to attend. Governor Freeman is scheduled to participate along with national leaders from both ends of the continent.

Luther Leagues of Free Church Open Convention Nov. 1

Annual Meeting Slated at Middle River Church and at Newfolden School

The Middle River Luther League will be host to the Thief River Falls district of the Lutheran Free Church Luther League for the 1957 convention on November 1, 2 and 3. The Friday and Saturday meetings will be held in their home church near Argyle, of which Rev. Gordon Berntson, Newfolden, is the pastor.

"Whom Will You Serve?" is the theme of the convention and will be the theme of messages delivered by the guest speaker, Reverend Calvin J. Storley from Alexandria.

The opening program of the convention will be at 8:00 p.m. Friday evening. At 10:00 a. m. Saturday morning there will be a Bible study followed by a discussion on league work. The business session will be held Saturday afternoon and at 6:30 p. m. that evening, the leaguers are invited to an informal banquet.

On Sunday there will be an 11:00 a. m. worship service and the closing service at 2:15 p. m. Both of these services will be conducted in the Newfolden high school auditorium.

Also on the agenda for the weekend are singspiration, a convention choir, time for testimony, a convention band, and many other features. Leaguers interested in the band are urged to send their names and addresses to the director, Mr. Dennes Borman, Newfolden, so they can be notified of the numbers to be played in the convention.

Urge Hunting for Barberry Bushes

U. S. Plant Pest Control Supervisor Asks Action

Minnesota farmers and other citizens can render a good service to agriculture and make themselves some extra cash by reporting locations of grain rust-spreading barberry bushes.

Seventy-two counties in Minnesota offer bounties ranging from $2-10 per property for reports of barberry bush locations. Bushes can be reported to county auditors or to county agents.

T. H. Stewart, area USDA plant pest control supervisor at the University of Minnesota, today said that rust-susceptible barberry bushes are usually found along fence rows, in heavily wooded areas and in pastures.

The barberry is host plant to stem rust, a dreaded disease in wheat, oats, barley and rye.

Barberry is easy to spot now because it stays green longer than most other shrubs and doesn't lose its color after a frost as soon as other plants do.

Look for a woody shrub with bunches of bright red berries, spines on the branches and saw-tooth-edged leaves, Stewart says. The outer bark of barberry is gray and the underside is bright yellow.

About 90 percent of Minnesota has been cleared of barberry, but there are still enough bushes left to breed new strains of crop-injuring rust. Heaviest infections are in the southeastern counties.

HOLY MACKINAW!

Michigan-bound Minnesotans can span the five-mile Straits of Mackinac (yep, they call it "naw") by way of the new $100,000,000 bridge, beginning right on schedule November 1 this present year of 1957. Between north and south towers 3,800 feet makes this the world's longest suspension bridge, at the highest point 190 feet above the blue waters of the strait; from 200 feet below the bottom these towers soar 552 feet above the surface. Width of 48 feet carries two traffic lanes in each direction, plus 3-foot emergency walk on each side; 6,000 vehicles can cross an hour, 3,000 each way. Crossing time is estimated at about 10 minutes, compared with ferry's 45 or 50. Weight of this imposing, and handy, structure is estimated at 1,000,000 tons.

State PTA Congress Scheduled in St. Paul

Some 2,000 delegates to the 35th annual convention of the Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers in St. Paul October 21-23 will be "Building Together Toward New Horizons".

Following opening registration, beginning at 9 a.m. on the mezzanine of the Hotel Lowry, convention headquarters, will be the first general session at 2 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium Theater with Mrs. A. L. Alston of Washington, national PTA secretary, as the main speaker.

Reports and nominations also will be made during the opening session, with election of officers slated for 6:30-10 p.m. Oct. 21 and 8-10 a.m. and 12-2 p.m. Oct. 22.

Informal district conferences will be held 4:45-5:45 p.m. Oct. 21.

Workshops from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. opening day will be followed by a "Let's Get Acquainted" session, beginning at 9:45 p.m. including singing and square dancing, in the Auditorium Arena.

An hour and a half of workshops and a two-hour general session, with Executive Director Thomas H. Swain, of the Minnesota Statehood Centennial commission as main speaker will fill the second morning.

That afternoon the third general meeting will feature a panel "How Can Our Organization Work With PTA?" moderated by Dr. Nolan C. Kearney, assistant superintendent of research and curriculum for the St. Paul public schools and chairman of the school education committee. Panel members will be state education Commissioner Dean Schweickhard; Dr. Gordon M. A. Mork, president of the Minnesota Education association; Mrs. Fred L. Paul, president of the Minnesota School Board association, and L. K. Wetmager, president of the Minnesota Association of School Administrators. A series of delegates' discussion groups in the Hotels Lowry and St. Paul will follow the panel.

"The law should be loved a little because it is felt to be just; feared a little because it is to a certain degree out of sympathy with the prevalent temper of the day; and respected because it is felt to be a necessity."
—Emile Fourget

A Vain Appeal

Herschel D. Newsom, master of the National Grange, has issued another appeal to farm leaders for a united program behind what he refers to as "self-help mechanisms." There is a note of desperation in his appeal for prompt action"—while we still have some friends. Farmers have been losing too many friends in Washington, as well as among urban dwellers everywhere."

This, basically, was the late John Brandt's argument for support for a self-help program in the dairy industry. He looked upon politicians generally as fair-weather friends, and recognizing the fact that farmers are shrinking numerically, and no longer are a powerful force politically at the national level, he wanted them to take control of their own production and marketing problems through their own organizations.

Unfortunately Mr. Newsom's appeal will go unheeded too.

Sensible Oklahoma

University of Oklahoma officials have made an interesting decision. Beginning with the 1959-60 school year, courses which entering students should have completed in high school will not be available to them. Last year the enrollment in mathematics courses, that should have been completed in high school, totalled 2,724 and these classes cost the University $27,924.

In announcing this new policy the president stated that one of the reasons was the need for economy, and that, coming from oil-rich Oklahoma really is interesting. He said, and University of Minnesota officials please note:

> "Since the financial resources of the university are not likely to keep pace with the demands that the people of Oklahoma will place upon us, we must devote our funds as efficiently as we can to the primary functions of a university, as distinguished from not only the secondary schools but the colleges."

Another reason that he advanced is also interesting:

> "Money is not the only reason for the planned reduction of remedial courses. As a matter of principle, we do not believe that state funds allocated to higher education should be used to duplicate courses that are available to Oklahoma students in their high schools."

A Good T-V Program

We'de not agree with those who say there are no good programs on television. There is one program at least that we like and that is a Keep-America-Beautiful campaign against litter bugs.

Litter bugs are bad bugs, and that we have known for many years. The fellow who drops bottles and cans and papers and rubbish along our highways and rural roads is a bad citizen.

But what we like about the Keep-America Beautiful television campaign is that it puts city streets in the same class as rural highways, and says that the fellow who litters the streets is just as bad a litter bug as the fellow who litters the highways. That is an idea that needs a lot of encouragement.

Here in Thief River Falls the city has invested a tidy sum in street cleaning equipment, but this equipment cleans only the streets and not the walks, where most of the litter is located after a windy night. So all our good street cleaning equipment does, actually is to provide a nice clean street for the merchants to sweep their sidewalk litter into.

As a first step, therefore, in a campaign to keep our city streets clean, we favor an ordinance that will require all walks to be swept before 4:00 o'clock in the morning when the street cleaning crew goes to work, providing that those storekeepers who like to sleep late may sweep at any hour of the morning, if they pick up and remove from sight all litter deposited on their walks.

And having indoctrinated our merchants with advanced ideas on sanitation and good housekeeping, by fines and workhouse sentences, we would take after the litterbugs themselves, men and women who have good fathers and mothers and who have gone to school, but who have never learned that it is bad manners to drop paper and refuse on the streets.

What's Wrong With Civil Defense?

Our civil defense program is organized for the protection of civilians. It would be reasonable to assume therefore that civilians would have some interest in the activities that are set up for their own protection. Up to now, however, if there is any civilian interest in the program there has been little evidence of it.

For those of us who can recall the practice blackouts of the last big war the present lack of interest in civil defense in understandable. Air raid wardens at that time had terrifically important assignments seeing to it that signal lights were not being flashed, intentionally or unintentionally, to Hitler's Luftwaffe. Few of the many solid citizens who served in that organization took their assignments seriously.

At the present time there is greater justification for civil defense—for being prepared for a surprise attack. We know that we now are within range of enemy firing power. The possibility of attack is not so remote as it was fifteen years ago. And with nuclear weapons the dangers will be far greater than ever before for the civilian masses.

This is a problem that deserves serious consideration and careful planning, and a first step in this direction probably should be a study of why civil defense, in its present form, is not being taken seriously.

The lack of interest is not just local. It is nation-wide. In Canada too there is concern about the public indifference. The following observations by the Canadian Charlottetown Guardian indicate that the situation is the same on both sides of the international boundary:

> "The reason why civil defense exercises have been more or less a failure is that the public and the officials themselves have very little confidence in their efficiency in an emergency.
> "How could cities like Montreal, Toronto or Winnipeg, or, for that matter, cites of any size be evacuated in the few minutes which would elapse between a warning of approaching aircraft—not to mention long range Missiles—and the actual attack? And if by some miracle as yet unknown this could be done, where would the millions of displaced persons go and how would they be sheltered and fed? How would they be protected against radioactive fallout which certainly would not be confined to any particular area?
> "The Government will have to convince the people that civil defense has some practical meaning and not merely theoretical meaning if it expects any worthwhile measure of public co-operation. So far, nothing that has been said or done has conveyed that impression."

Before we can hope to agree on a program that will have public acceptance and support we should take our present program apart and try to figure out what's wrong with it.

One Out Of Five Hazardous

August road check results, released recently by the Motor Carrier Bureau of the Interstate Commerce Commission, reveal an alarmingly high percentage of trucks in faulty condition and drivers with disqualifying deficiencies. Of the vehicles given complete inspection, 20 percent, or one out of five, were judged "so imminently hazardous to operate as to be likely to cause an accident or breakdonw", and were ordered out of service. Driver deficiencies were due mainly to failure to keep proper records and have required medical inspection for physical fitness.

These checks by federal officials no doubt compare favorably, and probably are much more thorough, than the spot-checks of headlights and brakes conducted by our state officers. They probably are reasonably accurate in their average findings and serve a good purpose. They were conducted at 175 points thruout the country, and the findings may be accepted as a fair average over the country of equipment condition and driver qualification.

It may be argued that when only one out of five trucks is rated "hazardous", most of the trucks that we pass on our highways are in good condition. "Most", however, is not enough. On an ordinary highway any big truck, in perfect mechanical condition and operated by the best of drivers, is still much more of a hazard than a car. They should be subjected to much more rigid safety standards.

YEARS OF TALK give way to action October 15 on the long-hoped-for restoration of historic old Fort Snelling at the Twin Cities. Governor Orville L. Freeman will turn the first shovel of dirt in formal ceremonies held by the Minnesota Historical Society and the Minnesota Centennial Commission. The Commission has allocated $25,000 to the Society to do as much work as possible in digging for foundations of the old Fort's original walls and buildings. Ultimate hopes are for rebuilding of as much as possible as a permanent memorial. John M. Callender, 27, a Lincoln, Minnesota, native and 1955 University of Minnesota graduate, is the archeologist retained to direct the excavating which is expected to take 15 to 18 months. Among those who will attend the ceremonies are Director Russell W. Fridley of the Historical Society, Chairman Peter Popovich of the Centennial Commission and Centennial Executive Director Tom Swain.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

I believe that Minnesota's teen-age citizens are as fine a group of young people as we have ever had. When headlines remind us of the tragic exceptions, we must, as we do all we can to solve the problems of delinquency, remember that the great majority of our young people have high standards of behavior and offer great future promise.

The Minnesota Teen-Age Code

We can be especially proud of the Minnesota young people who worked on the formulation of the Minnesota Teen-Age Code a little more than a year ago. As a result of the Governor's Conference on Children and Youth, held in May of 1956, some 370 youth delegates were consulted in the drafting of a suggested code of conduct. This code is used as a guide from which young people in each community, in cooperation with parents and teachers, can draft their own.

Widespread Recognition

Since this Minnesota Teen-Age Code was first issued, only a little over a year ago, requests for copies have come from every state of the Union, from five provinces in Canada, and from several other foreign countries. Schools, parents, teachers, religious groups, and youth and civic organizations have sought to learn from Minnesota's progress.

A Community Program

Copies of the suggested code were sent to schools, parent-teacher organizations, student councils, and other interested organizations in Minnesota in September, 1956. From then on each community went forward as it saw fit. Many considered the code, made any changes needed to meet community standards and practices, and then adopted and proceeded to implement this code, which was now their own. During the last school year thousands of high school students and their parents have had such a code as a standard for social conduct.

Further Development

With the opening of the present school year, many groups, many communities, and teenagers themselves, are interested in knowing what they can do to utilize and implement a code. For that reason a Teen-Age Code Workshop is being planned for next month. It is hoped that the majority of the participants in this workshop will be teen agers themselves. When plans are finally worked out for this workshop, all interested groups will be notified and urged to participate.

BABY BATS .467 IN FOREBEAR LEAGUE

David Paul Brimer started the game of life at Fergus Falls September 20 batting .467, which is tops in any league! It is reasonably possible for a youngster to have 30 living forebears: Two parents, four grandparents, eight great-grandparents, and 16 four times removed. This lad is the cynosure of 14 proud forebears: Parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Brimer, full quota of four grandparents, seven great-grandparents, plus one extra lady in the published lineage, who must be a great-great-grandparent. Anyway, 14 out of 30 is a remarkable .467 record rarely reached in this field!

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

I am writing to you asking for the privilege of using your public opinion column in bringing to your readers a clearer picture of the intent of Congress in passing the Emergency Conservation Measure, better known as disaster aid to farmers, and I am copying directly from the Congressional Record.

Emergency Conservation Measure June 18, 1957: Congressional Record page 8547.

"For an additional amount to enable the Secretary to make payments to farmers who carry out emergency measures to control wind erosion on farmlands or to rehabilitate farmlands damaged by wind erosion, floods, hurricanes, or other natural disasters when, as a result of the foregoing, new conservation problems have been created which, (1) if not treated, will impair or endanger the land, (2) materially affect the productive capacity of the land, (3) represent damage which is unusual in character and, except for wind erosion, is not the type which would recur frequently in the same area and (4) will be so costly to rehabilitate that Federal assistance is or will be required to return the land to productive agriculture use, and for reimbursement to the appropriation to the President for 'Disaster relief,' for allocations to the Secretary of Agriculture for such purposes, $15,000,000: Provided, That this appropriation may be expanded without regard to the adjustments required under section 8 (e) of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended (16 U.S.C. 590h), and may be distributed among States and individual farmers without regard to other provisions of law."

Mr. Editor, the latter part of this law seems to be completely ignored by the newspapers of the area.

The words, and I quote, "Provided, that this appropriation may be expanded without regard to the adjustments required under section 8, etc.", end of quote, simply means that it is not to be bound by rules, regulations or restrictions that are presently in affect so far as our regular farm program is concerned. Following this, and I quote, "and may be distributed among States and individual farmers without regard to any other provisions of law," unquote.

This then in simple words written by the authors of the bill directs that this appropriation shall not be bound by any confining law, rule or regulation in administrating A.C.P. practices to farmers who have suffered a disaster. Where then did Secretary Benson's Dept. find the regulation that the law would not permit Federal participation in excess of 80% of the cost of any practice?

Secretary Benson's report to the House Agriculture Committee in 1954, 1955, and 1956 state that it authorized emergency tillage, green manure, green cover and other cultural practices as an emergency A.C.P. practice for farmers in flood stricken counties. If they could do it in these past years, why can't they do it now?

Senator Humphrey, who spoke for the Supplemental Appropriation in Committee and on the Senate floor, states that the flooded lands in our area will qualify under the requirements 1, 2, 3, 4, and that tillage practices such as those mentioned earlier in this letter can be authorized under this law.

The $15,000,000 appropriation was supplemented later to bring the total appropriation to $22,600,000.

I hope that this letter will bring the entire law before the people and clarify the intent of Congress.

Roy E. Wiseth, Goodridge
State Senator, 65th Dist.

Guards Wildlife

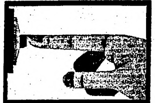
Chester Wubbles, Greenleafton, started a windbreak a few years ago, now has 25-50 pheasants spending the winter among the Norway Pine and White Spruce trees in the planting. Wubbles is now encouraging friends and neighbors to plant evergreen windbreaks, according to Oliver Strand, Fillmore county extension soils agent. Strand points out that the area near Greenleafton is a prairie border region and natural cover for wildlife is scarce.

Plow No Longer Used

The moldboard plow is almost a thing of the past for Maurice Benoit, cooperator in the Red Lake county soil conservation district. He uses a disc tiller immediately after harvest, then a tool bar cultivator four or five times on heavier land. LaVern Wagner, U. S. Soil Conservation Service worker, says there is better wind erosion control, soil structure and internal drainage on the Benoit farm as a result of these practices. Benoit also says he now has better weed, quack grass and wild oats control than before.

Soil Plan Raises Yields

Corn and hay yields soared on the Gust Degastino farm after Degastino established a soil and water conservation plan in 1950 and adopted a sound fertility program. The Degastino farm is in the Washington county soil conservation district. Helping with this plan were Francis Paulson and Orval Barker, SCS technicians. Corn yields went from 60 to 90 bushels after the new plan was put into effect and hay yields were boosted from 2-3½ tons per acre.



Canned vitamin talk
Any day now a door-to-door peddler may ring your bell and try to sell you some vitamins or nutritional supplements. He will be very convincing because he's a trained salesman. But keep this in mind. It is quite unlikely that your physician would ever prescribe his product. No matter what the peddler says, chances are, he lacks professional knowledge of what he's selling. So, if you need vitamin preparations (your physician is the best judge) get them from a registered pharmacist. Then you know what you're getting and you get your money's worth every time.

TELL US YOUR PROBLEM

TODAY'S PROBLEM: the Nation's Problem

IT IS obvious that criminals have little fear of the laws of our country. It also is obvious that our citizenry who unquestionably, if not alarmed, at least are concerned over the multiplication of crimes committed on the young and the middleaged and the elderly, any one of whom reading this column may shortly be subjected to some sort of assault or robbery.

It is, furthermore, obvious that most of us do nothing about it. Letters from those who are in a position of influence simply "pass the buck." Here are a few quotations from some of them:

An earnest worker in mines matters in his town:

"Until we correct graft from which much crime stems, little can be done."

So be dismisses the matter.

A letter from a member of Congress of the United States:

"Replying to your request that more interest be shown by our lawmakers on the subject of crime, I enclose herewith a printed pamphlet of the Department of Justice."

As you will guess, this was generalization of crime conditions.

From a Judge in New York City:

"Lessening of crime will depend entirely upon the people; what the people will to happen eventually does happen.

He, too, threw the responsibility back on you and me.

If there are enough readers interested in this subject, this column will go further into the subject and tell here how other countries of the world have managed to reduce crime to the point that one mother of our acquaintance says she is far more fearful of leaving her children at home, or letting them out on the streets, in our Land of Liberty—our United States—that she ever was in any European country.

Paper Mill Sells 2,000,000 Gallons of Road Binder

Over two million gallons of a paper mill by-product were applied to roads and streets of nearby communities this year, William H. Schlafge, general manager of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper company's specialty paper and insulite mill at International Falls, said today.

Used as a low-cost stabilizer for gravel and dirt roads, the amber-colored by-product of the wood pulping process resulted in savings of about $250 per mile per year to city and county governments.

The program, now three years old, has resulted in the application of over 7.8 million gallons of road binder, covering about 4 million square yards of roads and streets in Minnesota and Ontario.

Besides lowering road building and maintenance costs, the product reduces dust and permits the use of lower grade aggregates.

Formerly a waste material, road binder has proven to be an economical way to improve and stabilize dirt roads, Mr. Schlafge said.

Others of this lively quartet are Polly Fenske, Oleta McCuskey, Fannie Fletcher . . . At Winnebago George Andrews, on two good legs, and Will Lobb from a wheel chair, are lively shuffleboard opponents.

NOSE FOR MOONLIGHT

By Don Wood

"OH, come now, Tessie. You don't really believe those yarns, do you?"

Tessie Engel turned a hurt look toward the young man beside her.

"Course I do. Pop wouldn't lie, would he?"

Jim Samuels turned his palms upward and tried to explain.

"They aren't lies, Tessie. It is just that Old Pop has told those tales so long that he believes them himself."

The slim honey-haired island girl turned aloof.

"Your boat is waiting. You'd better go. Goodby, Jim."

Jim Samuels stood in the bow of the little ferry and let the wind tear at his face. He glumly reviewed his past week here on Pond Island.

It had been his vacation. He had sought a spot where the calm of nothingness could wipe away the tensions of his past year in the news room of the Chronicle.

Right from the start he and Tessie Engel had become good friends. Together they had hunted seashells along the reefs, and sat by driftwood fires on the beach in the moonlight. He could still feel the slenderness of her young body as she shivered against him after a late evening swim.

Together they had roasted chestnuts in front of her fireplace while her grandfather, Pop Engel, told tall tales of days that used to be. One tale in particular still rung in Jim's ears.

"Hunting aint what it used to be," the old man had said, stuffing his pipe and leaning back expansively. "Recall the winter the geese were so thick down here we had to rig a scarecrow on the lighthouse so's the boats could navigate. One time I went hunting in the moonlight when you could see plain as day. Had my muzzle loader along that time. Somehow, the ramrod got jammed in the barrel. Well, sir, a flight of Canadas came over before I got it out. Decided to shoot anyway. When that ramrod came down there were two big geese skewered on it, all ready for the roasting fire."

Jim had enjoyed the tales immensely. The trouble was, Tessie had known no other world. Raised here since a tot by her grandfather, she had come to accept his every word as fact. Jim suspected she clung to his tales stubbornly afraid to discover that her only parent could be telling a yarn.

Jim slammed his fist on the rail of the ferry. It was useless. A girl like that, lovely and tender though she be, could not live in the cold real world that surrounded a newsman.

It was late on Friday when Jim gave up his fight. He threw clothing into a bag, and caught the last ferry to Pond Island.

As he had expected, Tessie and old Pop sat on the dock watching the boat tie up. It was one of the few excitements for this remote spot. The old man was the first to spot Jim.

"Back again, eh?"

"Yep." Jim busied himself with his bag.

"Forget something?"

"Yep."

"What did you lose?"

Jim flipped his bag to the dock, and hunched down upon it.

"Lost my nose for news," he said soberly.

"So?"

"Yep. Had it when I came over here on vacation. Funny thing about news noses. When you get them out in the moonlight they often just up and get lost."

Old Pop looked hard and long at Jim. A furrow appeared in his forehead. He slowly lit his pipe, eyeing Jim over the top of the match.

"Good moon tonight for looking for it."

Jim looked at Tessie and her grandfather. He grinned.

"Yep."

Pop Engel slid an arm around Tessie's waist. He looked down at the blonde girl beside him.

By studying the scales of rainbow trout, scientists can tell how old the fish is; whether it lived in a stream or a lake, and how long; and, if the trout is a female, how often it has spawned. Growth rings resembling those of a tree provide the information.

T.R.F. Schools Set Record Budget

Local Taxes for School Purposes Will Be Increased

The board of education of the Thief River Falls school district, at its October session Monday evening, adopted a record-breaking budget for the upkeep of the local schools for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1958.

The budget as approved contemplates disbursements for the year of $989,513, exclusive of capital outlay of $496,504 for completion of new school buildings and equipment. This figure compares with last year's disbursements of $723,679.59, exclusive of $885,180.77 spent on buildings and equipment, and represents an increase in outlays of $266,000.

The budget for administration, teachers' salaries, plant operation and maintenance and instructional supplies was set at $767,585, sharply higher than the past year's expenditures of $550,787.61.

A total of $60,115 was allotted for the school lunch and health programs and veterans' training, compared with $52,286.79 spent last year. For transportation, a total of $51,700 was allocated for the current year, compared with $37,443.89 last year, and debt service was increased from $71,939.32 last year to $97,513.

Receipts during the coming year were estimated at $1,022,176 exclusive of revenue from sale of bonds, this figure comparing with last year's revenue of $776,063.06, also exclusive of bond sales. Of the total receipts, local taxes will make up $367,100, compared to $253,053.10 last year.

From state and federal sources, the district expects to receive $520,476 this year, compared to $377,802.90 last year, while the county is expected to supply $80,000, compared to $89,770.93 last year.

The rate of the tax levy to raise the local contribution to the huge budget will not be available until after the state has established the tax ratios for the district, which covers a large part of Pennington county and extends north into Marshall county.

Sugar Beet Test Plot Yields at Rate of 19.4 Tons Per Acre Here

A sugar beet trial in Pennington County produced an outstanding crop this year, according to County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

The beets were harvested Monday, October 14. The yield from one fifteenth of an acre was 860 pounds. On an acre basis this would be 43,000 pounds or twenty-one and one half tons. With nine percent dockage for dirt the yield would be 19.4 tons per acre of clean sugar beets.

The seed used in the trial was obtained from the Crystal Beet Sugar Co. at Crookston and is a numbered variety 58-801-00. A sample of the seed will be sent in to the University of Minnesota for sugar content analysis. The date of the planting was May 14. Only 75 pounds of complete fertilizer was used in the trial.

The sugar beets were grown on the Art Rambeck farm two miles west and one mile north of Thief River Falls. The soil type is classified as Rocksbury by the soil technicians. This soil is a silty clay loam and was developed from calcareous clay loam till, sometimes known just as a "heavy" or "clay" soil.

Don Lawrence of the soil conservation service and Arnt Aune, area agriculture vocational instructor assisted with the sugar beet project.

County Boards Discuss Their Problems Here

40 Commissioners from 10 Counties at Wednesday Meeting

Approximately 40 county commissioners and engineers from 10 northwest Minnesota counties attended a conference held Wednesday afternoon in the district courtroom in the county court house.

Among those who spoke to the assembled commissioners were Alfin Hanson, 9th district chairman of the county commissioners' association from Polk county, who presided at the meeting; Ralph Keyes, executive secretary of the state association of county commissioners; and Carl Larson, district highway engineer of Bemidji.

Purpose of the meeting was to discuss problems facing county boards. The first speaker, Don Balzer of the game and fish division of the state conservation department discussed the bounty system in Minnesota and stated that over $1½ million was spent on bounty payments on fox and wolves without achieving satisfactory predator control.

Balzer stated that some states have discontinued the bounty system of predator control because of it great expense and ineffectiveness and added that some Minnesota counties have done likewise, among them Kittson county in northwest Minnesota. (The local sportsman's club has gone on record as being opposed to bounty payments and has so notified the Pennington county board).

In his address to the commissioners Larson discussed state aid grants to counties and communities for local road use. Changes in the law made by the last legislature were discussed, concerning use of funds from the various sources.

Keyes dwelt at some length county commissioners, some of which came about through action of the last session of the legislature and others which have been coming to a head with the passing of time.

He also outlined action taken by the legislature giving county commissioners more authority in solution of many of their affairs. The commissioners will have to take the initiative under this "home rule" enactment, he said, adding that the purpose was to let the commissioners have a greater voice in local government, eliminating the necessity of taking so many of the more

Many Matters Take Council's Time Tuesday

Army Engineers to Study Silt Problem in Rivers Friday

A large variety of business was disposed of Tuesday evening by the city council at its regular October session, and it was indicated that final action on the city budget for 1958 would be taken at an adjourned session next week.

Building permits calling for a stated outlay of $32,400 were approved. Major projects, in addition to a half-dozen private garages, include the replacing of the present Land O' Lakes truck garage at Atlantic av. and Second st., a Soo Line garage at Atlantic av. and Twelfth st., and a house to be built by Clarence Benston at 512 Markley av. s.

The council was advised that representatives of the corps of army engineers would spend Friday morning in this area making a survey of the siltation problem in the river pool here and upstream. Following a tour with local officials, they will have lunch here and will then go to Red Lake Falls.

After considering the one bid received, the council voted to purchase an accounting machine to expedite the work in the city clerk's office from the Burroughs Corp. at a net price of $4,309.60.

Looking ahead to the Christmas season, the Chamber of Commerce, represented by G. A. Frahm and C. R. Walders, requested an appropriation of $500 to assist in financing the extension of decorative street lighting for the holidays. After some discussion, the council voted $400 for the purpose.

Appearing in behalf of the recreation board, Bill LaFave discussed a plan to create an outdoor hockey rink 85 by 185 feet in size on city property south of the Model laundry. He asked the council to pay $300 of the cost, with the understanding that an additional $200 would come from the local hockey club. LaFave added that the present smaller rink on the old Central school site would be retained for public skating, with the arena rink being used largely for high school hockey and public skating. The council granted the request.

City Engineer Douglas Stewart reported that the work of converting the municipal power

Hospital Seeks to Have Section for Chronic Patients

Applies to State Board of Health for Permit to Make Necessary Changes

At a meeting of the board of directors of Northwestern hospital Monday night, Harold W. Peterson, administrator, was instructed to make application to the state board of health for authority to set aside a section of the building for the treatment of chronic patients.

This action was taken pursuant to the recommendations of Dr. Robert N. Barr, secretary of the state board of health, and Dr. Helen N. Knudsen, director of the division of hospital services, at a meeting here last week.

The hospital will continue to operate primarily for the treatment of acute cases, it was explained, and it is not the intention that any portion of the building should be converted into a home for nursing care.

It is hoped that by making a part of the hospital available for chronic cases that may be helped by physical therapy, a much-needed service can be provided for this area.

Some remodeling probably will be required before such a program can be started.
